Latest News of Pennsylvania Told in Short Order.

Ignatz Klenent, of Olyphant, 22 years old, accidentally shot and killed his young bride of two weeks in front of his home in that city. Klenent was married two weeks ago and had just re-turned from his wedding trip with his bride, who was but 17 years old. About one o'clock in the afternoon Klenent announced his intention of going out hunting. He picked up his shotgun and kissing his wife good-by started for the gate. She followed him out into the yard and playfully called out: "See if you can shoot me, Ignatz." stopped at the gate and laughed. Then he raised the gun and pointed it at his bride, who stood only six feet away. 'I think I could, Annie," he said. this gun was loaded I'm certain I could For a moment he stood thus and then the gun was discharged. The charge struck the girl in the left temple, killing her instantly. As she fell her husband dropped the gun and bounded to her side. He knelt over her lifeles body and kissed the cheeks wn which the blood was pouring He has been arrested.

The close of business for the month at the State Treasury showed a bal ance of $13,936,191.34 in the genera fund, the largest amount ever held the close of any month, and $700,000 more than at the close of August. During the month $2,000,000 of personal property tax was collected, but threefourths of this will be returned to the counties. Over $4,000,000 was pa out, of which $2,500,000 went to the public schools. The larger corporations are now paying their taxes, and a check was received at the Treasury or $926,000 from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for tax on capital

Four men blew open the safe in the postoffice at Houseville, securing the contents and binding and gagging Dr. John Tyler and James Strait, who inerrupted them in their work. The force of the explosion aroused the town's people, but they were held at bay by the robbers, who fired at them and escaped to the woods in the dark ness. The amount secured by the rob bers will not be known until an inventory is taken. Armed posses of offi-cers and citizens are searching for the

CUMMERCIAL REVIEW

General Trade Conditions.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s "Weekly Review of Trade" says: Notwithstanding several unsatisfactory features the volume of trade continues large, and the distribution of merchandise taxes shipping facilities. Announcement of a concert ed effort to restrict production of pig iron indicates that supplies have begun to accumulate. Railway earnings continue to show gains, for September thus iar exceeding last year's by 8.7 per cent., and those of 1901 by 17.2 per cent.

Traffic blockades occur to some extent, although the movement of farm products is still unseasonably small, New labor controversies have begun, but a number of serious troubles have been averted, and on the whole the number of men idle voluntarily has diminished. Enforced idleness in the iron and steel industry is more than offset by resumption of spindles at cotton Bradstreet's says: Wheat, including flour, exports for the week ending September 24 aggregate 3,050,480 bushels, against 1,909,083 last week, 5,077,070 this week last year, 4.470,352 in 1901 and 3,242,810 in 1900. For twelve weeks of the cereal year they aggregate 36,214,681 bushels, against 59,009,137 in 1902, 74,127,105 in 1901 and 38,743,668 in 1900. Corn exports for the week aggregate 779,230 bushels, against 787,-167 last week, 74,952 a year ago, 585,706 in 1901 and 2,156,171 in 1900. For twelve weeks of the present cereal year they aggregate 11,605,251 bushels, against 991,827 in 1902, 11,224,692 in 1901, and 38,333,118 in 1900.

A plague of white ants is devouring the wooden houses in New Orleans. The profit to the government on pennies pays the entire expenses of the Foreign Banking Methous.

In France or in England, for example, the specie reserves of the whole country are concentrated very largely in the vaults of a central bank, The Bank of France and the Bank of England occupy an independent position, and are dominated by outside interests that can involve them in the fortunes of special enterprises. Sobered and steadled at all times by an appreciation of the enormous moral responsibility that rests upon them, the managers of these institutions adhere to their ultra-conservative policy even when the spirit of speculation is rampant in other financial circles. Against its enormous deposits the Bank of England maintains a cash reserve of over fifty per cent., while the position of the Bank of France is even stronger; when, therefore, other banks experience a demand for ready money, relief can be quickly afforded by these central institutions. And it is only through such conservatism as these banks display in periods of prosperity that they can contribute to the stability in times of stress and storm. When it is remembered that the reserves of the New York banks seldom exceed very greatly the twenty-five per cent. limit which has been established by law and by custom, the contrast between American and French or English conditions becomes at once apparent. For an independent bank, which is free to seek its own safety at the approach of danger, a reserve of twenty-five per cent. should ordinarily prove to be ample; but for institutions that aspire to the rank of central banks such a safeguard must be wholly inadequate.-Prof. Charles J. Bullock in the Atlantic.

