Meets Death on Mountain Side.
On Thursday morning June 30th while at work on the operations of the Laurelton Lumber Co., along Penns Creek, Wilmer Long, aged twenty-five years, met his death in a horrible manner. He was engaged with another workman in preparing logs for the mill, when a log lying high up the mountain suddenly started and came crashing down before he could get out of the way, it struck Long and killed him almost instantly.

Hurt at Hecla Park.
Howard Fetterolf was badly hurt by being struck by a swing at Hecla Park on the Fourth of July. The swing struck him while he was unconcernedly walking along conversing with friends, and cut a deep gash in his head. Howard made a very narrow escape from a fatal hurt, and it would be safe for the public if the amusement committees of picnics and gatherings of this kind would exercise more judgment by roping off those places where danger is.

Free Library.
In establishing a free library Progress Grange has inaugurated a commendable movement for Centre Hall. Unlike most societies the grange has opened its library to the public.
The only charge connected with it is a ten cent membership fee to cover expenses, after which any book in the library can be taken out free of charge and held two weeks. Already a number of persons have availed themselves of its advantages. The library will be open to the public every grange day and every Saturday evening between 7 and 8 o'clock.

Children's Service.
A large and enthusiastic audience attended the children's service in the Presbyterian church at Spring Mills, Sunday evening, June 20th. An excellent program was rendered in a manner that was very creditable to the little ones and their instructors.
The church was tastefully adorned with ferns and flowers which made an appropriate setting for the bright faced children. The recitations were all well prepared, those of the little tots being especially appreciated.
The singing, under the direction of Charles Bartges, assisted by other friends of the school, was a most enjoyable feature. The violin solos by Gross Allison, son of Dr. J. R. G. Allison, of Centre Hall, gave much pleasure.

The presence of three out-of-town doctors, Dr. C. S. Musser, of Aaronsburg; Dr. H. S. Braucht, of Spring Mills, and Dr. L. E. Kidder, of Boalsburg, last Friday might lead the unknown ones to think our town is not as healthy as we can rightly boast it is.

A Union Sunday School Picnic.

The different Sunday schools of Centre Hall will unite in holding a union picnic in Bruss' woods, below town, on Thursday, July 28. A union picnic has not been held for several years and this year there seems to be a growing desire for all to join in a day's outing. The committee, made up of representatives of the various schools, has already made arrangements which insure a sociable and pleasant time.

The Plum Grove Sunday school has been invited and will join with the Centre Hall schools. The place selected this year will no doubt add increased interest on account of its historic associations.

A picnic of this kind can be made more successful than usual if the people would all go in the morning, and if the families of the different congregations would join in eating their meals. Let every one remember that it rests with the individual member of the Sunday school to make this a day of enjoyment.

Should be Stopped.
Several young gentlemen (?) of town are using altogether too much vile language and profanity on the streets and in public places.

The same young men are the ones who are usually mixed up in any quarrels, sprees or other disturbances of the town. The language and actions of these persons are disgusting to respectable people and should not be tolerated a moment.

Ladies cannot sit out on their front porches in the evenings without being subjected to the most obscene kind of talk by these degenerates. Surely some of the authorities have the power to stop this base and low talk on the streets and the arrest and severe punishment of those who indulge in it will meet with the heartiest approval of the citizens.

By severely punishing some of them a great disgrace to the town can be stopped, because usually such fellows are only a boastful lot and when they know the people will not tolerate them they will begin to behave as young gentlemen should.

W. McInnay.

Fifteenth Anniversary.

Last Sunday was the fifteenth anniversary of Rev. A. A. Black's pastorate of St. John's Reformed church at Boalsburg, and the event was fittingly celebrated. In connection with his sermon in the morning, Rev. Black gave a history of his pastorate which conclusively showed that his untiring efforts have been attended with good results. In the evening a memorial service was held in honor of the departed members of the charge. Both services were largely attended which is an evidence of the popularity of Rev. Black with his people.

After living more than the usual time allotted to horses, Frank, the thirty-three year old horse of Mrs. Flora O.
