DILLEN AND GREEN GUILTY OF MURDER.

would give Condo all that was coming to him; had no ill will or malice against him; made no resistance when captured; were not armed; we surrendered to posse of seven men. I didn't hit Condo with iron; Green put stocking, which he found in the bath room, over the iron so it wouldn't hurt him when we struck him.

Cross examination by Mr. Orvis. We made complaint about our food; made angry remarks at Jerry just in fun; we never swore at him; had heavy iron concealed in the wall of our cell near the window three weeks; Green took iron off bed in our cell; it was put on by bolt; we had it but one day; the stocking did not belong to either Green or myself; removed iron from bed in forenoon. The iron in stocking is too heavy to hit a man with. We saw Condo coming into jail, and started out of bath room when he was on 3rd step; I went out first with heavy iron; was in my stocking feet; Green had on his shoes; I struck Condo first with fist on back of his head, then went to bath room to put on my shoes; I think Livingston took iron out of jail; I saw Green hit Condo twice on head; showed jury how Green held iron; stocking. He did not hit him very hard; there was no understanding as to who should hit him; I knew Green was going to hit him, and heard Green tell Condo "keep quiet and I won't hurt you;" when I hit him Condo looked at me and said "what's up." Livingston opened Henderson's door. I don't know how many marks got on Condo's head and body; no one in jail but Henderson knew we were going to get out; we wrote him a note; note was shown witness; never saw note before. Livingston said he took iron out.

Ira Green: I am twenty-two years of age; born in Elk county, Pa.; I came to Centre county; went to Cooperstown, Zion, Milesburg, Wallace Run, Unionville, then back to Wallace Run. Was married to Henderson in 1904. I talked to Henderson in bath room, got piece of iron in cell and put stocking around it; took it to bath room with me; was going to push Jerry away from the door and escape. Dillen hit Jerry with his fist first, and only once; had iron in left hand; did not hit him with iron. I hit Condo several times with iron in stocking; I told Condo to keep quiet and I would not hurt him. Livingston got keys and unlocked cell door No. 7; Livingston unlocked jail door; we had no intention to kill Condo, only to stun him and get out; never made any threats against him; had no grudge or ill will against Mr. Condo; he was a larger man than I; I weigh one hundred and forty-five pounds. I was put in jail when I was fifteen years old, for stealing whiskey. My parents live at Gum Summit; I did not know Condo was dead or killed until I got into Lock Haven jail; I put the iron in the stocking so that it would not hurt the old man. Green showed the jury how he held the iron; I don't know who the stocking belonged to. I did not resist when arrested; when the men came up to arrest us I said, "are you fishing?" One man said, "No," I said, "you must be hunting cranes. The last we saw Livingston was at Esquiville; he left us there."

Green cross examined by Mr. Orvis; could not see any one coming into the jail; Dillen was in stocking feet and I had shoes on, Dillen went first and I went about ten feet back of him. Dillen's blow did not affect Condo very much; I hit Condo several times on the head, then sat him down on the floor. I hit him with a key and then I hit him again. I tried to put him in a cell upstairs but he was too much for me; Condo growled when Dillen hit him. I don't know whether anyone else hit him or not. Livingston took the keys from Condo when he was going up stairs; we didn't tell anyone to keep quiet except Condo. I might have told someone that Dillen hit Condo with an iron. We sang and danced in our cell. I swore at Jerry on morning because I didn't get any breakfast.

Scott Morris, of Lejos, Girardfield county, and W. C. Murr, of same place, testified as to the good character of Dillen. S. M. Rice, of Altoona, was called for the same reason, but had never heard the defendant's reputation discussed.

At 10 minutes after five o'clock Friday evening the testimony for the defense closed. No rebuttal was offered and court adjourned until Saturday morning.

ARGUMENT FOR AND AGAINST.

Convicted in First Degree by Chambers, Spangler, Dale and Furst. Court convened Saturday morning to hear the argument of the several attorneys for and against the murders of Turnkey Condo.

The interest previously manifested by the public continued, a large audience being present when the argument was begun.

Dillen betrayed great nervousness, and it required the greatest effort on his part to maintain a semblance of his previous spirit of bravado.

The opening address was made by Col. E. R. Chambers, who reviewed the case from the very beginning and recited in detail and with such vividness the incident of the murder that the counsel for the defendants twice objected to the language, which objection was sustained.

Clement Dale, Esq., was the second speaker and argued for the defendants. In opening his address he took occasion to compliment the court and counsel for the failures displayed. Mr. Dale dwelt at some length on the fact that the large iron was not used to strike Mr. Condo, and that it was therefore evident that murder was not intended.

The appeals by the jury by Mr. Dale caused Dillen to completely break down and weep child-like.

Ex-Judge Furst was the leading counsel for the defense, and his pleading, which covered over one hour, was listened to with equal interest by jury and spectators. Mr. Furst contended that the object of Green and Dillen was to escape from prison, and that they had no intention whatever to commit murder, although the killing was not denied. His argument on this point was so strong that there was a division of opinion among spectators as to the final verdict of the jury.

The closing argument was made by District Attorney Spangler, who stated that the prosecution was prompted by a sense of duty and conducted with absolute fairness to the accused. Mr. Spangler's argument did much to correct any wrong impression that might have been made by opposing counsel.

The Judge's Charge.

At the conclusion of the evidence Judge Love at once delivered his charge to the jury. The charge was clear and to the point, yet too lengthy for publication here. From the admissions made by the attorneys for the defendants, Judge Love stated that it remained only for the jury to say whether the killing was in nature first or second degree.

The following extracts embody the kernel of the judge's charge, and it was the inability, in the minds of the jury, of the defense to prove the contrary that the verdict of guilty in the first degree was found.

It had been held in this State that the intent to kill is the essence of the offense; and this intent may be evidenced by a previous threat to do so and by the procuring of a deadly weapon and thereupon using it upon some vital part of the body with a manifest purpose to so use, and by the various acts and circumstances attending the killing; and if the intent to kill be shown to exist it is willful, and if sufficient time be afforded to enable the mind fully to frame the design to kill, to select the instrument and to form the plan to carry this design into execution, it is deliberate and premeditated.

A person who uses upon the body of another, at some vital part, with the manifest intention to use it upon him, a deadly weapon such as an axe, a gun, a knife or pistol, must, in the absence of qualifying facts, be presumed to know that this blow is likely to kill, and knowing this must be presumed to intend the death which is the probable and ordinary consequence of such an act.

He who uses a deadly weapon without sufficient cause or provocation must be presumed to do it wickedly or from a bad heart. He who takes the life of another with a deadly weapon, without sufficient cause or provocation, and with the manifest design to thus use it upon him, with sufficient time to deliberate and fully to form the conscious purpose to kill, without sufficient cause of extenuation, is guilty of murder in the first degree.

Balancing of Jury.

The jury balloted eight times before a unanimous verdict was reached. The first and second ballots stood six for first and six for second degree; the next five ballots were seven to five. These ballots were taken prior to eleven o'clock Saturday night. Sunday morning at 8:50 the final ballot was taken.

The closing argument was made by District Attorney Spangler, who stated that the prosecution was prompted by a sense of duty and conducted with absolute fairness to the accused. Mr. Spangler's argument did much to correct any wrong impression that might have been made by opposing counsel.
