Nittany Mountain.

A. W. Garver has gone to Pittsburg to work.

E. M. Houser sold his rock oak bark to Noll Bros. at Pleasant Gap, who are shipping it.

Every body on the mountain took in Decoration at Centre Hall, except Tole Noll, who decorated in his potato patch.

How about that farmer who penned out the wrong hog; better look closer next time.

Newton Garver was working several days for Dr. Lee last week.

C. B. Houser is having his barn roof painted; John Garver and J. B. Sprow are the artists who handle the paint brush, but it is a poor paint to paint ones face with.

Nearly every one is through planting corn, except Aaron Lutz, who is not done plowing yet.

Sammel Bruss helped J. B. Sprow plow his potato ground Monday.

Mrs. Kate Horner bought the Guiseville homestead last week and contemplates making extensive repairs on same.

MEMORIAL DAY AT SPRING MILLS.

Interesting Services—Songs and Addresses—The Dead.

The services in Spring Mills on Memorial Day were of a very interesting character. Early in the day the old veterans were moving to and fro making preparations to visit the cemetery. Flags and the national colors were displayed at all the places of business and many of the private residences. At nine o'clock accompanied by a large body of the K. G. E. the old veterans, whose numbers are growing less day by day, entered the cemetery and quietly decorated the graves of their comrades, who now lie sleeping beneath the church yard sod.

The services in the church were decidedly interesting. A duet, "Shed a Tear," by Mrs. R. G. Kenneley and Mrs. Margaret Ruhl, commenced the exercises, followed with prayer by Dr. D. M. Wolf. The solo by Miss Renna Shires, "Comrades are falling," was rendered in a beautiful manner and with much feeling. Rev. McInay then delivered a very appropriate address; the reverend speaker is a very able and fluent orator. "The Blue and the Gray," sang by Miss Renna Shires and Mrs. Margaret Ruhl was charming, and the ladies deserve especial praise for the beautiful manner in which they rendered this well known song. "Honor the Stars and Stripes," by a quartette was another fine song. The exercises were decidedly the best ever gotten up in Spring Mills on Memorial Day.

The following is a list of the dead:

SCHOOL YEAR CLOSES.

No Debt—Total Surplus $116.28—The Tax Rate.

The fiscal school year closed Monday, June 1. The auditors' statement, which appears elsewhere in detailed form, shows that the entire indebtedness for school purposes has been wiped out, and that there is a surplus of $116.28. The expenditures form a column that may well be studied, and it is the only item in the statement to which the board can not look with pride.

It may be safely said that the tax rate can be reduced from eight mills to six and one half, which latter sum represents the millage laid for school purposes for the past few years. In other words, the building tax millage, which is one and one-half mills, can be dispensed with.

The reorganization of the board will take place the latter part of this week. The personnel of the board does not change.

LOCALS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Stuart, of Tyrone, are guests of Dr. and Mrs. George Lee. P. Gross Yearick, of Philadelphia, is expected to arrive in Centre Hall Friday.

A. M. Brown, of Pennsylvania Furnace, this week received a car load of blooded horses and cattle.

Harvey Wert, of near Murray's school house, Brush Valley, is suffering greatly from sciatic rheumatism.

The Bolsburg Lutheran Sunday school will hold a social Friday evening at the home of E. K. Smith, Oak Hall.

The address of Ellis L. Orvis, Esq., delivered at Pine Hall on Memorial Day is receiving much favorable comment.

Miss Romie Van Pelt last week entertained Miss Harris, Mr. Harris and her brother, John Van Pelt, of Bellefonte.

A young son of Lewis Sunday, east of Centre Hall, is ill with scarlet fever. An older son has just recovered from the same disease.

Charles Duck, son of M. M. Duck, of Spring Mills, came home from Clearfield, and is now seriously ill with typhoid fever.

John Reish, of Centre Hall, and Miss Myrtle Barnhart, of Oak Hall, were married Tuesday in Williamsport. Congratulations.

Roland Kerr, of Chicago, Tuesday went to New York to remain for a week. He will return to Centre Hall before going back to Chicago.

Earl C. Musser has secured the agency for the crystal butter packages for the townships of College and Ferguson from E. K. Smith, Oak Hall.

The fire company is elated over the nominal rental charged by Progress Grange for the use of the hall Saturday evening. The sum was but $1.00.

Mrs. Jane Marshall and son William, and the latter's family, all of Pittsburg, this (Thursday) afternoon are expected to arrive at the home of Mrs. Maggie Harper, in this place.

D. H. Myers, of Tusseyville, presented the Reporter with a young ground hog that isn't as much of a hog as you'd think. He is a genteel little fellow, and aside from his grin is all o. k.

O. S. Wright, of Yeagertown, who is employed in the machine shops of the Standard Steel Works, was a caller Wednesday. He came to his former home Saturday and will remain until next Saturday.

Miss Mazie Foster, of Aaronsburg, visited among friends in Centre Hall beginning of this week. She was accompanied to Aaronsburg by Mrs. Phoebe Yearick, who will remain at that place until Friday.

G. H. Hubbard, of Williamsport, on Tuesday was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Wilson. Mr. Hubbard was principal of the Unionville public schools for several years, and for six years taught in south Williamsport.

Rev. H. H. Ryland, in delivering his lecture, uses a high grade stereopticon and nearly one hundred pictures are thrown upon the screen, making it one of the most interesting and impressive ever heard. Lecture in the Presbyterian church, Friday evening, 12th inst. Tickets on sale at the Star store.

