

THE CENTRE REPORTER.
S. W. SMITH, . . . Editor and Proprietor.
CENTRE HALL, . . . PENN'A.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1905.

TERMS.—The terms of subscription to the Reporter are one dollar per year in advance.

ADVERTISEMENTS.—30 cents per line for three insertions, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion. Other rates made known on application.

The figures opposite your name on label of paper indicate the date to which your subscription is paid. When no date is given the date implied is July, 1905; when no month is given the month implied is July—thus: "00" means July, 1905; "01" means July, 1906; "02" means that your subscription is paid in advance to July, 1906. Other months than July are indicated by abbreviations.

When you pay your subscription always examine your label, and when a notice appears that corrections have been made, compare and report immediately if you have not been given proper credit. No receipts for subscription will be sent by mail unless by special request. The change of date on label ought to be sufficient evidence. Money by mail is reasonably safe. There have been no losses to this date.

RESOLUTIONS AND CARDS OF THANKS.—Resolutions of respect will be charged for at the rate of one-half cent per word, (payable in advance) the minimum charge being $1.00. Cards of thanks, two cents per word, minimum charge, fifty cents, also payable in advance.

AMMON WALKER LOSES HAND.

While Feeding a Corn Shredder the Young Man Got His Hand in the Cylindar.
Ammon Walker had his left hand severed above the wrist by being caught in the cylindar of a corn shredder. He is an unmarried young man, and lives in Rebersburg, and for some time was traveling with a corn shredder. Wednesday morning he was feeding the machine while at the barn of George Weaver, of near Rebersburg, and in some unaccountable manner his hand was caught by the machinery with the above noted result. Dr. Bright and Dr. Musser were called to dress the wound.
Mr. Walker is the son of Jeremiah Walker, of Rebersburg, and is aged about thirty years.

The Stanley Show.

The Stanley Advertising Company, beginning Friday night, gave a show for four nights in Grange Arcadia. With the show they pushed the sale of a number of medicines. The show part was all that could be desired. The singing, dancing, wrestling and sparring were alike applauded by the audience.

The coon singing and imitating child-life by Miss Grace Stanley smacked of stage acting in the larger theatres. She is a girl of seventeen summers, and could occupy a role of more importance than that filled at present.

The watch was voted to Miss Margaret Jacobs. Misses Margaret Mitterling and Sarah Reish were seconds in the contest.

Douty's Moving Pictures.

Douty's moving pictures will be in Grange Arcadia, Wednesday evening, November 22. The apparatus is first class, and will show novel and up-to-date scenes. Among these will be war scenes on land and sea, Spanish bull fights, illustrated songs, and many comic illustrations.

Prof. Charles Crawford, the famous elocutionist and impersonator, will recite and sing songs. He is a marvel. The admission is 10 and 20 cents, and the dates for this show in Penns Valley are:

Milheim, Thursday night, Nov. 16.
Madisonburg, Sat. night, Nov. 18.
Spring Mills, Tues. night, Nov. 21.
Centre Hall, Wed. night, Nov. 22.
Linden Hall, Thur. night, Nov. 23.

The Bradford Hunting Party.

The Bradford hunting party are in the Seven Mountains taking their annual hunt for deer and bear. They have a good record, and there is little doubt but that they will come home well laden with game. The party will stay for two weeks. Among the hunters belonging to this crew, reported to this office, are Messrs. George W., W. Frank, Clyde and Charles Bradford, C. C. Coble, D. Boon, J. C. Kuhn, Dr. James Hosterman, J. Frank Smith, Charles W. Slack, Wm. H. Homan, John Knarr, Bruce Runkle.

Teachers' Institute.

Elsewhere in this issue is given the names of the school teachers and school directors in Centre county.
Almost every school teacher in the county is in attendance at the institute in session this week, as are also many of the directors. The institute is said to be one of the most interesting and instructive held in years.

Bitten by a Dog.

Wednesday morning John Sweetwood was bitten on the leg by a tramp dog. Mr. Sweetwood was having sport with "Rico," the dog well known at the hotel, when the tramp dog pounced upon him, tearing a piece of cloth from his trousers, and leaving well defined marks of his teeth on the calf of the man's leg.

The Weather.

The temperature has been remarkably low during the past two days. Monday night mercury fell to 12 degrees, and Tuesday night to seventeen degrees. Both Tuesday and Wednesday were cold and rough. No thaw.

INCIDENTS OF 1875.

Local Items Taken from the Centre Reporter of Interest to 1905 Readers.

[Note: The spelling of proper names is as the same as found in the files of the Reporter.]

JUNE 24—George Durst, Sr., has exchanged his house and lots in Centre Hall and his farm on Nittany Mountain for the farm of J. Henry Keller, in Harris township. Mr. Keller intends coming to town next spring.

