good living. The length of the menu and the variety of the dishes bespeak the Pennsylvania Railroad Company an appetite that in the early morning can relish a meal little less substantial visiting the beautiful resorts in the than a dinner.

The hotel breakfast begins with fruit -grape fruit if it happens to be in season, the bitter sweetness of which seems designated by nature to awaken the appetite. And there is really a bewildering problem when next you are asked to choose among the cerealsfrom the old fashioned oatmeal to all kinds of predigested preparations. Cooked oysters in every style are offered on the menu, and even in the best restaurants a plate of oysters costs only a shilling. The choice of fish can be made from a long list-of kinds unknown in England, including weakfish, bluefish and shad, with its delicate roe. It must be out of compliment to Engelectioneering.