No Danger.

The truth is never more convincing than when it "slips out" involuntarily. Generally at such times it has a peculiar charm also, as this incident from the Milwaukee Sentinel sug-

A tattered and forlon young girl of fifteen summers or so entered the office of a real estate man the other day. Ordinarily he is the politest of individuals, but this day he was so busy that he did not know which way to turn. So, with a swift glance out of the corner of his eye, he said, sharply, "Well, what do you want?"

"P-p-p-lease, mister, won't you buy a ticket on our cuckoo-clock?" replied the girl, hesitatingly. "Your cuckoo-clock? What could

I do with a cuckoo-clock even if I should get it?" "Oh, you won't get it, mister. Plea

She Will Keep Her Word.

When Grandmother Pettingill makes up her mind, she is as firm as a rock; nothing can move her. Pershe returned from the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the settlement of Shrubville and made such a determined declaration, no body attempted to influence her.

"I've been there, and it's over with," she said, "and now I'm home safe, after all the noise and bands and scared horses and crying children and men making speeches, I want to tell you one thing. I sha'n't ever go to another centennial in Shrubville, no matter what the circumstances are, and no matter who asks me. You children may as well bear that in mini."

The Cause of His Grief,

The danger of explaining all one's troubles is illustrated by an incident from Chums. A kind hearted old gentleman had found a small boy crying and stopped to see what was the

"Why are you crying, my little lad?" he asked.

"Boohoo!" said the boy. "Billy Wells hit me, an' father hit me because I let Billy hit me, an' Billy Wells hit me again because I told father, an' now father'll hit me again because Billy Wells hit me the second time."

Confusing to the Court.

At a trial before an Irish justice the plaintiff's attorney had made an eloquent and logical argument. When the counsel for the defendant took the floor a dialogue ensued which is thus recorded in "Wit and Humor of Sench and Bar:"

"What are you doing?" asked the justice, as the defendant's counsel bezan his argument. "Going to present our side of the case." "I don't want to hear both sides," replied the justice. "It has a tindincy to confuse the coort."

Spain Brought Us Horses.

The Spaniards were the first to bring horses to this continent, though the paleontologists tells us that the rocks abound with fossils which show hat Equidae were numerous all over America in the Eccene period. It is a singular fact, however, that there were no horses in America when the first Europeans came hither.-The

The Chinese Carpenter.

"Did you ever get a Chinese carpenter to stop up a hole in the floor? asked one flat dweller of another. The other had to admit that he had not. Then the first proceeded to tell his wonderfulstale, which the listener would not believe until he tried an Oriental or the same purpose the next month. There was a worn place in the floor that needed patching, and I thought I'd show my wife what a carpenter I was, so I sawed a square section of the planks out. But I cut my hand the first minute, and had to send for the Chinaman who has a shop right around the corner. When he got to the door he grunted something that sounded as if it might mean 'Where?' and I pointed to the square hole over in a dark

'Wow,' he said as he squinted at it a minute. Then he turned around and walked out. I thought-well, I didn't know what to think, I was so amazed. couldn't understand his giving up such a simple job. I was still puzzling over it half an hour later when I heard a kuock. He said 'Wow,' or some other word like it, and held up a square board. Then He walked over to the dark corner of the room and-what do you think? He put the square in, and it fitted just as if it had grown there. And he had just taken a peep at the hole from where he was standing in the door.' The flat dweller's tale is no fairy story. That's the way a Chinese carpenter stops a hole in the floor.
