Bears Come in Bunches.

Four bears were seen and one killed in John Smith's field, near Lamar station in Porter township Wednesday of last week. The remaining three escaped to the mountain, south of the village.

Purchased a Farm.

Dr. L. E. Kidder, of Boalsburg, Centre county, purchased the Mary Jackson farm, near Salsburg, Wednesday of last week for $2500. This information is gained from the Huntingdon Semi-Weekly News.

Halloween.

Saturday night is Halloween on which evening the popular idea is, among youngsters, that some mischief must be done. Nuisances committed on that evening are no less nuisances, and should be discountenanced by parents.

Mann's Buy Axe Works.

Negotiations were completed recently by which the Mann Edge Tool company of Lewistown has secured an option on the large axe manufacturing works of the American Axe & Tool company at Mill Hall. The option lasts until January 1, 1904, at which time the local company expects to take possession of the new plant and run it in conjunction with the one at Lewistown.

The Pumpkin.

The pumpkin crop is a large one, and since the feeding of them to hogs, cows and horses is about to begin it may be well to recite the fact that pumpkin seeds are entirely harmless to any kind of stock if fed with the pumpkin, but separated from the pumpkin and fed to cattle, the result might be of some evil. The most careful investigations prove that pumpkins and their seeds may be safely fed at the same time.

Go To The Polls.

The fact that the state campaign is being conducted in a quiet manner by both political parties should not be taken as indicating a state of apathy in the several counties. In each county there are special reasons why the voters should take a deep interest in the coming election. In Centre county the Democrats are urged to go to the polls on November 3 and vote the straight Democratic state and county tickets because every candidate on those tickets is worthy of the support of the voters, and because every Democrat, by his vote, should endorse the action of the Democratic state convention in promulgating those issues which stand for true Democratic principles.

Huntingdon County the First.

Huntingdon county is the first to begin the construction of road building under the Sproul road law. A section 2500 feet in length will be built at Smithfield. The surveys have been made and specifications approved by the Highway Department, and it is the intention of the local authorities to complete the road as soon as possible.

Surveys for roads under the new law are being made in Northumberland county, near Shamokin Dam, and also in Beaver and Crawford counties, and one of these three counties will be the next to receive its share of the State appropriation.

FARMERS MOVING.

A Few Moves Among the Tillers of the Soil Booked for Spring.

Farms are in better demand this year than for the past few years. At one time farms were in the hunt of farmers, today farmers are seeking farms. This condition is brought about by the fact that many men are being thrown out of employment in the large cities, which deters the ruralite from casting his lot with the thousands who today are uncertain whether their services are needed tomorrow; whether their next pay envelope will contain cash for full, half or quarter time.

On the farm it is different. With the same energy put forth on the farm that is required to hold a position with the large corporations, one may reasonably expect to pay the expenses of a comfortable living, with wholesome food and better environments thrown in. Besides all this, the man on the farm—tenant or owner—is independently independent compared with the employe at the desk, in the shop, in the store, in the mill, anywhere.

Among the changes of tenants that recently came under the observation of the writer are these:

Sydney Poorman, of Linden Hall, who at present lives on the Kimport farm owned by Jacob Bortoff, will succeed Elmer Ishler as tenant on the Ed. Stump farm, east of Centre Hall, owned by Mrs. Rebecca Sparr, of Boalsburg.

Elmer Ishler will move to the H. P. Sankey farm, Pottery Mills. A vacancy on that farm is occasioned by Marcellus Sankey quitting the farm.

Harvey Mark will occupy the Huston farm, recently purchased by D. K. Keller.

Arthur Slutterbeck, who for some time farmed the Jacob Strohm farm, near Tusseyville, will move to the Levi Stump farm, also near that place, which is the property of Tax Collector J. B. Spangler.

Emanuel Zeigler, of Farmers Mills, who last spring quit farming on the Van Tries farm, near Lindau Hill, will succeed Mr. Slutterbeck.

Adam Neese, who for two years was tenant on the farm of Samuel Brass, east of Centre Hall, will move to Snyder county, but will continue tilling the soil.

LOCALS.