Simon King, landlord of the Musser house, Millheim, Monday went to Philadelphia to have an operation performed on one of his eyes, which was done, and since he has suffered greatly and is confined to bed. Mr. King, when a boy, injured one of his eyes and lost the sight of it. The member being dead affected the other eye, and it became necessary to remove it in order to preserve the sight.

The Penn Hall band which furnished music for the Memorial services Saturday afternoon and the fire company in the evening, delighted all. The band is composed of model young men, who take their good manners with them when they go away from home. The band came here for a money consideration, but they are credited with having left more cash here than they took with them. Much of the success of the fire company's entertainment is due to the good services rendered by the Penn Hall band.

CENTRE COUNTY IN THE CIVIL WAR.

very small, ancient country hamlet bearing a very desolate appearance and seeming almost depopulated. There were numerous marks and graves showing the battle field of Gainesville.

Unnumbered skulls and bones were lying all around. Skulls, arms and legs of half buried soldiers were seen protruding from the ground. Skeletons were seen with shoes on and accoutrements in place, a shocking sight. On the field of Gainesville the dead remained unburied in greater numbers than on any other field.

Hay Market, also the scene of battle, judging by the ruins must have been quite a nice little town. But standing in the centre of the great arena of the two contending and devastating armies—fire, the ever present element of war, laid in ruins this apparently erstwhile beautiful town. Nothing remained to tell the passer-by of its existence, save only the many high chimneys around which the winds moaned as if to sigh a requiem for this ill fated town. And as we viewed the ruins over we wondered as to the fate of the former residents.

A strange condition of unrest, uncertainty and uneasiness seemed to burden the very air and fill every breast. All sorts of rumors were circulating. At 10 a. m. June 25th picket firing started the camp. The roar of artillery was heard a few miles out.

Instantly there was great commotion. We packed up in great haste, and formed in battle order; later we moved out to Hay Market and again formed battle lines.

Gen. Stuart's cavalry of the Confederate Army now reached the slope of the Bull Run Mountains, just below Thoroughfare Gap, and opened a brisk artillery fire on us. Our batteries were hurried forward and opened a terrific fire in return. After a short fight the enemy's guns were silenced. We had about a dozen killed and wounded; the 148th had no casualties.

For a while it looked like the opening of the great battle which we knew was so near. The question now was, were we to fight a third "Bull Run" battle? Quiet settled over the plain, a mile away the Head Quarter bugle sounded the "Recall." We moved out in column and resumed the march, the 148th P. V. in front, companies A and I as skirmishers and flankers, in advance. We moved cautiously yet rapidly through steady rain and deep mud, twenty miles, to Gum Springs, which we reached about midnight and bivouacked in the mud. We lay on our rubbers, foot-sore and tired, wet from head to feet, hungry and dirty, to await the coming of morning, assured however that we had not yet reached the chosen battle-field.

During the forenoon we crossed the northern part of the famous Bull Run battle-field, passing Sudley church, Sudley Sulphur Springs, and crossed Bull Run at Sudley Ford.

All available roads, highways and byways and new roads were taken. The recollection of the Bull Run battles inspired caution. Not knowing how much of the Confederate army was in the vicinity about us, the Division moved well closed up and ready for fight.

Ambulance, ammunition, artillery and supply trains moving on the inner roads; infantry columns moved on the outer roads, assuring protection to all trains.

The Bull Run country is extremely rough, dreadfully cut up by deep ravines and abounding in high bluffs heavily timbered.

The pioneers cleared an old road over the spurs of Sudley Mountain, south west of Sudley Mills, for the Artillery; it rained all day and the mud was something appalling. Trains were moved with the greatest difficulty.

The light Artillery made out to pull through this new mud road, but when the heavy thirty-two pounder long Parrot Gun battery came on, the movement stopped. The first gun stuck in the mud axle deep, at the foot of a big hill, in dense oak timber.

Teams from other guns were brought forward and hooked on till twenty-four horses were hooked to the one gun, but they could not, or would not move it.

The nearest column of Infantry was halted, and the 148th P. V. was ordered over to help them out. We went over, stacked arms, threw off knapsacks and accoutrements. The horses were all taken away and a heavy rope, one hundred and fifty feet long was fastened to the gun. The Regiment lined up in the road, which was a stream of mud, for which, however, they cared not, as no more mud could hang to their shoes or pant legs and the shoe tops were already full.

With some grumbling, the men lazily took hold of the rope from both sides. All ready, and the word came to go! Immediately the rope straightened out and slowly the cannon moved rising high on root or rock, this side or that, or both, to plunge down again axle deep in mud, the axles loudly pounding in the boxes. There was no halt till the top of the bluff was reached. In this way gun after gun was drawn up by the 148th P. V. till the entire battery stood on top of the hill.

The horses, six to a gun, were again

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up often during the night, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both None of Swamp-Root sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

hooked on, the Regiment returned to its place in the column and all was once more on the move.

Friday, June 26th. It mattered not that we were greatly fatigued and sore all over. We were called out before daybreak, had coffee and crackers and resumed the march, which was kept up spasmodically, through mud and rain all day and nearly all of that dark and rainy night. We crossed the Potomac at Edward's Ferry, into Maryland, by pontoon bridge and bivouacked near Poolsville, Maryland, at two o'clock in the morning of June 27th, after having made a fatiguing, meandering march of twenty miles.

His Last Hope Realized. (From the Sentinel, Gett., Mont.)

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1890, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping up bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure, and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggest this item. For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.
