

KILL WITHOUT MERCY

Panic-Stricken People Flee From Lodz and Cossacks.

AN APPEAL FOR PROTECTION.

In One Instance the Brutal Soldiers Killed an Entire Family of Jews Who Were Out Driving—A Millionaire's Servant Robbed and Murdered—General Shustow Promises to Punish Offenders.

Lodz, Russian Poland (By Cable).—The most serious phase of the fighting between the military and strikers is at an end, but there are still isolated attacks in the suburbs. At Baluty Cossacks attacked a Jewish family of five persons who were driving in a cab to the railway station and shot and killed all including the cabman.

At Pabjanice, near Lodz, workmen attacked two policemen, and shot and killed one and wounded the other.

There is a general exodus from Lodz. Twelve thousand persons have already left and all trains are crowded.

During the disturbances 35 government liquor stores were destroyed by the mobs, which appropriated all the cash and stamps found on the premises. The cash and stamps were added to the funds of the Socialist party.

Some prominent citizens telegraphed General Shustow, commanding the troops here, asking for protection against the brutality of the soldiers, especially the Cossacks, who in one instance killed and robbed the servant of a millionaire named Rosenblatt, who was carrying $5,000 to the bank. The general promised to punish the offenders, but said he required witnesses of the occurrence to testify against the Cossacks.

Warsaw (By Cable).—The proclamation issued by the Social Democratic party of Poland and Lithuania, calling out workmen as a protest against the Lodz massacres, declares that in order to show the solidarity of their brethren and to protest against "the new and incessant crimes of the Emperor's government" all Warsaw must stop work. The proclamation orders that not a single factory or workshop shall be operated, and that offices, shops, restaurants and coffee houses must close and all traffic must cease. It says that the red flag, the flag of the workmen, must float in the streets of Warsaw, and calls upon all workmen to help their brothers arrange a general strike.

The military is patrolling the streets in the factory and Jewish districts.

In the suburb of Praga workmen shot and wounded two policemen.

In Ogrodowa street there was an encounter between gendarmes and a crowd and shot were fired on both sides. Three civilians and one gendarme were wounded. In other streets processions of workmen were dispersed.

Lodz is the capital of the district of the same name in the government of Piotrkow, Russian Poland. It is 87 miles southeast of Warsaw and stands on the banks of the Ludka River, occupying an area of about 11 square miles. The city is a great manufacturing center, particularly in the line of textiles. There are some 400 establishments, employing more than 40,000 persons and having an annual output valued at $35,000,000. Cotton goods and woollens are the principal products, but silks, machinery and linen are also manufactured.

CHILDREN HELD AS PEONS.

Regular System of Slavery Believed to Exist in Chicago.

Chicago (Special).—A system of virtual child slavery, in which children under 14 years old are "farmed out" into households in an attempt to solve the "servant-girl problem," is a state of affairs that has been brought to the attention of the Department of Compulsory Education, following startling revelations in various justice courts of Chicago in the last three weeks.

That such a system exists to an alarming degree is the declaration of Superintendent W. L. Bodine, who has secured the conviction of Mrs. Otilie Krosnick on the charge of violating the Compulsory Education law.

"This is the tenth case of its kind that I have had in the last three weeks," said Mr. Bodine. "Judging from the testimony of various witnesses at the trials of these cases, I am convinced there are hundreds of children from institutions who are drugging as servants in many households of the city without being sent to school."

Mrs. Krosnick was fined $20 and costs, the limit in such cases. The two children under her charge were Adelaide Walby, 13 years old, and Edward Rinder, 10 years old. The woman said she had taken the girl from a sectarian orphan asylum in the city eight years ago. Warrants have been secured for several persons, many of whom are said to have taken children from institutions and forced them to do work far beyond their strength.

Boy Kills Baby Brother.

Port Jervis, N. Y. (Special).—William Smith, 9 years old, shot and killed his brother Harry, 18 months old, while they were playing alone in the parlor. The gun belonged to an older brother and stood in a corner of the room. It was supposed not to be loaded. Coroner Case decided that the shooting was accidental. The mother said Willie had diphtheria a few months ago, and his mind had been affected since.

Marooned on Wedding Eve.

Clayton, N. Y. (Special).—George Cooper, of Syracuse, who is to be married to Miss Jeanette Williams, also of Syracuse, was marooned by joking friends on a barren island in the middle of St. Lawrence River. In order to reach Syracuse in time for the ceremony he swam a mile to Grindstone Island, where he secured a boat and arrived at Clayton in time to catch his train.

TWO STEAMERS CRASH

Collision in St. Clair River, Near Detroit.

STEERING GEAR GOT OUT OF ORDER.

