IN FORTY-EIGHT HOURS PE-RU-NA CURED HIM.

Cold Affected Head and Throat—Attack Was Severe.

Chas. W. Bowman, Lieut. and Adjt. 4th M. S. M. Cav. Vols., writes from Lanham, Md., as follows: "Though somewhat averse to patent medicines, and still more averse to becoming a professional affidavit man, it seems only a plain duty in the present instance to add my experience to the columns already written concerning the curative powers of Peruna."

"I have been particularly benefited by its use for colds in the head and throat. I have been able to fully cure myself of a most severe attack in forty-eight hours by its use according to directions. I use it as a preventive whenever threatened with an attack."

"Members of my family also use it for like ailments. We are recommending it to our friends."—C. W. Bowman.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit.

Depth to Plant a Tree.

As to the depth to plant a tree, it seems to be the general idea that the future prosperity of the tree is proportionate to the depth and firmness with which it is placed in the ground, and the percentage that plant to shallow is almost too insignificant to be worth considering, for the sinning is all in the opposite direction.

Look for the mark made by the earth on the trunk of the tree when it stood in the nursery, and going by that, you will make no mistake. The roots want warmth, light and moisture, such as they receive when placed properly, but when hermetically sealed two to three feet in the ground, it is impossible to develop any vigorous root action while contending against the terribly handicapping conditions. Give your tree plenty of feeding ground, plenty of good, fibrous earth, and if the place of planting is not naturally suitable, dig it out deep and put in what is needed.—Suburban Life.

GOOD POTATOES BRING FANCY PRICES

To grow a large crop of good potatoes, the soil must contain plenty of Potash. Potatoes, melons, cabbage, turnips, lettuce—in fact, all vegetables require large quantities of Potash from the soil. Supply

BAD BREATH

"For months I had great trouble with my stomach and used all kinds of medicines. My tongue has been actually as green as grass, my breath giving a bad odor. Two weeks ago a friend recommended Cuticura and after using it I can willingly and cheerfully say that they have entirely cured me. Therefore let you know that I shall recommend them to any one suffering from such troubles."—Chas. H. Bishop, 109 Livingston St., New York, N.Y.

CAPT. GRAHAM'S CURE

Sores on Face and Back—Tried Many Doctors—Without Success—Gives Thanks to Cuticura.

Captain W. S. Graham, 1321 Eoff St., Wheeling, W. Va., writing under date of June 14, '04, says: "I am so grateful I want to thank God that a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to me. I suffered for a long time with sores on my face and back. Some doctors said I had blood poison, and others that I had bad-ber's itch. None of them did me any good, but they all took my money. My friends tell me my skin now looks as clear as a baby's, and I tell them all that Cuticura Soap and Ointment did it."

Has Million Butterflies.

Walter Rothschild, Lord Rothschild's elder son, has in his enormous museum, at Tring Park, England, says the Detroit Free Press, a collection of more than 1,000,000 butterflies, the biggest private collection in the world. Besides butterflies it contains stuffed specimens of a great number of rare animals and birds, including the great auk, with two eggs, valued at $1,700 each; a sable antelope and a Mongolian wild horse. There are 160,000 specimens of birds.

The stories of extravagant prices paid by Rothschild for rare butterflies are commonly made up out of whole cloth. Nor was there, as reported, any special mission to arctic regions for rare fleas. Some whalers in the arctic circle were simply instructed to look out for certain seals, and Mrs. Rothschild gave instructions that the skins were to be searched for any rare insects. A New York Journalist boarded the whaler on its return to America and the tale of the arctic flea went around the world.

Vast Increase in Immigration.

Immigration into the United States will rise this year to astonishing proportions if the record for the first quarter of the current year be maintained to its close. Over 11,000 foreigners arrived in New York in two days in March, an unprecedented showing. The number of arrivals during the first quarter of 1905 has never been exceeded during a like period in former years. It is probable that the immigration this year will be double that of 1904. Extraordinary efforts are being made to furnish transportation. Ships hitherto engaged in other service are in demand for the transportation of the coming hosts from Europe and steamer accommodations are booked ahead for several months.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Time Files.

A small boy who was waiting with his mother in a twelve-story office building on Chestnut street the other day, watched with fascination an indicator which showed, by a pointing hand on a dial, where the mounting car was. "Mamma," he said, "now I know why everybody here hurries so. Just look how fast that clock goes!"—Philadelphia Record.

THE KEYSTONE STATE

Latest News of Pennsylvania Told in Short Order.

Governor Pennypacker has vetoed the act creating the Department of State Charitable Institutions, which provides for a commissioner with $10,000 salary and a number of assistants. In his message the Governor says: "The purpose of this bill is to create a Department of State Charitable Institutions, and the system elaborated in it would probably, if it became a law, be of benefit to the Commonwealth and enable the Governor and the General Assembly to secure much important information concerning the condition of the institutions which the State either supports or to which it makes appropriations. Unfortunately there is no provision in the bill either for intrusting the work to the Board of Public Charities or for the repeal of the act creating that board, and of the subsequent acts imposing duties upon it. Should the present bill become a law, the Commonwealth would have a Department of State Charitable Institutions, both engaged in substantially the same work and both exercising supervision and a certain control over the charitable institutions. This state of affairs would necessarily lead to expense, trouble and confusion. Each is required to make report to the Legislature and in all probability, at times, their respective recommendations would be in conflict. The institutions are required to permit at all times an examination of their books and records, and a duplication of this vital information would impose unnecessary burdens upon them. The expenses attendant upon both would have to be provided and at the present session of the Assembly bills have been passed making appropriations to each of them. In addition, under the terms of the joint resolution approved April 18, 1905, a commission was appointed to make a full and complete investigation into the condition of the various charitable institutions, and an appropriation has been made for the purpose. There would be three different bodies authorized to make like inquiries. The report of the commission, when made, may furnish important information and enable the General Assembly at a subsequent session to create a Department of Charities, having all the light that can be thrown upon the subject."