The carriage manufacturing establishment of Alexander Shannon, at Lena, Illinois, has built during the past year over one hundred buggies, besides other vehicles.

The corner stone of the Methodist church was laid last Sunday. Rev. Miller, of the Bellefonte Methodist church, delivered the sermon. These services were conducted in Wiltmer's woods, where a stand and seats were erected for the occasion. After the ceremony in the woods, the ministers and people went to the site of the church and formally laid the stone. The attendance on this occasion was quite large.

JULY 15—Prof. W. C. Heinle has been chosen principal of the Bellefonte schools. Salary $120.

A. J. Reesman has been appointed postmaster at Centre Hall, vice C. F. Herliacher, resigned.

Rev. D. M. Wolf, who held a professorship in Franklin and Marshall College, at Lancaster, has resigned, and will take charge of the Penn Hall Academy.

The corner stone of the Reformed chapel to be erected at Adam Stover's, in the east end of Brush Valley, will be laid August 10th.

Rev. W. E. Fischer, of Somerset county, and a recent graduate of Pennsylvania College, has accepted a call from the Centre Hall Lutheran church.

JULY 22—The Centre County Normal Institute commences at Milesburg, July 27.

Wm. J. Thompson has been appointed postmaster at Potters Mills, in the place of Wm. Allison.

JULY 29—Jacob Solt's house, on Church street, is up.

George Spangler and William Colyer, across the Valley, recently killed a bear weighing 240 pounds.

The stable of C. F. Herliacher was destroyed by fire Friday night of last week. One horse was fearfully burned, having remained in the stable until the halter strap burned off, and when thus released he made a dash for liberty. The stable undoubtedly was set on fire on the inside by some villain. A reward of $500 was offered for the apprehension of the fire bug.

Clement Edmonds, teacher of the German school at Aaronsburg, will give a German entertainment.

AUGUST 5—Francis Fleisher, of Berrien Springs, Michigan, writes that his strawberry crop this year amounted to 117 bushels.

AUGUST 12—Old Fort Lodge, F. A. M., No. 537, will be instituted August 19. The lodge room is on the second floor of the drug store building, and is also occupied by the Odd Fellows.

An application for tavern license was made by John Gorman, of Millin county. The site for the new hotel is along the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad, on the north side of Penn's Creek, a point of Millin county extending to the railroad line. The location referred to is in the vicinity of "Rapid" or "Rough" run, which empties into Penns Creek.

Heavy rains quickly raised Penns Creek in the vicinity of Spring Mills, and several bridges were carried away and other damage done. Several pigs belonging to William Alexander, of Spring Mills, were drowned, and the carcasses were carried to the wheel-work of Fisher's Mill, where they were found the next day.

Married—June 10, Col. James T. Stuart and Miss Emma E. Hunter, both of Boalsburg. . . June 8, W. M. Cramer, of Aaronsburg, and Miss Elizabeth A. Cooper, of Hartleton. . . June 20, George W. Hosterman and Miss Kate Scholl, both of near Wolf's Store. . . July 4, John Hank and Miss Mary Gingerich, both of near Madisonburg.

Not only the legislature but the governor has shown to be rotten to the core. As much may be expected from the former as from the latter. The legislature passed the bills, but they could become operative only after they received the governor's signature. It will be one of the greatest political summersaults ever witnessed to see a corrupt legislature and a corrupt governor enact honest legislation. The extra session is calculated to cover the handwriting on the wall seen the first Tuesday in this month.

The governor possibly called the extra session with good intent, but no one will believe that he purposed calling it until the result of the election was announced. It would be to the governor's credit to admit that he is bending to the popular will instead of insisting that the calling of the extra session was his original intention.

SHOT HIS SWEETHEART'S BROTHER

James Alexander Fastened a Bullet Back of the Ear of James Arnold.

A shooting affray occurred near Milroy Sunday morning that terminated luckily, and left the victim in a condition to tell his own story.

James Alexander and James Arnold, both of Milroy, and both aged about seventeen years, became bad friends some time ago. The former was attentive to the latter's sister, which was objected to by Arnold, but kindly received by the young girl. Arnold, it is said, on a number of occasions had words with Alexander, and forbade him to continue his attentions to the young lady. Lover like, young Alexander paid no heed to Arnold's objections, so long as Miss Arnold was willing to share his company.

Sunday morning Alexander accompanied the Arnold sisters home from Sabbath-school. The word was carried to young Arnold, who followed the trio and soon overtook them.

There were hot words and finally Alexander drew a revolver, first firing in the air. Arnold was very brave, and apparently had no fear of the weapon in the hands of his sister's lover, and continued his threats, and contrary to Alexander's command, came closer to his hated foe, whereupon Alexander fired a second shot, the ball entering the side of Arnold's cheek and lodged back of the ear.