Wooden Vessels City of Rome and Linden Run Into Each Other—Two Members of the Crew of the Linden Were Drowned—There Were Passengers on Both the City of Rome and the Linden.

Detroit, Mich. (Special).—The wooden steamers City of Rome and Linden collided in the St. Clair River, opposite Tashmoo Park, and both were sunk. Two members of the crew of the Linden—the cook and his wife—were drowned. The other members of both crews escaped in safety from the sinking boats. The City of Rome was bound down, with a cargo of iron ore, and the Linden was upbound. Off Tashmoo Park the Linden, it is said, suddenly sheered and rammed the City of Rome, damaging her so that the steamer sank almost immediately, 60 feet off the Tashmoo dock.

The Linden, although also badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russell Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1881, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she, too, sank. Cook Hardy and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

ATTEMPT TO HOLD UP TRAIN.

Western Robbers Were Foiled—Bandits Could Not Operate Engine.

Tacoma, Wash. (Special).—Train robbers made an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the North Coast Limited from the Twin Cities, three miles west of Puyallup. A man boarded the train at Puyallup, and when the train was three miles from the station ordered the engineer to stop the train at a fire which was burning near the tracks. Engineer Woods did not stop the train until a half mile beyond the fire. Brake-man Harkins ran up to the engine to see what the trouble was and the bandit shot at him.

Harkins threw his lantern into the ditch and started back for the train. The bandit then ordered the engineer and the conductor to get out of the way, while he made an attempt to back the train to the fire, where his confederates were stationed. He failed to get the engine started, and called for the engineer to come back. The robber then began to realize his position, and as the engineer stepped into the cab he fired twice, one bullet flattening on the boiler head. The bandit then jumped to the ground and ran into the brush.

The train pulled into Tacoma, leaving the freeman and brakeman behind, as they were unable to catch the train. An engine was sent out for them, and they were brought in this morning.

Canal Commission.

Washington (Special).—President Roosevelt has directed that the quarterly meeting of the Isthmian Canal Commission be held July 1 in this city instead of at the offices of Governor Magoon on the isthmus. The instructions of the President to govern the commission, issued April 3 last, require four quarterly meetings a year to be held on the isthmus. This is announced as the only exception that will be made to this requirement, and is due to the fact that all of the members of the commission except Governor Magoon are now in this country.

LONG-RANGE WEATHER FORECASTS.

The Weather Bureau Trying to Counteract Mischievous Statements of Astrologers.

Baltimore, Md. (Special).—The United States Weather Bureau has just issued the following letter to counteract as far as possible the mischievous effects of the work of astrologers, who pretend to foretell the character of coming seasons or the progress of storms and ordinary weather condition for a month or a year in advance, and whose unfounded and unreliable forecasts are too often given undue circulation:

"The ceaseless change in the midst of essential stability and permanence that is apparent among the heavenly bodies suggests a relation between those movements and the destinies of men and of nations as well as weather sequences. So obvious is this analogy that it is not strange that in the childhood of the race it was exalted into an absolute causal connection. There is no more interesting page of history than that which traces the growth of astrology through its various phases, the art of divination, the taking of the horoscopes and auspices, and the gradual development of the sciences of astronomy and meteorology. The first crude theories and conceptions of the Chaldean priests and the Magi were honest efforts to interpret natural phenomena. In later and less simple ages, however, when the priestly class were still to perpetuate their influence by concealing knowledge from the masses or by enshrouding it in mystery, and finally they wielded it not to enlighten but to enslave. And so persistent is mental slavery, and so deep seated in the heart of the race are these early teachings and beliefs that there is even yet a predisposition to accept the supernatural rather than to seek the natural causes of things.

"The infinite desirability of foreknowing the seasons for the benefit of husbandmen is at once the opportunity of charlatans and the justification of national weather services. It avails little to decry the methods of impostors or to brand them as fakirs; the court of final result must always be a comparison of results, and such comparison everyone can now make for himself. Weather maps showing the actual conditions of every day are now published by practically every civilized nation and are accessible to all, and all that is needed to cure the most implicit belief in almanac predictions is an honest comparison of these predictions for a single season with the actual occurrences as shown by these maps. Conspicuous instances of failure, such as those of the artificial rain makers, who a decade ago were given the fullest opportunity to test and exploit their theories, or the colorless results of the extensive campaign of bombardment as a protection against hail, which has been conducted for several years in southern Europe, do not convince the credulous. They do serve, however, to illustrate the 'confusion of tongues' among the prophets of these latter days, who bombard the skies to precipitate storms and bombard the clouds to dissipate them. Government meteorologists are not alone in the denunciation of the fallacies, absurdities and pernicious efforts of so-called long-range forecasts. Professor Young, probably the foremost American astronomer, speaking of lunar influences, points out that the frequency of the moon's changes is so great that it is always easy to find instances by which to verify a belief that changes of the moon control conditions on the earth. A change of the moon necessarily occurs about once a week. All changes of the weather must, therefore, occur within three and three-fourths days of a change of the moon, and one-half of all changes ought to occur within 47 hours of a change in the moon, even if there were no causal connection whatever. Now, it requires only a very slight predisposition in favor of a belief in the effectiveness of the moon's changes to make one forget a few of the changes that occur too far from the proper time. Coincidence enough can easily be found to justify pre-existent belief.

