The spring term of this school will open April 11, and will continue ten weeks. Those desiring further information should consult the principal, W. P. HOSTETTMAN, Penn Hall, Pa. Spring Mills, Pa., Feb. 25, 3c.

Snyder County Court Takes an Excursion. Boarding a special train, the Snyder county court, including judge, jury and attorneys, went on an excursion from Middleburg to Selingsgrove Tuesday afternoon. The return trip was made Wednesday evening, and business was resumed in the court house Thursday morning. The case which gave rise to this novel expedition was that J. H. Seifred, for accident damages against the Pennsylvania railroad, called for re-trial. It was first tried two years ago, and a verdict found for the plaintiff, but the supreme court ordered a re-trial. After the jury had been drawn the order for the trip was given in order that the jury might see the spot where the accident occurred.

HORSES KILLED—MAN HURT

In Railroad Accident at Spring Mills Thursday Afternoon.

A second and serious accident happened at Spring Mills, within a week, at the railroad crossing below C. P. Long's Store, in which John Krader was seriously injured and two horses were instantly killed. The wreck took place Thursday afternoon of last week, and was occasioned by the west passenger train, Theodore Cherry, engineer, colliding with a team hitched to a sled loaded with prop timber.

The crossing where the accident occurred is so located that the railroad track can be seen but a short distance, and this condition coupled with the fact that the wind was blowing heavily from the west, accounts for the fact that neither the engineer nor Mr. Krader realized danger until the crash came.

The engine struck the sled at the doubletree, throwing the team of horses on one side of the track and the driver, sled and logs on the other. Mr. Krader was thrown fully eighty feet, and received several fractured ribs, injury to a hip, cut on the head and numerous lesser cuts and bruises. His condition at first was thought to be such that recovery was improbable, but at this writing the unfortunate man has much improved, and his recovery reasonably assured. The railroad company has the man in charge and is doing all possible for him.

The horses were thrown over a steep embankment and instantly killed. These were the property of Hall Herring, of Penn Hall, who made amicable settlement with the railroad company, the sum paid for damages being $325.00.

It will be remembered that a similar accident happened Mr. Krader at the same crossing Saturday previous. At that time Mr. Herring happened to accompany the driver. On crossing the track the horses stalled, and when the train approached the horses were quickly unhitched and led to a place of safety. In the collision that followed, the sled and one of the coaches were slightly damaged.

The following day the Krader family, and several others, drove from their home to Spring Mills to see the injured husband and father who was being cared for at Mr. Kennely's, and on reaching the crossing where the accident had occurred the day previous, it was more luck than science that the vehicle escaped being run into by the west bound mail train.

The newer subjects of public school education are necessary, but no more so than the three R's. Indeed, some of these new subjects derive their chief importance from the fact that the three R's are aided by a knowledge of them.

Dr. Raub Dead.

Merchant Long Injured.

Merchant C. P. Long, of Spring Mills, cut his hand badly Thursday evening of last week, and since has been suffering much pain. He started to the Shook fire carrying a liquid fire extinguisher, and on passing a grape arbor was thrown to the ground, breaking the package the fragments of the glass cutting a deep gash in the palm of his hand. Dr. Braucht sewed up the wound.

Those False Reports.

It is astonishing how false reports are circulated. Of late the fact seems to be to falsely report deaths. From a half dozen sources information was received at this office of the death of two children in different parts of Potter township—but there was no truth in the statement at all.

It has also been given out that there are fifty cases of scarlet fever in Centre Hall. The truth is that there is not one, nor has there been any.

The War Story.

With this issue the war story begins chapter seven, and relates incidentally relative to the siege of Richmond. A cut produced from a photograph of the Water and Signal tower is also given. At the recent reunion of the 148th regiment held in Bellefonte, Dr. T. P. Meyer, the author of the war story, was acknowledged to possess a greater number of correct dates and war incidents than any other member of the regiment. In discussions he was frequently called upon to decide dates, etc., by referring to his well-kept diary.

Do Your Part.

The delivery of mail on rural routes could be expedited by patrons faithfully performing their part, which is to erect mail boxes at convenient points, so that the mail may be placed there by the routeman without leaving his wagon. This, of course, is one of the requirements of the rural mail service regulations, and is intended to facilitate the labor of the routeman so that mail may be delivered in the quickest possible time. Patrons on rural routes will, therefore, be helping themselves by inducing all patrons to place their mail boxes at a point convenient for the routeman.

Wheat Condition.

There is considerable speculation as to the final effect of the continued cold weather on and the almost continuous exposure of the wheat plants. The temperature during December, January and February has been unusually low, yet it is claimed by some that the plants have not been perceptibly injured, and that with a favorable March and a normal April, the crop will make a favorable showing.

In this immediate locality much of the wheat sowing was done late. These plants necessarily went into the winter young and tender, and there is little doubt but that these plants will be injured to no little extent.

The Miserable, Wretched Loafer.

Young man, avoid the company of the miserable, wretched loafer. With nothing to occupy his time he is liable to lead you into lawlessness at any moment. This miserable, wretched loafer is found in every community, and the chances are that he is a parasite sucking the life-blood of an indulgent father or mother—in other words, this miserable, wretched loafer subsists on the earnings of a father or mother; is clothed by money saved through denials of their elders.

This miserable, wretched loafer is a being of low moral state; unfit to associate with the industrious and frugal. As a rule he is ignorant and loud-mouthed, and is never mistaken for anything else than what he really is.

Mother Goose.

Mother Goose, the greatest of all Drury Lane (London) productions, and undoubtedly the most magnificent stage presentation known to the theatrical world, after an enormously successful run at the New Amsterdam Theatre, New York, has been transferred in all its entirety to the Chestnut Street Opera House, Philadelphia, with all its original cast and brilliant ensemble, which numbers between four and five hundred comedians, comedienne, singers, dancers, pantomimists and legions of beautiful women. In Mother Goose theatre-goers are promised the limit of stage beauty and magnificence, a plethora of rollicking fun and fascinating music, and the finest cast of notables ever gathered together for this class of presentation.

People who kick against health regulations and all efforts of Boards of Health to prevent the appearance and spread of contagious and infectious diseases, if they have any sense ought to change their opposition into support after reading that it cost Centralia ten thousand dollars to stamp out the small pox, which appeared there in September. The taxpayers will have this bill to pay.

Friday Rufus Lee, who is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as operator, departed for his home in Linden Hall, prior to his departure for Altoona, which will be his headquarters for the present, says the Millinburg Telegraph, and further adds: For the past few years he has made this his headquarters and has worked along the lines of the company on this division. He was recently transferred to the Middle Division, thus the cause of his going to Altoona. During his stay in this place he won a large circle of warm and dear friends by his manly, courteous and obliging ways.