A rumor is current in Chester to the effect that Charles M. Schwab is negotiating for the purchase of the Roach Shipyard, to be used in connection with the Tidewater Steel plant in the construction of ships for the Russian navy. John B. Roach, president of the Delaware River Shipbuilding & Engineering Company, said that he had not received any offer from Schwab or any other person for the sale of the yard. When asked why general overhauling operations were being made in the yard he said: "We are simply gathering all the unavailable material, which will be sold as junk."

WOULD NOT BE KISSED.

American's Objection to Oculation Astonished Foreigners.

This is the true story of how a certain pianist, who has been amusing New York with his music and his manners, got possession of his muffer. He saw it first—the muffer that became his own—on the neck of a man to whom he had just been introduced.

"I like your muffer," he said, by way of conversation. "I give you a dollar for your muffer."

"Extremely flattered, I'm sure; but I don't care to sell out just at present," replied the American.

"I give you a dollar," reiterated the pianist serenely. "The muffer will be second hand. A dollar is a good price."

The American pulled the muffer from his neck. "Accept it with my compliments," he said, wearily. "Keep your money, and be so good as to accept the muffer."

The pianist was overjoyed. "Generous man," he exclaimed with tears in his voice. "I kiss you for that." Spreading out his arms he rushed on the American.

"I'll be hanged if you do!" cried the intended victim, who proceeded to grasp the piano pouter by the shoulders and shake him until his teeth rattled.

The musician recovering his breath as the American was vanishing out of the door.

"Men of your country are so cold, so very cold," he remarked to a bystander.

Fixing Railroad Rates. Making railroad rates like playing a game of checkers or chess. Communities to be benefited, producers, manufacturers or shippers to be aided represent the pieces used. Every possible move is studied for its effect on the general result by skilled traffic managers. A false move in the making of freight rates may mean the ruin of a city, of a great manufacturing interest, of an agricultural community. Railroads strive to build up all these so that each may have an equal chance in the sharp competition of business. So sensitive to this rivalry are the railroads that in order to build up business along their lines they frequently allow the shipper to practically dictate rates. Rate making has been a matter of development; of mutual concessions for mutual benefit. This is why the railroads of the United States have voluntarily made freight rates so much lower in this country than they are on the government-owned and operated railways of Europe and Australia that they are now the lowest transportation rates in the world.

President Johnson Poor Writer. The letters of President Taylor are rare, but perhaps those of Andrew Johnson are the rarest, as he did but little of his own writing. His son conducted most of his correspondence and signed his father's name to the letters. It is related that one reason why President Johnson wrote so little was owing to an accident which happened to him when he was working at his trade as tailor. One day a tailor's heavy iron goose fell on his arm, so injuring that member that he found it extremely difficult to indulge in penmanship thereafter. Andrew Johnson was the poorest writer among the presidents as well as the rarest. His handwriting was very much of a scrawl and can scarcely be deciphered by the average reader.

Young Rockefeller's Training.

At Brown university, where John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was graduated in the class of 1897, tales are still told to show how his father impressed on him the same scrupulous regard to detail that made the Standard Oil Company successful. One day when John Jr. was down in the city of Providence with a couple of girls, he took them into a convenient drug store and treated them to ice cream soda. After he had paid the checks and before he left the store he surprised his fair companions by pulling out a pocket memorandum book and entering: "Three ice cream sodas, thirty cents."

Sassafras Tea His Tonic.

The odor of the sassafras tea circulates around the private office of Acting Secretary Ade in the state department, Washington, these days. Two months in the year Mr. Ade drinks tea, but in March and April he brews sassafras by way of spring medicine. He has a tiny brewing outfit tucked away in his desk and when the thirst comes upon him he boils a little water and makes him a cup of tea. And no matter what weighty international problem is under discussion Mr. Ade sets it aside for a few minutes when the time for such refreshment arrives.

MOTHERHOOD

Actual Sterility in Women Is Very Rare—Healthy Mothers and Children Make Happy Homes.

Many women long for a child to bless their homes, but because of some debility or displacement of the female organs they are barren.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound more successfully than by any other medicine, because it gives tone and strength to the entire female organism, curing all displacements, ulceration and inflammation.

A woman who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution. Is not that an incentive to prepare for a healthy maternity?

If expectant mothers would fortify themselves with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for thirty years has sustained thousands of women in this condition, there would be a great decrease in miscarriages, in suffering, and in disappointments at birth.

The following letters to Mrs. Pinkham demonstrate the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in such cases.

Mrs. L. C. Glover, Vice-President of Milwaukee Business Woman's Association, of 614 Grove Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham— "I was married for several years and no children blessed our home. The doctor said I had a complication of female troubles and I could not have any children unless I could be cured. For months I took his medicines, trying in vain for a cure, but at last my husband became disgusted and suggested that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many women have been benefited by Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Medicine.
