Latest News of Peansylvania Told in Short Order.

Acting under instructions from the Mayor, the Chief of Police notified the Danville clubs that they can no longer dispense liquors under the provisions of the Mann law, not even to members. This action entirely shuts liquor cut of the town, except what may come in or orders sent to neighboring towns.

True to the confidence imposed in him by the court, James Swaney, convicted of second degree murder December 23 for the killing of "Big Bill" Turner, and released the same day on bail so that he might spend the Christmas holidays with his wife and twelve children at Haydentown, returned to court at Uniontown and heard the argument for a new trial. He was released again on bail and returned home, Judge Rep pert reserving his decision. When ask ed how he spent Christmas, Swaney's face brightened and he said:—I had happy time with my family at my own fireside and I played Santa Claus to all of my twelve children. Yes, I have a remarkable family. I have always tried to educate my children and give them all the advantages I could and three of them. Charles, Laura and Addie, have become school teachers. We have a pair of twins and three of our children have the same birthday, March 16. My oldest child is 26 and my youngest three years old. Do you wonder that I was pleased when the court permitted me to spend Christmas with such a family have fifteen brothers and sisters There are sixteen in my father's family and eleven of us are now living. My father had twelve sons and four daughters, and I have had nine daughters and four sons, the order being reversed. The Swaneys are a healthy family and we make a large gathering when we get together. My brothers and sisters nearly all live near Haydentown and when we meet at Christmas time or on such occasions we always enjoy ourselves.

The War Department may select the large plateau and the Conyngham and Butler Valley, lying between White Haven and Glen Summit, as the "battle ground" for two armies of 15,000 men each this summer. The department has planned to conduct war maneuvers in which 10,000 regulars and 20,000 State militia shall take part, the army comprising the Department of the East. Some time ago General G. P. S. Gobin, of this State, was asked to look out for a suitable camping and battle ground. He asked Colonel C. B. Dougherty, of the Ninth Regiment, to examine the large tract of wood and farm land on the mountains above Wilkes-Barre, and Colonel Dougherty's report was so favorably received by the War Department that Captain James Morse, aide de camp on General Corbin's staff, with several other staff officers, will inspect the ground.

By the explosion of the huge boilet of an engine on Trenton's cut-off of the P. & R. near Narcissa, early the other morning, three men were so badly scalded that they are now patients at the hospital and all are regarded as being in a serious condition. The men were Harry Hemphill, engineer; H. P. Bowman, fireman, and Frank Harple, brakeman. All reside in Columbia and were taking a freight train to Phila delphia at the time of the accident.

Fish Commissioner Mechan has awarded the contract for the Pennsyl vania Fish Exhibit Building at St Louis Exposition to George C. Dietrich, of Philadelphia, for $1904. Cencral Trade Conditions.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Retail trade has been somewhat slow to recover from holiday dullness, partly because of the bad weather, which also retarded co'lections to some extent. Traffic was impeded and shipments of merchandise delayed. On the other hand, low temperature stimulated the demand for seasonable goods, and burdensome stocks in the hands of dealers were reduced Jobbers and manufacturers in those lines received supplementary orders, and the wool market became frmer in tone, although actual sales did not increase materially. Mills and factories report irregular conditions some industries opening the new year under very favorable auspices, while other branches are extremely quiet Latest returns of railway earnings for December are 5.4 per cent, above the previous year.

Fiction sometimes becomes fact. minstrel story told how a hotel keeper at the Centennial weighed his guests when they entered his dining room and again when they left it, and charged accordingly. The endman who told the story added that not having been well when he went to the hotel, he ate only some soup, for which, according to the scale, he had to pay $3.18. Now comes the news that the Pueblo and Beulah Valley Railroad in Colorado intends to charge passengers by weight, not by distance traveled. The fat man who needs two seats to hold him will at last have to pay for what he gets. The P. and B. V. Railroad sets an excellent example.

A clerk in Chicago stole $12,000 from his employers, at the rate of $100 a day. His excuse is that he spent the money "living like a white man," and that "a white man can't live on $9 a week." That statement might be true, although, as a matter of fact, it is not, since many white men do live on $9 a week and still it would not excuse the man who spent more than his salary on the rent of his flat and laid out over six years' income on furniture. For the one thing that this apologist for theft overlooked was that if his employers did not offer him enough for a white man to live on he was not obliged to take it. It is always bad policy for an employer to pay less than living wages, but it is still worse policy for a worker to accept the insufficient payment and steal to make up the deficit. The excuse. "I couldn't live on my pay," would have some validity only if the, sufferer were tied by law to his job.

" DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: - I am one of the many of your grateful friends of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetabie Compound, and who can to-day thank you for the fine health I enjoy. When I was thirty-five years old. I suffered severe backache and frequent bearing-down pains; in fact. I had womb trouble. I was very anxious to get well, and reading of the cures your Compound had made, I decided to try it. I took only six bottles, but it built me up and cured me entirely of my troubles.

"My family and relatives were naturally as gratified as I was. My niece had beart trouble and nervous prostration, and was considered incurable. She took your Vegetable Compound and it cured her in a short time. and she became well and strong, and her home to her great joy and her husband's delight was blessed with a baby.