Progress Grange will give its annual Thanksgiving supper.

Sheriff H. S. Taylor was in town early Monday morning on business.

J. W. Mitterling Tuesday shipped a car load of milch cows to the eastern markets.

Mrs. Mary A. Slack, of Colyer, in another column advertises her farm for sale or rent.

Mrs. G. W. McInay, of Spring Mills, Friday returned from a two weeks' visit to her home in Fulton.

Creseus, the famous pacer, was in a railroad wreck while passing through Oklahoma Territory on his way to San Francisco. It is feared the horse will be lame.

Miss Orpha Gramley and little brother, of Spring Mills, were in town Saturday. Miss Gramley is a school teacher and is abundantly qualified to fill the position.

Mrs. W. Keller, of Munson Station, Clearfield county, spent Saturday and Sunday at the M. E. parsonage in Spring Mills, the guest of Rev. and Mrs. G. W. McInay.

For a double of Joe Jefferson, the veteran Rip Van Winkle, take a peep at C. C. Cummings, of Spring Mills. The fat on the ribs of both is sparse. There are many similarities.

Levi Stump, of near Tusseyville, will quit farming next spring, owing to his advanced age. He is reported to have one of the best corn crops in that locality. The number of bushels is estimated at three thousand.

Samuel Slack was a caller Monday, having come to town on business. Mr. Slack states that it is his intention to move from the farm provided the place can be sold or rented. He has been a sufferer from rheumatism, and is unable to do work demanded of a farmer.

Lycurgus Lingle, of Earlstown, disposed of the wind pump that for a number of years was useless to him because of the unfaithfulness of the well over which it stood, to William Lee, of Colyer. Samuel Shoop took down the structure and again set it up for Mr. Lee.

John E. Swarm, formerly of Centre Hall and Spring Mills, but now a resident of Williamsport, where he is employed in the W. D. Crooks planing mill, was in town Saturday. His sister, Mrs. Mary Amanda Bolander, of Bellsgrove, was also an arrival on the same train and was met by contractor William Bilger, of Pleasant Gap, who is a relative, and taken to his home for a brief visit.

A hunting party from Centre Hall and vicinity Saturday will go to the Seven Mountains to take their annual deer hunt. In the party is Dr. James Hosterman, of Ford City, Pa., son of A. P. Hosterman, of Centre Hill. The doctor has been exceedingly liberal, as on a past occasion he presented the party with much material that goes to make up the accoutrements of a well equipped hunting party.

FUT HUNTERS TO ROUT.

Load of Shot Fired Into Mountain Family Eroges Cubs and All.

While Krebs Stewart and Peter Kimmel were hunting grouse Saturday in the vicinity of Bear Rocks, in the Alleghenies, north of Altoona, they encountered a group of five bears, a male and a female and three cubs. In his excitement Stewart fired both barrels of a shotgun into the family, slightly wounding all.

Before Kimmel could load up with buckshot the entire bruin family was after the two hunters with blood in their eyes. As Kimmel and Stewart retreated the male and female bears trailed them half a mile down the mountain before they abandoned the chase.

The cubs, which were almost full grown, were heading the stern chase the last time the hunters looked back. What would you have done?

Sportsmen Lease Big Mountain Tract.

A party of sportsmen from Huntingdon have obtained a lease on four hundred acres of wood and mountain land, between Stoney Ridge and Rock Mountains, in Menno township, Mifflin county, from which they have barred all pot-hunters and reserved the exclusive right to hunt. They expect to make a preserve for strictly lawful sport.

Fish Hatchery Opened.

The new State fish hatchery at Pleasant Gap Station, four miles from Bellefonte, was formally opened Monday afternoon. The ceremonies took place as soon as the afternoon train, with Fish Commissioner William E. Meehan and party, arrived. An immense crowd was present and the Pennsylvania State College Cadet band furnished music.

Addresses were delivered by Judge John G. Love, Commissioner Meehan and Prof. H. A. Surface, the State economic zoologist.

The first supply of trout fry was received that afternoon from the Allentown hatchery. It is expected that all the trout in the Allentown hatchery will have been moved there by January 1.