There was considerable excitement for a time, and after the witnesses had regained their senses, young Arnold was hustled to a place of safety, and Dr. Kohler summoned.

In the meantime Alexander disappeared, but later was placed under arrest, and was released under bail. A hearing was given Wednesday, the result of which has not been learned.

Arnold was not dangerously injured. Monday he walked to the Doctor's office and had the wound dressed.

Alexander is a son of Amos G. Alexander, of Milroy, formerly a resident of Egg Hill, near Potters Mills.

LOCALS.

Ex-Sheriff and Mrs. Spangler were visiting friends in Snyder county.

Henry Keiser, aged ninety-seven years, the oldest resident of Snyder county, died at Selingsgrove, Tuesday.

Miss Anna Wilkinson, of Potters Mills, will go to Chicago Friday to remain for the winter with her sister, Mrs. H. B. Spangler.

John Hosterman, assistant principal of the Bellefonte schools, had the good fortune Saturday to kill a wild turkey at McBride's Gap, Nittany Mountain.

Miss Anna Forringer, who for several years has been in Northumberland, is spending a short time with her mother, Mrs. Emma Forringer, at Colyer.

The deer that escapes being killed before December 1st, ought to be given a medal guaranteeing his life against the hunter for a period of five years, and then to be shot at only with a muzzle loading, single barrel gun.

Rev. N. J. Dubbs and family, of Centerville, returned to their home after spending several weeks with friends in Penns Valley. While in Centre Hall they were the guests of Mrs. Rebecca Floray.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dale, of near Lemont, are attending the sessions of the National Grange, at Atlantic City, which convened Wednesday. Mrs. Dale holds the office of Flora in the State Grange, and is much interested in Grange work. Before returning home they will visit Mrs. Dale's parents in Philadelphia.

Messrs. James Leitzell, Jr., of Spring Mills, and Wm. Rote, of Coburn, have been preparing walnut logs for shipment at Centre Hall, during the past few days. R. D. Killian, the buyer and shipper, expects to send a car load of walnut from Centre Hall station in the near future. Mr. Leitzell thinks buying walnut logs is like fishing, every time you go through the stream you are likely to make a catch, no matter who fished ahead.

Politics and Humor.

In the world of politics the man who would obtain political preferment must be serious. No man who cultivates humor to the exclusion of his other gifts can hope to attain to the highest places in the political arena. The American citizen reserves the inalienable right to vote for whom he wills, and the serious man who suppresses his sense of humor rather than the man who cultivates it is honored with his preference.—Senator Chauncey M. Depew.

A FAMOUS CHARGER.

The Story of Marengo, Napoleon's Last War Horse.

Napoleon helped himself to the creature when he encountered the mame-lukes on the banks of the Nile in 1798. Superb as were the horses of these "knights of the desert," the white charger with the "great black eyes, wide nostrils, clean limbs and a brave heart," as Ibrahim the bey described him, was the most splendid of them all. He was a small horse, only just over fourteen hands, faultless in shape and dauntless in courage. Napoleon rode him at the siege of Acre, at the battles of Marengo, Austerlitz, Jena and Wagram. He took him to Moscow in that fatal campaign against Russia and rode him at Borodino and on the Beresina river.

When disaster had come and Napoleon was banished to Elba, the favorite horse was not permitted to accompany him. "I had rather I had shot him than that King Louis should possess him," the fallen emperor said, and he laughed with grim satisfaction when an enquery reminded him that the Bourbon king was himself too unwieldy to ride Marengo or any other horse. Two years passed, and Napoleon was back in Paris. The turn of fortune's wheel had brought him to the top again; Louis was a fugitive, and the emperor was wildly acclaimed by the fickle populace, who but a few weeks before had shouted for the king.

Once more Marengo was led from his stable; once more the housings with the gilded bees were buckled on his shapely form. The horse, old in years and white as fresh flaked snow, was as full of courage as ever. His master's hand passed lovingly over his satin skin as Napoleon mounted him that fatal 18th of June when the troops were forming up on the fields which had been so fresh and green that morning and where the lark's sweet song was silenced by the first booming of the guns. The white charger carried the emperor as proudly as ever; the wide nostrils sniffed the battle clouds as they had often done before. A musket ball struck the creature's flank, and the white skin and golden bees were stained with blood and dust.

Late in the afternoon Napoleon turned his horse's head from the field. The battle was fought and lost. Only Marengo's fleetness and tireless courage remained between him and captivity. Nobly the old horse responded to his call. Away through the trampled corn, across the broken ground, through the awful scenes of slaughter and the heaps of the dead and dying; away through the merciful darkness of the summer night; away toward Paris once again.

