

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a writ of Fieri Facias, issued out of the Court of Common Pleas of Centre county, and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale, at the Court House, in the borough of Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, on MONDAY, AUGUST 24, 1903, 1 P. M. the following described real estate...

Public Sale of Penn's Cave—Will be sold at public sale at the Court House in Bellefonte, Pa. that certain messuage, tenement and tract of land situated in Gregg Township, Centre county, Pa., three miles north of Spring Mills, on the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroads...

Wednesday, August 12, 1903, 10 A. M. (Tract No. 1 sold July 1.) TRACT NO. 2, PENN'S CAVE. Beginning at a stone in the public road leading to Farmer's Mills, thence along said road and land of George Long north 61 1/2 degrees east 48 perches to stones, thence north 25 1/2 degrees east 20 perches to stones, thence south 12 degrees west 12 perches to stones, thence south 25 1/2 degrees east 20 perches to the place of beginning, containing 6 acres more or less, together with all the privileges in and under the ground as to forty persons...

DESCRIPTION OF PENN'S CAVE Penn's Cave is a beautiful summer resort, situated three miles from Spring Mills, on the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroads. The Cave itself is a subterranean cavern fully one-fourth mile in length, the interior of which surpasses description. The walls are lined and decorated with myriads of stalactites, and the projecting irregular rocks are studded with stalagmites. Penn's Creek, which empties into the west branch of the Susquehanna river below Sunbury, rises at the mouth of the Cave. The crystal, pure water flows through the Cave and can be navigated by a boat, carrying from twenty to forty passengers, the entire length of the Cave. The Cave ends abruptly, the outlet being only large enough to carry away the water. The entrance of the Cave is gained by descending numerous easy steps. The Cave has been guarded against vandals ever since its discovery, more than a hundred years ago, and thus remains in its natural beauty.

Penn's Cave Hotel is a frame structure 30x52 ft., three stories in height, with a full kitchen, 16x24 feet; stable, 35x55 feet. The buildings stand immediately over the Cave. The location is strictly rural; the climate is all that could be desired, hunting and fishing nearby. This property will be sold at a price that should enlist the interest of speculators. It is peculiarly suited for a well-appointed summer resort, a gentleman's place or home for a club. The tract contains six acres of land, and is so situated to give every needed access to the cave proper. The description is not adequate. The place must be seen to be appreciated. Terms: Ten per cent. of purchase money to be paid on day of sale, the balance of one-third of purchase money to be paid on confirmation of sale, one-third in one year, and the balance in two years, with interest, the deferred payments to be secured by bond and mortgage on the premises. LEWIS KORMAN, Adm'r. JESS LONO, Farmers Mills, Pa. Orvis, Bower & Orvis, Att'ys, Bellefonte, Pa.

LOCALS. Leslie Shilling, of Shinglehouse, is at present in Centre Hall, stopping with Lou Sunday.

Mrs. Derstine, wife of Jacob Derstine, of Freeport, Illinois, has been ill at her home for some time.

Miss Estie Krumbine, who for some time had been in Philadelphia with her aunt, is home again.

Mrs. Elmer Noll and daughter, of Lewisburg, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Emerick, in this place.

The county officials have decided to observe the Saturday half holiday, and hereafter the court house will be minus officials on Saturday afternoons.

Mrs. Musser, of Ohio, mother of I. V. Musser, is visiting her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Musser, who at present is at the home of her parents, in this place.

Messrs. Calvin Bottorf and Levi Stump, of Colyer, were callers Saturday. They came to town that day to attend a meeting of Progress Grange.

Rev. M. S. Derstine, of the Dillsburg Methodist church, will fill the appointment in the United Evangelical church, in Centre Hall, Sunday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Black, of Boalsburg, recently made a trip through Huntingdon and Blair counties. While in Altoona, Rev. Black filled the appointment of Rev. Robb.

W. M. Houser, of near Pleasant Gap, called Friday of last week. He is a young man of good qualities, and one who deems it next to a crime to read a newspaper the subscription to which is not paid in advance. Mr. Houser, by the way, has never read an issue of the Reporter that was not paid for.

Miss Annie Eckley, aged thirteen, of Yarnell, while swinging in the barn at her home met with a serious mishap. A grain cradle which was hanging above her head fell, cutting the end of her nose almost off and inflicting other severe cuts about the face. She was taken to the Bellefonte hospital for treatment.

Rev. and Mrs. M. S. Derstine and daughter Marguerite, of Dillsburg, Tuesday were arrivals at the home of Mrs. Sarah Derstine, in this place. Rev. Derstine is serving a Methodist parastate at that point. They will spend some time at Lewistown, Mrs. Derstine's former home, before returning to York county.

John K. Glenn and wife, of Altoona, stopped with Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. A. Kennedy last week. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn were married in May, and the former being employed in the railroad office, their honeymoon trip was postponed until recently, when they went to Atlantic City, Philadelphia, and on their return stopped here as above mentioned.

