Some time last fall you mentioned that James C. Goodhart sold a fine lot last week. Their honeymoon trip was of hogs, and that the price received to Philadelphia and New York. The Company, and W. F. Mallalieu, manwell repaid him for the good care he gave them.

Hog raising is given considerable attention in this section. I recently sold eight hogs that weighed 3190 pounds, and received $5.20 per hundredweight. I think that even eclipses Mr. Goodhart's good record.

The dairy industry is also an important one here. Most of the milk is manufactured into Swiss cheese. The factories are very numerous, some of them being built as close as two miles. From my home I can see six of these factories. The average price paid for milk, during seven months of last year, was ninety-five cents per hundredweight. The cheese sells as high as thirteen cents per pound.

The weather has been very mild this winter so far, the thermometer registering below zero but a few times. There was some snow, and a little sledding, but it is all gone now.