That was the last time Napoleon rode his favorite. Lord Petre found the poor beast wounded and utterly worn out, at a roadside inn, where Napoleon had entered his carriage, leaving the horse behind. Marengo was brought to England, and eventually sold to General Angerstein of the grenadiers. His old age was passed at Angerstein's place in Norfolk, where the horse—to the last "beautiful as a picture"—attracted much notice. On his death the general presented one of the hoofs to his old comrades of the Guards brigade, and another belongs to General Angerstein's family, at Weeting Hall, Norfolk.—London Modern Society.

Still Unsatisfied.

"Goin' the whole way, mister?" inquired the passenger with the green necktie as he took put his snuffbox, preparatory to settling himself for a cross examination.

The man interrogated eyed him attentively, then replied:

"No. I got out at the third station. I am going to collect some money due to me for groceries supplied. You see, I am a wholesale grocer. The business was left to me by my father. I am married and have five children. The eldest is eleven years old. I am exactly twelve years and nine months married. I live in a semidetached house, rented at $40. My wife is fair and weighs twelve stone. She was a dairy-maid before I married her, and has been vaccinated twice. I have £1,150 in the bank, and I was fourteen when I left school."

The man in the green necktie had a dissatisfied look as he inquired:
"What did your great-grandfather do for a living?"—London Standard.

Reciprocity in Chickens.

Poultry and the home orchard often make an excellent combination. The poultry stir the ground considerably, fertilize it and take an interest in the solution of the insect problem. There is reciprocity. The fowls need sunshine, shade, a range, scratch bed, grass and grit; the trees need scratching and fertilizing. Poultry seem to be especially valuable in the plum orchard; no curculio playing possum escapes them. Which animal to use for pasturing the home sod orchard is mostly a question of expediency. Before you decide this, however, go over the whole subject again and see if it will not be better to till the orchard after all.—Garden Magazine.

The First Steel Skyscraper.

The first steel skeleton building ever erected was known as the Tower building and stood on lower Broadway, New York city. When the architect submitted the plans for it to the building department in 1888 the members of the department were so puzzled that they had to turn the whole matter over to a special board of expert examiners. For the first time in the world a building had been designed in which the entire weight of walls and floors was supported by the steel skeleton, and the building laws contained no provision for such a structure. But the experts accepted the plans, and the modern skyscraper was born.

Linden Hall.

Harry Shirk lost a large porker a few days ago. Several others have been sick.

Hunters are plenty. Henry Gingerich took a party to the mountains and Henry Reitz met a large party from Shamokin on Monday, who are camping at Laurel Run.

Lee Cole is spending this week with his sister, Mrs. Daniel Bohn.

Mrs. Benjamin Stamm lost a fine three year colt last week. The animal was cut on the barbed wire fence and bled to death.

Mrs. Zettle and children are spending a few days with her brother, George Erhart, on the Potter farm.

Arthur Kimport's little daughters came over from Bellefonte, Saturday, to spend institute vacation at their uncle's home. The Kimport family will move today (Thursday) from Spring street to their new home on Curtin street, Bellefonte.

Rev. Wench, presiding elder of the Evangelical church, held a meeting in the Rock Hill church, Friday evening. Among the visitors at the Wieland home during the week were Mr. and Mrs. Foster Jodon, and Rev. Long and wife, of McKeesport.

Mrs. George M. Hall and daughter Virginia, of Huntingdon, were arrivals here Monday for an extended visit at Grandma Hess' beautiful home.

Reuben Tressler, of the new firm of Tressler, Beyer & Young, who recently ly purchased the large mill at Tyrone Forge, was here over Sunday. Monday he left for Muncy where he will purchase new machinery for their mill, which will be one of the most complete in central Pennsylvania.

Misses Ella Ross and Sadie Felding are attending Teachers' Institute.

Joseph Brooks and family moved to Clartron last week.

Miss Lizzie Gettig, of Braddock, spent several days among friends here, beginning of the week.

Dr. and Mrs. Kidder accompanied Mrs. Joseph Hettinger to Philadelphia, last week, where she will enter a hospital for treatment. Mrs. Kidder expects to remain in the city some time. The Doctor returned Monday.

That Extra Session.

The extra session of the legislature will cost the state at least $500,000. The salaries of the members, in both house and senate, for an extra session, no matter how short or long, is $500 each. To this must be added mileage—twenty cents per mile one way; clerk hire, etc., etc.

In addition to this, the extra session will give those having the contract to furnish the capitol an opportunity to break their contract, and thus add extra for every item furnished.

And all this expense because a corrupt governor is aiming to deceive the people into believing that the rottenest legislature that ever existed will, when in extra session, pass reform measures. What nonsense.
