Farmers and High Tariff.

The farmer who sat and listened to the Republican stump speeches, on Grange Park, no doubt pinched himself to see whether he was dreaming or just listening to a pack of campaign lies.

The farmer was told how he was prospering, for if he wasn't told that he was prospering he would never know it, because his experience has been quite the contrary.

The farmer was told about the high prices he was getting for his farm products, but when he takes a load to the market he will find that the campaign orator was either lying or joking, and that the products of the farm are selling at anything but high prices—potatoes, 30 cents; apples, no sale at all; wheat, $1.00, but the farmers have none to sell; oats, 25 cents; hay, $10.00. At these prices it will take the farmer a long time until he is rich enough to wear the kind of clothing, the diamonds and other jewelry, worn by the stump speaker who was either trying to deceive or jolly them.