The members of the Methodist church have adopted a novel method of collecting funds by holding a series of socials, one of which was held Tuesday night. Part of the evening is devoted to literary exercises, after which light refreshments are served, and then follows a period for social intercourse, including games. Ten cents is the price, after you get an invitation from some good friend in the Methodist church.

John Beckwith Drowned. The dead body of John Beckwith, of Hannah Furnace, Tuesday morning was found in a creek near his house. Mr. Beckwith was ill with typhoid fever, and while his wife was preparing breakfast the man escaped from the house unobserved and committed the deed.

Mr. Beckwith was aged about fifty years, and was a merchant and postmaster at Hannah Furnace.

Linden Hall. James Kimport and nieces, Misses Betty and Ida, returned Monday from a short visit to friends at Millheim.

Mrs. Elmer Houtz spent a few days last week among friends about Linden Hall.

Mrs. Sarah Moore, an aged lady, died Tuesday morning at her home in Boalsburg.

The United Evangelical Sunday school will hold a festival at Linden Hall in the evening of Aug. 15th.

Mrs. J. W. Keller and son Harry spent Sunday with friends at Rock Springs.

Mr. Leitzel, who is in the employ of the Linden Hall Lumber Co. at Sunbury, visited his brother last week at Linden Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Jodon, of Pleasant Gap; Professor S. C. Miller and wife, of Philadelphia, were guests at the home of Frank Wieland Sunday and Monday of this week.

Mrs. William Meyer and Mrs. I. V. Musser drove up from Centre Hall Tuesday to spend the day with Mrs. J. H. Ross.

M. THIERS AT HOME.

The Peculiar Habits of the Missionary's Daily Life.

The daily life of Thiers was very peculiar. He rose always at a very early hour, about 5 o'clock in the morning, seldom later. After a cup of coffee and a light repast he would work steadily for many hours. Then he usually took a walk or would perhaps play a game of tennis before breakfast, which meal was served at the usual French hour. Then he would speak to his friends and go out for a drive, sometimes pay visits and return a little after 4, when he went regularly to bed and slept till it was time to get ready for dinner. For some extraordinary reason his dinner hour was 7:30, and he was very punctual. After dinner he always slept for twenty minutes or half an hour and then would remain up chatting and talking to a late hour. His brightest moment was always subsequent to his after dinner sleep. No one could be more agreeable in conversation, more easy or natural or more ready to impart information without being prolix. He was a true Provencal in all his tastes and habits. He loved the bright sun of his native Provence. He thoroughly appreciated the peculiar charm of the coast near Marseilles, the beauty of the gray olive groves and the smile of the Mediterranean. He preferred the dishes of Provence to almost any others. He used to mix oil liberally with his food, and I remember at a dinner at the Duchesse Galliera's of a fair sized bottle of oil was specially placed next his plate, and he consumed it all.—Cornhill Magazine.

Puzzled the Professors. An amusing joke was practiced upon the examiners at Cambridge, says a London paper. It had been said that the examination in mathematics had been becoming far too difficult, and very real complaints had arisen from tutors. To the astonishment of the university, all the eighteen or so solutions appeared on the day before the examination in the Granta, "worked out, we believe, by our office boy." How the miracle was performed remained a secret until it had been sufficiently wondered at. The editor of the Granta had secured the services of a number of recent senior wranglers, who in privacy had deliberately set to work to master the problems which the university dons had been concocting for months past. The task had to be accomplished within twenty-four hours, and the printers were up all night setting the solutions in type. Naturally the Granta sold by the thousand that week.

How He Got It. A good story is told about a former member of the Missouri legislature. Before his election he was chronically "broke." When he returned from Jefferson City, he exhibited $500 in gold, crisp greenbacks. Some of his friends "jollied" him about his prosperity. "You didn't have a cent when you went to the legislature, did you, Jones?" said one of them. "Not a blamed cent," said Jones. "As a matter of fact I lent you half your railroad fare, didn't I?" "I believe you did."

"Well, you were down in Jefferson City about forty days. You got $3 a day. Now, what the gang wants to know is how you managed to save $500 out of a total income of $200."

"Come closer," whispered Jones, "and I'll tell you how I did it. I had my washing done at home."—Kansas City Journal.

Remarkable Luck. In GOD I BELIEVE. In 1877, one of the mining losses—Tule by name—had trouble with some of the laborers in his mine. One night three of them attacked him in a barroom. Two of them flung him down, while a third stood over him with a revolver. The muzzle almost touched his stomach. Once, twice, three, a fourth and a fifth time the weapon snapped. Tule closed his eyes. Each moment he expected to be his last. The disgusted ruffian threw his disappointing weapon on the floor, with an oath, and, joined by his aids, left the place. Tule wiped the cold sweat from his brow, mechanically picked up the discarded weapon, went to the door and fired off every charge, remarking that it was just his luck.

European and American Oysters. The oysters of America and Europe differ greatly. European oysters are smaller and have a coppery taste. Our southern oysters are larger than the northern. They are dredged along the coast and transferred to oyster beds in creeks close to shore, where they fatten. In London oyster salesmen sometimes keep oysters for a few days in water to which oatmeal has been added, for the purpose of rendering them more delicate and of better flavor. When out of season—during spawning time—the oyster is soft and milky and not fit to be eaten.

