Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail.

OUR SENATE.

An English View of Its Power, Authority and Performance.

The senate has played a very great part in American history, and, on the whole, the tremendous power and authority wielded by the senate have been well exercised. The majority of the senators are statesmen of great political ability as well as men of high character.

There are few sights in the political world on either side of the Atlantic more impressive than the senate in session. The sense not only of a very high standard of personal capacity, but of the immense powers which it wields, seems to pervade the assembly. The smallness of their numbers, the fact that they are armed with authority which is executive as well as legislative and the knowledge that they represent not mere localities, but states, in their corporate capacity, and states which are often as populous as European kingdoms, naturally fill each individual senator with the sense of personal distinction. A United States senator is a very great man, and he knows it, and the senate, as a whole, is intensely conscious and proud of the might, majesty and dominion which it wields. To make a comparison, it matters very little what an individual member of the British house of commons thinks and means to do, still less what an individual British peer thinks and means to do on any given subject, but it matters a very great deal what a single United States senator thinks and means to do.

The senate can veto every appointment made by the president, whether the man nominated for office be a judge of the supreme court or an ambassador or merely a collector of customs. Again the senate can, by refusing to pass it, veto any bill sent up from the lower house, no matter whether the bill is concerned with the raising or spending of money or with alterations in the law. Lastly, not a majority, but a minority which numbers over a third of the senate can refuse to ratify any treaty presented for ratification by the president. Thus the executive can make no binding treaty with any foreign power unless it can obtain a two-thirds majority in the senate. In other words, the senate can say the final word not only in regard to all legislation, but in regard to all finance, all appointments to high office and to foreign affairs of the nation.—London Spectator.

CYNICISMS.

Most people would rather throw a stone than a bouquet.

Every wife has the inward hope that her husband's next wife will be mean to him.

Don't think a man can keep a secret. Just think of the bad things he knows on himself.

A father has much to be thankful for if his daughter doesn't look apologetic when he enters the room.

When kin apparently get along well, they get less credit for peace than for ability to keep their skeleton hidden from the public.

When a man keeps a bill before paying it to look it over, it means that he doesn't expect to find blunders, but that he wants to gain time.

If you praise a man who really ought to be in jail, it is said that you have a kind heart, but if you praise a worthy man it is said you belong to a mutual admiration society and are slushy.—Acheson Globe.

Near Enough.

It was a Maine girl of whom the story is told that she refused to marry a most devoted lover until he had amassed a fortune of $10,000. After some expostulation he accepted the decree and went to work. About three months after this the avaricious young lady, meeting her lover, asked: "Well, Charley, how are you getting along?" "Oh, very well indeed," Charley returned cheerfully. "I've $18 saved."

The young lady blushed and looked down at the toes of her walking boots and stabbed the inoffensive earth with the point of her parasol. "I guess," she said faintly—"I guess, Charley, that's about near enough."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Morning Bath.

An admirable way to take the morning bath by those who dread a daily plunge into cold water is recommended by an authority as follows: Stand in hot water deep enough to cover the ankles, fill a basin with cold water and sponge the body off quickly. Dry and rub vigorously and get into flannels before drying the feet. This is better for any one than daily immersion. It is the rubbing more than the water that is needed. Sponging off gives the excuse for the after rubbing, and the good result is gained.

Wins.

"Ah," she sighed, "the great men are all dead!" "But the beautiful women are not," he answered.

Then she looked soulfully up into his eyes and told him she had said it just to be contrary and not because she thought it for a moment.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Hopeless Effort.

Mrs. Jagway—Ebenzer, you have been hanging around the saloons again. Mr. Jagway—I'll not deceive, you, m' dear.

Mrs. Jagway—Ebenzer, you can't!—Chicago Tribune.

More Than Petit.

Madge—He stole a kiss from me. Mabel—Well, that was only petit larceny.

Madge—It wasn't; it was grand.—Town and Country.

Promptness is the soul of business.—Chesterfield.

A man's best friends are his ten fingers.—Robert Collyer.

Little things console us, because little things afflict us.—Pascal.

The two offices of memory are collection and distribution.—Johnson.

To see good in a heart that seems evil is to beget good there.—William Henry Phelps.

Fire and sword are but slow engines of destruction in comparison with the babbling.—Steele.

There is love, and there is justice. Justice is for oneself; love is for others.—R. L. Stevenson.

The shortest life is long enough if it lead to a better, and the longest life is too short if it do not.—Colton.

Oriental Rugs.

The Armenian dealer in rugs is probably the craftiest of all shopkeepers, and his emissaries have so thoroughly ransacked the orient that the traveler is frequently advised in Persia and Afghanistan to look for the rarest and the best specimens in London and especially in New York. Yet even here the experienced purchaser can find notable bargains. A gentleman who has in Chicago a very notable collection of Bokharas and who has traveled throughout the orient in search of the rarest and the most perfect fabrics lately found three new specimens hanging before a Fifth avenue shop and bought them for prices which, allowing of course for the duty, would have been cheap in the tent of a Persian.—John Corbin in Scribner's.

German Soups.

Soups furnish a curious instance in which Germany differs from other nations in the preparation of food. Milk soups sweet and savory, chocolate soups, almond soup and wine soup, frothed lemon soup and beer soup are among the number, while soups made of apples, pears, strawberries, currants and cherries are not uncommon. There are also a large number of fish soups which bear a strong resemblance to the fish soups of the Russian kitchen.

Understood.

Linzee—There's nothing I like better than hard work.

Morris—There's nothing you like better when somebody else is doing it.

Lincee—That's understood. I hope you didn't think I was such a fool as to like to do hard work myself, or any other kind, for that matter.—Boston Transcript.

"The Earl of Pawtucket." Large audiences continue to see "The Earl of Pawtucket," which, with Lawrence D'Orsay in the title role, enters upon its third week at the Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, on Monday evening. The wholesomeness of the play, its consistent story, its ludicrous moments and its fine acting make up a combination that is more than usually attractive.