The building erected is one-story high, 100 feet long and thirty feet wide and contains 105 breeding troughs. The plot of ground contains twenty acres with a house for the superintendent.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dunkle, of Elmira, New York, where they will make their future home with their daughter, Mrs. Henry Hess, Miss Clara L. Dunkle, also a daughter, lives at that place.

Religion and Education.

If it is admitted that religion is an essential part of education, does it necessarily follow that religion must be taught in connection with grammar and arithmetic? A man's religion is of little value if it have no connection with his business, and yet no one has proposed that a Christian merchant should open his store with prayer, or have the catechism taught to his clerks during the noon hour.

The most valuable part of education must be acquired at home: it is the moral and religious training given by the parents. No teacher, no matter how selected, can take the place of the parents. But in this work of the moral and religious training of the children the efforts of the parents may be greatly assisted by pastors and specifically religious teachers. It would seem as if the children might learn geography in one place and catechism in another. That is the view of Jeremiah Quin, president of the Milwaukee School Board, and a prominent Catholic. "If the public schools," he says, "because of being secular, are vicious, then must our whole theory of government, being secular, be vicious also." The analogy is complete. Business is secular, yet the principles of religion ought to govern the men who control it. Our government is completely secular. One branch of the Presbyterian communion refuses to hold office under it, or even to vote, because the Deity is not recognized in the Constitution. Yet the theory that men of all faiths may cooperate for the maintenance of civil order has worked well enough; no American of any faith dreams of changing the system. If men may unite for the support of civil government and separate for worship and propagation of their respective faiths, may not children unite a few hours each day for the study of reading and writing and arithmetic and separate for the study of theology.

POST OFFICE ROBBERS SENTENCED.

Two Get Six and Two Get Seven Years in the Penitentiary.

The quartet of post office robbers whose trial took place at Scranton last week for robberies committed at Rutherford, Woodward, Centre Hall and Linden Hall were found guilty of all the charges preferred, and sentenced to the penitentiary for a period of six and seven years.

James Ryan and James Lewis were sentenced for six years, and William Palmer and Samuel Shireman got a term of an additional year, as it was shown conclusively that they held up the Rutherford man and beat him.

In court James Lewis, the leader who was shot, gave his name as James Showalter, the name he first gave Sheriff H. S. Taylor.

It was stoutly denied by the three men that they had ever seen Lewis prior to the time he took the memorable slide down the plank from the hay loft. This, of course, was false.

Thus the incidents connected with the robbers in Penns Valley last June are terminated, and the identity of the leader of the gang reasonably discovered as a native of Potter township.

DEATHS.

MRS. E. ELLSWORTH ADAMS.

Hannah Minerva, wife of E. Ellsworth Adams, of Lock Haven, died Thursday evening of last week, at the age of forty-four years.

The deceased was a prominent figure in religious work of the United Evangelical church. She was a daughter of the late S. E. and Catharine Mingle and moved to Lock Haven from Rebersburg when a child.

She is survived by her husband; one sister, Mrs. P. O. Stiver, of Freeport, Illinois, and a half-sister, Mrs. Austin Kern, of Logan Mills.

Many Fruit Trees Planted.

The fall deliveries of fruit trees are being made. The purchasing of fruit trees, berries, vines, etc., by land owners during the past season has been very heavy. The ground is in fine condition to receive the stock.

Tri-ennial Assessment.

The tri-ennial assessment is being made. This being the assessment upon which, for three years, taxes will be rated, it is one which should not be made without first discussing the matter with the property owner who is so vitally effected. The appeal is practically a farce, as one is more likely to be ridiculed for accepting the appeal notice as having been sent out in good faith than to have his assessment lowered.

A fair presentation of the facts by property owners should be invited and listened to by every assessor.

Old Folks' Day.

Sunday, Nov. 1st, the Methodist Episcopal congregation at Spring Mills will observe "Old Folks' Day." Rev. B. B. Hamlin, a former Presiding Elder of the Altoona District, will preach at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. In the afternoon at 2:30 there will be a service consisting of short talks, recitations and music.