"Unquestionably there is a general desire for an extension of the range of forecasts to cover the near future, and, if possible, the coming season. If some explorer in meteorology and astronomy should discover some fundamental law, hitherto unknown, whereby he could accurately calculate the time of arrival, the force and pathway of storms for weeks in advance, and could warn the people of future floods or droughts in defined localities, he would at once take rank as the greatest scientist of the world. And then if he would reveal the secret of his discovery for the benefit of future generations, he would be honored as the greatest of philanthropists as well as the wisest of mankind. But, alas, up to date this man has not arrived.

"The problem of seasonal forecasts is receiving at the hands of the ablest and most painstaking students of both continents a comprehensive consideration that is certain to be fruitful and far-reaching in its ultimate results.

"So important and so pressing is the work and so promising is the field that the Chief of the Weather Bureau is building and equipping a large observatory, wherein the best talent available will soon be employed to study the intricate and profound problems of the atmosphere, whose solution promises improvement over present methods and results in forecasting and may lead in time to seasonal predictions on a truly scientific basis."

SLOW TOWARD PEACE

Both Parties Are Jockeying For the Advantage.

NEITHER ONE ASKS AN ARMISTICE.

Continued Illness of Minister Lamsdorff Given as the Reason for Delay on Russia's Part—President Roosevelt Trying Hard to Avert a Big Battle in Manchuria by Peace Negotiations.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—Peace negotiations between Russia and Japan have come to a dead halt on account of the illness of Count Lamsdorff, the Russian minister for foreign affairs. It is explained officially that nothing in the form of a hitch has occurred, but that the negotiations merely have been suspended temporarily.

Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, had a brief interview with President Roosevelt, but he had no additional important advice from his government to communicate. He called merely to pay his respects to the President prior to the latter's departure for Oyster Bay for the summer. They discussed informally the peace situation, the President expressing his earnest hope that another general engagement on the battlefield of Manchuria might be averted by the negotiations for a permanent peace now pending.

It is learned that up to this time suggestions for an armistice have not been received with absolute favor by either Russia or Japan. Quite naturally each government is seeking an advantage over the other in the diplomatic sparring that is going on now, and among those in touch with the situation it is regarded as unlikely that definite arrangements for an armistice will be concluded—even if they should be concluded at all—before the formal meeting of the plenipotentiaries of the two powers.

As heretofore noted, there is serious apprehension that unless a temporary suspension of hostilities be arranged, a great battle may be precipitated, the result of which might wreck completely the pending peace negotiations.

It was expected confidently that an announcement of the names of the envoys of the two powers to the Washington conference could be made by the end of this week; but, as a matter of fact, the negotiations have not progressed in the least since Tuesday. That both Russia and Japan have decided upon their representatives at the conference is quite certain, but each government, for reasons of its own, declines to make formal announcement of them.

It seems scarcely probable, at this moment, that President Roosevelt will be in position to authorize a further official statement of the status of the pending negotiations before he goes to Oyster Bay for the summer. While both Russia and Japan have indicated that they may be ready to open the conference about the first of August, the belief in well-informed quarters now is that the convening of the plenipotentiaries is likely to be delayed and that they may not get together until the middle or latter part of August.

St. Petersburg, June 24.—Information from the front is still scanty. While the preliminaries are in progress, a general engagement has not yet begun. Sincerest rumors continue to circulate that Linevitch is surrounded, but apparently they have no other base than the London Daily Telegram's dispatch from Tokyo. An optimistic feeling prevails at the offices of the general staff.

The plenipotentiaries are proceeding slowly. There were no developments today. Foreign Minister Lamsdorff is still ill and unable to see Ambassador Meyer.

DIRECTORS MUST DIRECT.

Comptroller Now Requires All to Sign Certain Replies.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—Capt. W. B. Ridgeley, Comptroller of the Currency, has adopted a little plan which is reported to be causing a commotion in certain national banks throughout the country.

Responses to letters written by the Comptroller concerning laxities, or errors, in national banks are now required to be signed by all the directors. Mr. Ridgeley for years has been urging that the cure for bank failures is to compel bank directors to direct. He has pointed out that in many cases where banks have failed it has been shown on investigation that the directors of the institution were not in touch with its workings.

