

The Harris Township High School.

For the Reporter. The Harris Township High School will open its term of 1905-1906 Monday of next week.

The school board will heartily support the principal to build up the Township High School, and wish to announce that all scholars contemplating taking higher studies than those taught in the regular public schools, no matter where they are located in the township, are urged to attend this school.

The Oil Well.

Digging at the prospecting well, east of Centre Hall, has been suspended for the past few weeks, owing to the fact that the contractor was hampered in financial affairs.

Mostly Sixes.

The Reporter is indebted to a number of its patrons for cash recently received. Most of the subscribers purchased sixes—that inevitable six.

Took Advantage of the Law.

Byline Butler had dealings with a man whose word proved not to be as good as gold. Mr. Butler, a resident of near Hayward, took up a stray bull, fed him all winter, and in the spring he discovered that the bull was the property of Henry Potter, of Clinton county.
