Why Suffer From Rheumatism?

Why suffer from rheumatism when one application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm will relieve the pain? The quick relief which this liniment affords makes rest and sleep possible, and that alone is worth many times its cost. Many who have used it hoping only for a short relief from suffering have been happily surprised to find that after awhile the relief became permanent. Mrs. V. H. Leggett of Yum Yum, Tennessee, U. S. A., writes: "I am a great sufferer from rheumatism, all over from head to foot, and Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that will relieve the pain." For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. SECOND WEEK OF COURT.

Kessinger and Fultz Plead Guilty—Their Sentence—Cases Continued, Etc.

[Additional court news on first page.] exception of the main corridor, the floor of which is very rough and the walls badly in need of painting and papering. The grand jury room also needs new paper and paint.

We further report the jail corridor in a deplorable condition; the floor is broken through in several places and so thin in others that it is actually unsafe to walk on, and would recommend that the proper parties be instructed to give this their immediate attention. We also find the hall of the residence portion, where all visitors are received, to be badly in need of paint and paper, and should be done promptly. We also recommend that the plastering on the inside of the jail yard be removed and replaced with cement. We suggest this as a matter of economy, as the weather is slowly destroying the wall in the present condition.

SECOND WEEK OF COURT.

The second week of April term of court commenced Monday, May 1st, with Hon. Ellis L. Orvis on the bench. Prothonotary Kimport and Register Arthey were in their usual places. W. H. Faries, Esq., of Sunbury, is taking the place of Mr. Burrows as stenographer for the week.

The morning session was taken up in the presentation of motions and petitions by the several members of the bar.

The first case called was that of W. H. Runkle use of Peter Smith vs. G. L. Goodhart, administrator of Mary Slack, deceased, James Kimport and L. W. Kimport. The case took all Monday afternoon and part of Tuesday morning. It appeared that the husband of Mary Slack conveyed his interest in real estate to her, and by reason of this the plaintiff in the case was unable to collect the amount of money due to him on a certain note he held against the defendant.

The jury brought in a verdict in favor of Mr. Smith, for about $170.

The following cases were continued by the court:

Mary J. Gates, et. al., vs. Minnie Rowan and Alfred Rowan; action of ejectment; plea, not guilty.

Mary J. Gates, et. al., vs. David Meyer; action of ejectment; plea, not guilty.

L. O. Meek and D. G. Meek, trading and doing business under the firm name of College Hardware Co., vs. T. D. Boal; action of assumpsit; plea, non assumpsit.

David Moore vs. Nora Moore; action of divorce.

Oceola Lumber Co. vs. Mary Barrett; mechanic's lien; plea, non assumpsit.

F. Hirsh vs. Rush township; action of assumpsit; plea, non assumpsit.

Christian Reese vs. Henry Womer and William Womer; action of ejectment; plea, not guilty.

J. C. Gilliland vs. J. H. Ross, et. al.; action of trespass; plea, not guilty.

Court called Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, this being the time set for the hearing of the writ of Habeas Corpus in the case of Commonwealth vs. Charles Stewart, Howard Stewart and Winfield Gregg, who were committed to the jail of Centre county charged with an assault and murder of Michael McHugh.

After the evidence was submitted to the court, ex-Judge Love made a strong argument in favor of the release of the defendants, stating that under all the facts there was no such evidence adduced upon which they could be convicted of the crime for which they are severally charged.

Judge Orvis remanded the prisoners without bail. He discussed very fully the charges and the different phases of the case as well as the discussion of the evidence which had been adduced on the witness stand by the several witnesses on behalf of the Commonwealth.

JAPANESE FARMERS.

If the Man's Lot Be Hard, His Wife's is Still Harder.

If the lot of a Japanese farmer be hard, that of his wife is infinitely harder. She not only does an equal amount of labor in the field, but the care of the household and the responsibility of the children also rest upon her shoulders.

From earliest infancy a Japanese girl is taught to be obedient to her parents and when she is about to be married her mother gives her thirteen rules by which to steer her bark on the rugged sea of Japanese married life. Among them are the following: "Be always kind to your mother-in-law and sisters-in-law." "Get up early, stay up late at night and do not take a nap in the daytime." "Be a good housekeeper, be economical in everything." "It is well for the happiness of the girl who is about to become a farmer's wife that the last two commandments have been so instilled that she is prepared to regulate her life by them."

The first to rise, she is sure to be the last to retire, and when the male members of the family may be seen stretched on the floor taking their siesta the patient housewife may be seen mending some garment or else laboring in the field. It is scarcely necessary, however, to train her to be economical, for that is compulsory.

Before the farmer has awakened from his heavy sleep his little wife creeps from under the mosquito net, and, performing a hasty toilet, prepares the morning meal. When the other members of the family arise, the beds, which are heavy quilts placed on the floor, are carefully rolled up by the busy housewife and placed in the closet, there to remain until again required.

As there is so little furniture used in a Japanese house, and especially in that of a peasant, one would naturally think that the domestic duties would be very light. Such, however, is not the case.

When the bedding has been removed, the meal is then served in the same room. All the members of the family squat on the floor. The millet or rice, which is the principal and oftentimes only article of diet, is brought in in a wooden bucket, and the wife ladles it out, serves her husband first and oftentimes waits until the whole family has finished before she partakes of the food herself.

When the husband has gone to the field the wife removes the dishes and washes them, together with any pots that may have been used at the neighboring well or in the stream that flows just outside her cottage door. These canals or streams are a great labor saving institution in Japan and are used for many and varied purposes. The farmer, tired and dirty after his day's work, refreshes and cleanses himself by a plunge into the running water. As one travels through the country at one point one may see a woman doing the family washing in the stream. Farther down the road the tired, travel stained pilgrim may be seen refreshing his weary feet by lavng them in the same water. At other points travelers shake their thirst, dusky cheeks disport themselves, and the overworked wife cleanses her dishes in it—Ada L. A. Murcutt in Pilgrim.

A Good Suggestion.

Mr. C. E. Wainwright of Letron City, Fla., has written the manufacturers that much better results are obtained from the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in cases of pains in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus by taking it in water as hot as can be drunk. That when taken in this way the effect is double in rapidity. "It seems to get at the right spot instantly," he says. For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.
