SIGN THE TREATY FIRST

Armistice Will Not Be Effective Until Then.

THE JAPANESE RAISE OPPOSITION.

Sato Explains That Japan Does Not Desire to Have Armistice Go Into Effect Until All Commanders on Sea and Land Have Been Notified-Not the Slightest Chance for a Clash Pending the Drawing of Treaty.

New Castle, N. H. (Special) .- An armistice was arranged and an agree-Japan plenipotentiaries. But it does not those entrusted with the duty of putting go into effect until the peace treaty itself has been signed.

The Japanese envoys refused their consent to a complete cessation of hostilities until the treaty has been signed, stating as the reason that owing to the fact that their troops are widely scattered over vast areas of territory it would not be possible to get word to all the commanders in the field.

Japan indicated a willingness to arrange an immediate armistice, and with this object in view M. Witte, Baron Rosen and the secretaries of the Russian mission proceeded to Baron Komura's room in the hotel for the purpose of making the arrangement. They were very much surprised to find that Baron Komura was under instructions from his Government not to make an armistice arrangement immediately effective. The discussion lasted altogether 30 min-M. Witte expressed surprise at the Japanese attitude, and said that an armistice was not necessary if there was not to be actual cessation of hostilities until the treaty is finally signed. The Japanese, however, insisted that an armistice agreement be made, and finally the arrangement was completed and signed, with a provision that it take effect whenever the peace treaty receives the signatures of the envoys of the Czar and the Mikado.

An unexpected conference of the envoys was held in M. Witte's room at 0.30 P. M. Mr. Sato announced that it had to do with the translation of one of the articles of treaty. The drafting committee has been unable to agree on the phraseology, and this required reference to the envoys themselves. An agreement was quickly reached.

Progress is being made on the completion of the treaty with remarkable ranison had two sessions, and, altogether 10 articles of the document were completed. The document when finished will/ have altogether 15 articles.

nakers, interest in the Portsmouth conference has greatly decreased as far as Portsmouth is concerned, and the air of expectancy and excitement which has surrounded the negotiations has practically passed away.

Wednesday those charged with drafting the convention have been hard at work. The envoys have done nothing Their services will not be again required until the formal comparison of the drafts ment signed Friday by the Russian and is in order. It was explained by one of the agreement of the plenipotentiaries into English and French that the treaty. which will be in quadruplicate-a copy in each language for each side-will be ready for signature in about a week.

Mr. Witte will sail from New York on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. on September 12. It is his desire to pay a brief visit to Chicago and Niagara Falls be fore he leaves the United States, and the expectation is that the envoys of both belligerents, with all their subordinates, will depart from Portsmouth by Saturday week at the latest.

Mr. Witte spent most of the day in his apartments. His colleague, Baron Rosen, wandered around the Wentworth and seemed to find time hanging on his | hands. Baron Komura was not much in evidence, and Mr. Takahira, the junior Japanese envoy, remained in bed. It was explained that Mr. Takahira was fatigued.

A very anomalous situation exists as the impression created by the conclusion of peace. While the outside world applauds, in Japan there is evidently great disappointment in the terms, and in Russia, where it would seem that there should be universal rejoicing over the great diplomatic victory Mr. Witte has won, the government seems to have received it coldly.

With the people it will make Mr. Witte great and popular figure and add to his laurels, but at court evidently the very victory Mr. Witte has achieved
