Ensign Lost Pet Cat.
Woe has taken the place of Sweeney at the League Island Navy Yard. Sweeney was a cat presented to a young ensign by his sweetheart, who lives in Annapolis. Woe is what is in the young ensign's heart as a result of a visitation of cats at the navy yard.

When the young ensign was assigned to service his sweetheart sent him a nice cat, with a mellow voice and a pink ribbon around its neck. The cat made friends and every night about thirty of them gathered on the training ship Lancaster and yowled. It woke the sailors on board. An expedition was launched and every cat was captured before sunrise, placed in a bag and thrown into the river. The young ensign heard the row and rushed upon deck, but too late to save the felines.

Cortelyou's Recreation the Piano.
Postmaster General Cortelyou is one of the finest amateur pianists in the country. Indeed, at one period in his life he seriously considered making music his profession. Whenever the cares of his office have proved unusually heavy he goes to his den and sits down at the piano in the dark. Mrs. Cortelyou knows when he is beginning to forget his official troubles, for then he ceases the minor strains with which he always begins and passes to more lively music, generally finishing with a triumphant march. Mr. Cortelyou finds the same stimulus and refreshment in music that other men find in drink, drugs or long walks.

COFFEE HEART.
Very Plain in Some People.

A great many people go on suffering from annoying ailments for a long time before they can get their own consent to give up the indulgence from which their trouble arises. A gentleman in Brooklyn describes his experience, as follows:
"I became satisfied some months ago that I owed the palpitation of the heart, from which I suffered almost daily, to the use of coffee (I had been a coffee drinker for 30 years), but I found it very hard to give up the beverage.
"I realized that I must give up the harmful indulgence in coffee, but I felt the necessity for a hot table drink, and as tea is not to my liking, I was at a loss for awhile, what to do.
"One day I ran across a very sensible and straightforward presentation of the claims of Postum Food Coffee, and was so impressed thereby that I concluded to give it a trial. My experience with it was unsatisfactory till I learned how it ought to be prepared—by thorough boiling for not less than 15 or 20 minutes. After I learned that lesson there was no trouble. Postum Food Coffee proved to be a most palatable and satisfactory hot beverage, and I have used it ever since.
"The effect on my health has been most salutary. It has completely cured the heart palpitation from which I used to suffer so much, particularly after breakfast, and I never have a return of it except when I dine or lunch away from home and am compelled to drink the old kind of coffee because Postum is not served. I find that Postum Food Coffee cheers and invigorates while it produces no harmful stimulation." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

Ten days' trial proves an eye opener to many.

COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s "Weekly Review of Trade" says:
Business broadens in a wholesome manner, and the most encouraging indication regarding the future is the scarcity of labor disputes.

Jobbers have experienced a good spring trade, and manufacturers are now receiving large contracts for fall shipment while retail sales are of satisfactory volume, except at a few points where inclement weather has temporarily retarded distribution.

Activity at the interior is evidenced by the increased transfers of silver dollars and subsidiary silver by the Treasury, crop prospects being well maintained despite excessive cold in a few sections.

Railway traffic continues very heavy, earnings for April thus far exceeding the same period last year by 10.7 per cent.

Several new plants have been completed and others repaired and put in operation, so it is undoubtedly the fact that current production of iron and steel is constantly establishing new high records.

Who Owns the Pearl?
A very strange case has come before the German courts. A woman taking dinner in a restaurant found in one of the oysters served her a pearl, which has been variously valued at from $500 to $750. The proprietor claimed that this was his property, the woman refused to give it up, and the courts were asked to decide who was the lawful owner. The restaurant keeper argued that bones and shells are by traditional custom left in the restaurant by its patrons, and that these articles furnish a source of profit to the proprietor. Whether or not the courts will take his view of the matter is a question yet to be decided. If they do, and the woman had swallowed the pearl, it is argued that she could have been arrested for larceny. The question has provoked much lively discussion in German legal circles, for it has no parallel in German courts, possibly none in those of any other country.
