The spacious store building and residence, recently erected by Wm. Pealer on the site formerly occupied by his store room, then occupied by Howard F. The buildings are just fin- returned to her home on Sunday. ished and will again be occupied by Mr. Rossman. The property is a very decided improvement and adds greatly to the appearance of the entire neighborhood, and is also a credit to Mr. Pealer. The main building is a very imposing structure, being three stories high, and sided with steel sheeting in imitation of brick. The dwelling which adjoins is similarly sided, both presenting a very handsome and attractive appearance. The store room is 63x22 exclusive of the wareroom, which is 14x22, and is located in the rear with all the necessary conveniences for receiving and delivery of merchandise. The store room is handsomely papered throughout, excepting the ceiling which is corrugated steel sheeting painted in a very delicate shade of blue. The room is lighted by three lay down windows 24x60 and two immense windows in front 14 feet by 8. The shelving, cases and massive counters are in natural wood, oiled and polished like a mirror. The upper flooring is partitioned off into three large rooms handsomely papered and carpeted. The dwelling has also three rooms used as bed rooms, and on the first floor is a sitting room, dining room and kitchen. Both buildings have many conveniences not necessary to especially enumerate. Mr. Rossman has occupied the dwelling about two weeks, and is now moving his stock from the old postoffice building to the new store room, together with the large stock he purchased while in the city a week ago. Mr. Rossman can congratulate himself upon occupying a building which for

An essay on "The Boston Newspapers" in the Bookman throws some light on the development of the modern editerial. The earlier newspapers had no editorials. Attempts to mold public opinion took the form of letters signed "Publius," "Junius" and like Latin
