The Great Sunday N. A. Old Doctor Domehead, of "science simplified" He couldn't build a hencoop, by Jingo, if he tried.

But dabbles deep in science—solves mighty problems, and Each week instructs his class of three.

If you have the blues, consult old "Doc" Domehead; if fortune has frowned on you, consult "Doc" Domehead; if SHE has failed to smile, consult "Doc" Domehead. He is an advocate of the Simple Life, and his specialty is "Science Made Simple."

He will make you laugh in spite of yourself, and will cure all your ills with the antics of himself and his class.

Doctor Domehead's class has taken the leading position in the Philadelphia Sunday North American's Comic Supplement.

You will get more fun out of these pictures than you ever had in your life out of a funny paper.

It is a new comic page that is really funny—a page with a laugh in every line.

With old Doctor and Phoebe Ann, a scientific maiden; a fourteen-carat out-pur whose name is Dennis, and a studious Walter Longlegs—he's a "yes, sir" proposition—who, as the class, add to the gaiety of every situation.

The Doctor knows his business; he shows that at the start—"but—on the other hand"—there you get right down to the point, and, as the wily press agent is wont to declare, the point "must be seen to be appreciated" and to appreciate it thoroughly you should become one of the Doctor's patients at once.

NOTICE is hereby given that H. B. Meyer will quit the mill on the 1st day of April, 1905, and the firm of J. A. Kline & Son will take possession on that day and all business will be looked after with care. Those knowing themselves indebted to me will please settle accounts on or before April 1, 1905. Thanking you for past favors and soliciting your patronage for my successors I beg to remain.
