COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review on trade says:

Little net change in trade conditions is noted for the past week. Storms and floods did much damage to property and threatened agricultural prospects at the start, but subsequently the weather improved and the outlook brightened. Spring trade is expanding, although still backward to some extent, and new labor controversies have added to the number of unemployed, despite an amicable arrangement of the sheet and tin plate scale. Building operations would be vigorous if employers and wage earners could adjust differences. Inquiries for structural material are out in proportion to new permits, which is probably due to the fact that there is a much resumption of postponed work.

Railway earnings in three weeks of March are only 1.4 per cent. smaller than a year ago, and far in excess of any preceding year.

Trifling advances in several departments of the iron and steel industry indicate that there is less pressure to sell and more readiness on the part of purchasers to place orders that have been held back since the opening of the year. Yet the market is extremely irregular, and the future contains many elements of uncertainty.

Bradstreet's says: Wheat, including flour, exports for the week ending March 24, aggregate 1,801,845 bushels, against 2,006,124 last week, 2,401,387 this week last year and 2,604,111 in 1902, and 4,041,635 in 1901. Corn exports for the week aggregated 1,527,576 bushels, against 1,573,289 last week, 3,618,210 a year ago, 139,205 in 1902 and 3,582,943 in 1901.

REACH THE SPOT.

To cure an aching back, The pains of rheumatism, The tired-out feelings, You must reach the spot—get at the cause.

In most cases 'tis the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys.

Charles Bierbach, stone contractor, living at 2825 Chestnut St., Erie, Pa., says: "For two years I had kidney trouble, and there was such a severe pain through my loins and limbs that I could not stoop or straighten up without great pain, had difficulty in getting about and was unable to rest at night, arising in the morning tired and worn out. The kidney secretions were irregular and deposited a heavy sediment. Doctors treated me for rheumatism, but failed to help me. I lost all confidence in medicine, and began to feel as if life were not worth living. Doan's Kidney Pills, however, relieved me so quickly and so thoroughly that I gladly made a statement to that effect for publication. This was in 1898, and during the six years which have elapsed I have never known Doan's Kidney Pills to fail. They cured my wife of a severe case of backache in the same thorough manner."

A free trial of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Bierbach will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address: Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price 50 cents per box.

THE VIRTUES OF TAR-WATER. Fad That Once Had Great Hold on Physicians' Faith.

The Curles, according to an American resident of Paris, put small faith in the curative properties of drugs. To their little daughter when she is ill, medicine is rarely given.

"M. Curie," the American said "laughs at the fads that seize upon physicians from time to time. He told me once about the tar-water fad—a thing that agitated France and England and Germany in the eighteenth century."

"It seems that tar-water was suddenly declared to possess almost miraculous virtues. Doctors used it for everything. It was as popular among them as radium now."

"To one of the French medical societies a surgeon, noted usually for skepticism, wrote that tar-water was good in surgery."

"A sailor broke his leg and applied to me for help," the surgeon's letter ran. "I bound together the broken portions, and washed them with the celebrated tar-water. Almost immediately the sailor felt the beneficial effects of this remedy, and it was not long before the leg was completely healed."

"This letter was highly applauded by the society, and resolutions were passed advocating tar-water for fractures. But the organization was pretty well disgusted at its next meeting when the surgeon, in another letter said:

"In my last communication I forgot to mention that the broken leg to which I referred was a wooden one."

Low Value on That. "Of course it's cheaper to live in the East. The further West you go the higher the values become and—"

"Not on your life!" interrupted the traveling young man. "No! Just give me an instance where the value is not high."

Prepared for Showers. "I hope," said the thrifty old farmer, "that you have something laid up for a rainy day."

"Sure thing," replied his nephew from the city. "I've got seventeen borrowed umbrellas."

A Popular Loan. The American Phonograph Company, of which the Columbia Phonograph Company is the sole agent, recently offered to its stockholders 100,000 of 6 per cent. coupon notes running from one to five years. This offer was not only subscribed for in full, but substantially over-subscribed.

If anything were needed to demonstrate the value of the stockholders in the business, the avidity with which these notes have been taken would be quite sufficient. The business has increased so tremendously of late, that more capital was needed, despite the fact that the earnings of the company are largely in excess of one half million dollars per annum, with a prospect of their reaching the one million mark in the course of another year or two. In the meantime the number of sales depots is increasing every month and the plant at Bridgeport is being extended by additional construction and new machinery added as rapidly as space can be provided for it.

Cross-Eyed Man Convicted.

"I do detest having any one look at me for so long a time it could be called a stare," complained the pretty girl in the square seat to her companion. "I just feel mortified, because I imagine they think my face is painted and my hair is bleached, or something else horrible is the matter with me."

"Why, what made you think of that?" asked the other girl. "I was noticing that man over there. He's cross-eyed, you see."

"Her companion saw that he was. 'But how do you know he's looking at you?'" he asked.

"I don't, and that's what bothers me."

"Want to know how you can tell? I've one of the simplest ways in the world to solve that troublesome problem as to whether a cross-eyed person is looking at you or not."

"How can you tell?" asked the pretty one, in respectful tones.

"Listen! I found myself in just the position you are in now. Only I was alone in the seat. There was a cross-eyed man sitting at the other end of the car, but facing me. He stared and stared my way, and at last I became convinced that he was staring at me. But I wondered if he really was. He might have been reading one of the advertisements near the ceiling, you know. Well, I had ridden quite a way, and I grew tired. All of a sudden I yawned; opened my mouth as big as a plate, you know, and didn't put my hand up in time to hide it. To my surprise, the cross-eyed man yawned right afterward. Of course, it might have been just a coincidence, but I remembered that a doctor once said yawning was contagious. So I yawned again just to see if he would yawn. I knew if he did he was looking right at me."

"And did he yawn?" asked the pretty girl. "He did. Try it on your man." The pretty girl yawned in a tired, dejected manner, covering her little mouth with a well-gloved hand. And two seconds later the cross-eyed man yawned.

Butted in Again.

"Where have you been all this time?" asked Mr. Makinbrakes, shaking him cordially by the hand. "Been serving on a jury," replied the other man.

"I can sympathize with you," said Mr. Makinbrakes. "It must have been a good deal of a bore. Isn't it curious, by the way, that they always seem to want ignoramuses on a jury nowadays? They never take anybody that—that, of course, I mean as a general thing—for they do once in a while get a man of intelligence—"

"I'm not speaking of you, of course—I don't know whether you get exactly what I am driving at or not, but—but—the fact is, I—I—that's a mighty fine stick-up you're wearing old chap. Where did you get it?"

"I'm permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2.00 per bottle. Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 361 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Rev. J. N. Parker, Ulster, N. Y., writes: "In June, 1901, I lost my sense of hearing entirely. My hearing had been somewhat impaired for several years, but not so much affected that I could hardly converse with my friends, but in June, 1901, my sense of hearing left me so that I could hear no sound whatever. I was also troubled with rheumatic pains in my limbs. I commenced taking Peruna and now my hearing is restored as good as it was prior to June, 1901. My rheumatic pains are all gone. I cannot speak too highly of Peruna, and now when 88 years old can say it has invigorated my whole system. I cannot but think, dear Doctor, that you must feel very thankful to the all loving Father that you have been permitted to live, and by your skill be such a blessing as you have been to suffering humanity."—Rev.