Hitherto whenever a bank examiner has reported loose methods or carelessness in a bank the Comptroller has written a letter to the bank about it. Usually replies were received from the president or the cashier explaining the matter or "promising to be good." Now all letters go out in the same manner, addressed to the bank, but at the foot is a note stating that the reply must be signed by each director of the bank. This is done for the purpose of making each director cognizant of the criticisms in question.

Sinks Another Steamer.

Singapore (By Cable).—The British India Steam Navigation Company's steamer Ikhona was sunk by the Russian cruiser Terek June 5, 150 miles north of Hongkong. The crew was landed here by the Dutch steamer Perak, which the Terek met June 19. The Ikhona was carrying mails and rice from Rangoon to Yokohama.

Voted Out of Office.

Meriden, Ct. (Special).—The Evening Times says that Edward J. Lynch, of Brooklyn, president of the International Union of Polishers, Buffers and Metalworkers of North America, has been voted out of office. Edward P. Coyle, of this city, one of the official counters at the recent election, announced the result. A. B. Groat, of Kenosha, Wis., is Mr. Lynch's successor. The fight was one of the hottest that has taken place in the office, the majority of the successful candidate being but 116.

MANIAC ON THE WARPATH.

Shoots Nine Persons and Then Kills Himself.

San Francisco (Special).—After holding 1,000 persons at bay for two hours in Eddy street, shooting nine persons and defying the police, Thomas Lobb, a maniac, killed himself.

The wounded were W. K. Koffman, shot three times, wounds in cheek, nose and forehead; C. T. Chevalis, shot in eye; W. Jones, wounds in cheek; Emil Roberts, a boy, shot in leg; Quong Do, Chinese, bullet in hand; George A. De-laughton, nine wounds, six in arms, two in hand and one in cheek; Vincente Romano, shot in cheek and ear; Joseph Laribe, two shots in chin, one in lip, others in shoulder, face and arm; Policeman Patrick Kassane, shot in cheek while firing from adjoining room. Seven shots passed through his helmet.

None of the wounded will die. All the victims were hit with No. 4 shot, except the Chinaman, who received a rifle ball.

The insane man was barricaded in his room on the fourth floor of the United States Hotel, 123 Eddy street. He went to the hotel at night and in the morning began throwing furniture from the window to the street. Several persons narrowly escaped being struck. He then began firing, using a shotgun. He placed $50 and $100 bills in the muzzle of the weapon and fragments of the paper were scattered over the street. A big crowd quickly gathered. Hundreds of men were afraid to pass the hotel. Street-car traffic was entirely suspended after one car had been fired upon and its windows broken.

Police Lieutenant Cole rushed a squad of police to the scene, among the officers being five members of the crack rifle team of the department. They were unable to accomplish anything, however, as the maniac was strongly entrenched in his room and appeared to have an unlimited amount of ammunition.

It was determined that he must be captured, dead or alive, and all the rooms adjoining the one he occupied were filled with armed officers. A lively fusillade was begun through the door, transom and walls of the madman's stronghold, to which he replied with remarkable rapidity. The plastering was scattered from the ceiling and walls, and the police were soon covered with the white flakes and nearly blinded by the lime. Officer Kassans attempted to peer through the transom, when he received a charge of shot which disfigured his face and completely riddled his helmet.

Then Officer Hutchins descended from the room to the room window, while the other policemen made an attack in force on the door. When Hutchins saw the maniac's attention was diverted he gave a prearranged signal by firing his revolver. Hearing the report from an unexpected quarter, the murderous lunatic rushed to the window, which was open, and literally blew off the top of his own head. The brains and fragments of skull flew through the air into the street, to the horror of thousands of spectators who had assembled in the neighborhood, which is near the heart of the city.

ROOSEVELT NOW A DOCTOR OF LETTERS.

Degree of L. H. D. Conferred By Williams College.

Williamstown, Mass. (Special).—The zig-zag journey of President Roosevelt among the colleges of Western Massachusetts ended with his departure from Williamstown, after he had received from Williams College the rather unusual honorary degree of L. H. D. (doctor of letters). His stay in this State, which was a busy one. He attended three college commencements, at two of which he received high honorary degrees; traveled several hundred miles, and, besides delivering significant addresses at each commencement, made a number of speeches from the platform of his car to citizens who had gathered at stations along the route.

The President rose early and leaned from a window to enjoy the superb view of the Berkshire country. After breakfast the President devoted a few minutes to meeting the classmates of Federal Commissioner James R. Garfield, who is a trustee of Williams, and then made a quick inspection of the new memorial chapel. After a short walk the President accepted the invitation of his host for a drive, which ended just before the commencement exercises began. He spoke twice here, once upon receiving the degree and again from the steps of the church, where the commencement exercises were held to the people who could not get into the auditorium.
