PORT ARTHUR SHELLED AGAIN.

Threatened the Destruction of Russian Forts and the Town.

London, (By Cable) .-- While the reports from Tokio that Port Arthur had been occupied by the Japanese were premature, the latest dispatches Cotton King Would Enable Them to Reach from St. Petersburg show that a the Men Responsible for the Sully Contracts | Japanese fleet of 6 battleships and 12 cruisers, together with 8 torpedo boats were engaged Monday night in another tremendous bombardment that threatened the destruction of Russian forts and the town.

It is probable, as reported from Tokio, that the Japanese made an important movement by land upon the Russian base at the same time.

Naval experts here believe that these latest attacks will hasten the fall of the Russian base.

A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from St. Petersburgh says Japanese torpedo boats appeared off Port Arthur at midnight of the night of March 21-22, and the shore batteries and guardships shelled them for 20 minutes.

"The Japanese retired, but reappeared four hours later, when they met with the same reception, wher they retired again.

"At 6 A. M. a Japanese squadron of two divisions, in all consisting of t battleships and 12 cruisers, and ac companied by 8 torpedo boats, appeared, and the Russian squadron sailed out from the outer roadstead to meet them.

"At 9 A. M. the Japanese battleships, having fired several shots at Liaotishin and sheltered behind the promonotory, began a furious bom-bardment of Port Arthur."