The Cook Stays. Mrs. Newbridge—How does Mrs. Henry Peck manage to keep that cook of hers? Mrs. Oldhand—She threatened to leave, but Mrs. Peck would not give a recommendation, and she wouldn't go without one, and they are both stubborn.—Judge.

Tact. "It is difficult to say what tact is," Archbishop Langley replied when asked to define it. "Here, however, is an instance of what it is not: I once wrote to me, in consideration of your grace's many ingratitude and falling powers, that was not tactful."

The Vivacious One. "The word 'vivacious,' said the cynical codger, "is the polite social term for 'gabby.'"—Baltimore Herald.

HOW A COLT GROWS.

From Ungainliness He Develops Grace and Beauty.

The development of a spindly legged colt into a full grown horse is an interesting process to watch. In "Horses Nine" the author describes an instance in this way:

And an unhandsome colt he was. His broomstick legs seemed twice the proper length, and so thin you would hardly have believed they could ever carry him. His head, which somehow suggested the lines of a bootjack, was set awkwardly on an ewed neck.

In time the slender legs thickened, the chest deepened, the barrel filled out, the head became less ungainly. As if to make up for these improvements, the colt's markings began to set. They took the shapes of a saddle stripe, three white stockings and an irregular white blaze covering one side of his face and patching an eye. On chest and belly the mother sorrel came out rather sharply, but on the rest of him was that peculiar blending which gives the blue roan shade, a color unpleasing to the critical eye and one that lowers the market value.

The Death of Kenith. The death of Kenith, the half mythical king of Scotland, was one of the most remarkable in all history—that is, if it can consistently be called a historical fact. According to the story, Kenith had killed a son and brother of the warlike Fennella. She for revenge caused Wiltus, the most ingenious artist of the time, to fashion an automatic death dealing machine, a wonderful statue filled with hidden springs, levers, etc. When finished and set up, this "brazen image" was an admirable work of art. In its right hand it held a basin and in the left an apple of pure gold, both set with diamonds and other precious stones. To touch this apple was to dare death, it being so arranged that one guilty of such vandalism would be immediately riddled by poisoned arrows shot from loopholes in the body of the statue. Kenith was invited to come and inspect the wonder, and king-like and just as Fennella had hoped he tried to pluck the precious imitation fruit. The moment his hand touched the incrustated jewel he was filled with poisoned arrows, dying where he fell.

How He Escaped. Not long ago an English curate surprised his parishioners by marrying a widow considerably older than himself. The astonishment was still greater when the cause was known. The curate had become engaged to a young girl whose frivolous conduct soon led him to regret the step. He offered a settlement for his release, but it was refused. He endeavored in every way to break the engagement, but without success.

"Is there nothing I can do to escape this?" he exclaimed one day in despair. "Yes," remarked the girl's mother, who was present and who had been the prime mover in the marriage negotiations, "by marrying me."

The curate decided, if he had to marry one of the two, he preferred the mother and accepted her. The young girl soon married a wealthy stockbroker.

Nightcaps. For external application the nightcap is rarely seen. It is first mentioned during the time of the Tudors. In the inventory of Henry VIII's wardrobe we come across the following item: "A nightcap of black velvet embroidered." No wonder, with such gearing, that, as Shakespeare suggests, "Uneasy rests the head that wears a crown." Poor old Bishop Latimer was not content with one nightcap. Fox in his "Book of Martyrs" describes him as follows: "He held his hat in his hand, having a handkerchief on his head and upon it a nightcap or two and a great cap, such as townsmen use, with broad flaps to button under his chin." They evidently believed in keeping their heads warm in those days.—Health.

The Danger in Cocaine. The great danger of cocaine lies in the fact that it is the most agreeable and alluring of all narcotics. It causes no mental confusion; only a little more talkativeness than usual. There is no headache or nausea, and the pleasant effects are produced with a comparatively small dose, but symptoms of poisoning are rapidly developed, and within three months of the commencement of the habit there may be marked indications of degeneration, loss of memory, hallucinations and suspicions.—London Lancet.

Soil and Forage Crops. Those states which are noted for the production of forage crops not only have maintained the original fertility of the soil, but they spend for commercial fertilizers less than 1 per cent of the annual value of their crops, while those states which pay least attention to forage crops have impoverished the soil and spend annually for fertilizers from 5 to 9 per cent of the total value of their crops.

Home Appreciation. "It must be a great satisfaction to have such a palatial apartment," said the old time friend. "It is," answered Mr. Cumrox. "It's a heap of comfort to have a house big enough to wander away and get lost in when mother and the gals are giving a musicale or a reception."—Washington Star.

Began Soon. Mrs. Crusty—Do you remember our first quarrel? Mr. Crusty—Let me see. Was that going into the church coming out?

There are more millionaires and more paupers in Moscow than in the whole of England.
