

THE HUNTERS.

Seven Mountains Crowded With Hunters—Big Game Captured by the Bradfords. The Seven Mountains are crowded with hunters, in fact, the woods are uncomfortably full of sportsmen. The game captured is fully up to that of other seasons.

The Bradford hunting party, halting from Centre Hall, have to their credit the best string of game thus far reported—three bears and one deer. The Bradford party is located on the north of Stone Creek, near Stony Run Gap. They have a splendid camp, and one need only to visit them to fully realize how royally one can be entertained in the heart of the Seven Mountains, miles from a habitation.

A second party camping near by, and who up to Saturday night had two deer on tripods, was the Port Royal Gun Club. They have a most comfortable camp and complete equipment. The members of the club are a genial, jovial lot of sportsmen. They are: James N. Groninger, contractor; W. E. Kuhn, telegraph operator; I. A. Smith, telegraph operator; H. E. Boak, druggist; C. L. Meloy, railway postal clerk; C. D. Frankhouse, railway postal clerk; S. R. Bashore, merchant; C. T. Balsbach, merchant; R. E. Groninger, farmer; S. A. McLain, carpenter, all of Port Royal; John Wischaupt, student, and G. B. Wischaupt, manager Heverly Mfg. and Supply Company, Lewisburg; D. H. Smucker, merchant, Belleville; E. E. Steventon, railway postal clerk, Harrisburg; John S. Boak, express messenger, and David Hertzler, custom house, Philadelphia.

The party consists of William H. Lucas, and H. F. Musser, Centre Hill; Rev. W. W. Rhoads, Dr. Haines, Mexico; W. O. Rearick, Milroy; Joseph Gilliland and David Clark New Bloomfield; C. H. Ernest, Mt. Carmel; Wm. Smith, Philadelphia.

The "R. A. M." party, popularly known as the "Rams," are camping on Stone Creek, a splendid hunting field. They erected their quarters Saturday, and began raking the mountains for game Monday morning. No report of their success has reached this office. The party consists of the following persons: Wm. McKinney, C. A. McKinney, Warren J. Slack, Jacob Bittner, J. L. Faust, of Potters Mills; Harry Faust and friend, of Latrobe; and Mr. Templeton.

At Poe Valley Lumber Camp the "Sweetwood" hunters from Georges Valley have hanging a 500-pound bear, killed last week by John Auman. It is probably the largest bear killed in the Seven Mountains for years. A list of this hunting party has not reached the Reporter office.

The Potters Mills Regulars, No. 1, are camped at Garrity's, east of the old turnpike. Their killing, so far as reported, is a fine, large four-pronged buck. The hunters in this camp are John Wilkinson, James Reish, Jacob Auman, Lloyd Smith, Michael Smith, Perry Wilkinson, Michael Coyle, D. L. Birtges, Thomas Dicks, Samuel Johnson, Sydney Reish.

"The Champs and Ebrights," sixteen in number, seven of whom are ladies, are quartered with Samuel Bittner, at Potters Mills, and take their daily drive through the Seven Mountains. The party are all members of two families whose names the hunters have adopted as their title when on hunting expeditions. They hail from Altoona. No game, so far, has been slaughtered by them.

Nine deer were reported killed by hunters in the Sugar Valley Mountains. The Wingers and Werts, camped at Paddy Mountain, have one deer.

A Milmont party, also camped at Paddy Mountain, have been unable to kill.

The Millheim hunters, holding down a camp at Pine Creek Hollow, near Woodward, have one deer.

The Lancaster sports, camped on Slate Ridge, have not drawn blood.

The Bileys, of Boalsburg, are camped in the Bear Meadows, and have killed two deer.

The Modocs, of Boalsburg, at Ross' Camp, on the west end of Grass Mountain. Their game is a four-pronged buck and one doe.

The Fosters, on Laurel Run, have one deer.

The Costesville party, in Bear Meadows, one deer.

The Homans, of Oak Hill, camped on Laurel Run, killed one doe.

At least six deer have been killed by hunters, mostly from a distance, camped in the Brush Valley Narrows.

DEATH FROM A FALL.

Mrs. J. D. Murray Fell Down Stairway Friday Evening and Broke Her Neck.

The sudden death of Mrs. J. D. Murray, and the peculiar way in which it occurred, Friday evening of last week, thoroughly shocked the entire community.

The lifeless body of Mrs. Murray was discovered by her husband at about five o'clock, at which time Mr. Murray left his place of business—the drug store—to do the little turns about the house. On reaching his home, Mr. Murray at once noticed the absence of his wife and looked about the house for her. On reaching the stair-door, he found the pressure against the latch so hard that he was unable to unloose it. An iron bar was secured, by means of which the door was raised and the latch sprung loose. The opening of the door at once revealed the lifeless form of a beloved helpmate. Mr. Murray at once notified his daughter, Miss Aggie, as well as the neighbors.

Just how the accident happened no one knows, but it is presumed that she either had an attack of apoplexy or tripped at the head of the stairs. The fall broke her neck, which, of course, caused instant and a painless death.

Mrs. Murray was the youngest of the Hoffer family—daughter of Christian Hoffer, one of the pioneers in this section of the country—and was the last of the family to survive. The other members of the family were—Peter, John and George Hoffer and Mrs. Henry Meyer. She was born in Lebanon county, but was a mere child when her parents moved to the well-known Hoffer farm, west of Centre Hall, now occupied by J. J. Arney.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray were married over fifty-one years. They began housekeeping in the house which they occupied all these years.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Murray leaves two daughters—Miss Aggie, at home; and Mrs. H. F. Bitner, at Millersville. One son and a daughter are dead.

Mrs. Murray was of a retiring disposition. Home and family were all to her. She had many dear friends which her kindness and gentleness won for her.

Interment took place Monday forenoon, Rev. Daniel Gress, of the Reformed church, of which denomination the deceased was a member her entire life, officiating.

The age of the deceased was seventy-nine years, sixteen days.

A Sudden Death. Miss Verda Rishel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Rishel, one and one-half miles west of Madisonburg, died suddenly Thursday of last week.

The young lady was in delicate health, but no one looked for such a sudden termination of her life. She was about the house as usual, and about noon went to a couch to lie down, where she died of an affection of the heart before her illness was discovered.

Her age was fourteen years. Interment took place at Madisonburg, Sunday morning.

Boy After a Bear. A son of Wesley Nevil, south of Colyer, had an experience with a bear recently on the Seven Mountains. The young man was in the mountains for small game, and had used all his ammunition except one ball and a charge of bird shot, when he raised a large black bear. His weapon was hurriedly loaded, steady aim taken, and fired. Bruin was badly wounded, and struck for liberty. A trail of blood was followed for a long distance, but night came before the game could be run down, and a rain that fell later made it impossible to continue the search the next morning.

Cold Weather. The weather has been unusually cold for November, Mercury on the fourteenth was down to 12 degrees; twentieth to 15; twenty-first to 13, and twenty-second to 15.

The Free Library, Grange Arcadia, will be open to the public Saturday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock.
