Letter to Rev. J. M. Rearick, Centre Hall, Pa.

Rev. Sir: Three churches in Baldwinsville, N. Y., have had their first lesson in Devoe.

Messrs. Osterhout & Lockwood painted the Presbyterian parsonage; estimated 30 gallons; took 22.

Messrs. Slingerland & Shutter painted the Episcopal church; estimated 40 gallons; took 28.

Same painters painted the Catholic church; estimated 50 gallons; took 39.

Of course, they estimated from what they had been using. The saving in paint and work is $4 or $5 a gallon. Total saving on three jobs $125 to $150—the painting costs two or three times as much as the paint, you know.

Yours truly, F. W. DEVOR & CO., New York.

Kreamer & Son sell our paint.

TWO PROPERTIES SOLD

In Centre Hall—The Logan House and F. K. Carter's Residence in New lands.

Two more properties changed hands in Centre Hall. The Logan House, purchased by B. D. Brisbin and W. Frank Bradford at public sale from the Rebecca Sparr estate, was sold to Clement Luse. The price paid was $800. Mr. Luse expects to remodel the structure and make a double house of it. Messrs. Brisbin and Bradford bought the property several months ago, paying $490 for it. No improvements were made on the premises, consequently the speculation paid handsomely.

The other property sold was that of Frederick K. Carter, the purchaser being E. Clayton Wagner. This house is located on Hoffer street. Mr. Wagner will occupy the same by the first of April. The consideration was $700.

Township Supervisors Organize.

The board of township supervisors, elected under the new law, composed of Messrs. James A. Keller, T. Frank Royer and Adam F. Heckman, met at the Old Fort Monday. The board organized by electing Mr. Royer, president, and Mr. Keller, secretary. J. W. Dasher was selected as treasurer. The pathmasters for the various districts are appended. Their acceptance, in all cases, is not positively assured: South Precinct—H. F. Musser, Daniel Daup, John F. Miller, Wm. R. Neff. West Precinct—William C. Farner, John Lee, William H. Lee. North Precinct—Richard Brooks, Henry E. Homan, Samuel Brass.

The board of township auditors—Messrs. H. F. Musser, George H. Emerick and John Fortney—met with the supervisors, as did also Town Clerk A. B. Lee.

The supervisors lowered the cash tax one-half mill, making it one mill. The labor millage is the same—three and one-half mills—as heretofore. The pathmasters will be allowed $1.50 per day, and for labor $1.25 will be paid. Teams are rated $2.50 for two horses and $3.00 for four horses.

LOCALS.

Next: The measles. Fine-Rack weather.

The grain is in fine condition to withstand the most unfavorable March weather.

G. L. Goodhart has a novel bagholder, a western patent, that does its work to perfection. The price is twenty-five cents.

Frank M. Crawford, the Potter-Hoy hardware company's representative, was in town the latter part of last week.

Five of Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Rearick's children, at one time, were in bed on account of having the measles. So far the Rearick family is the only one thus afflicted.

Saturday evening, while a team of gray horses belonging to D. L. Bartges, south of Centre Hall, were in the barn yard where they were turned to be watered, one of the animals kicked the other one, breaking its leg. Later Mr. Bartges had the horse killed.

Charles D. Bartholomew, assistant cashier in the Penns Valley Bank, purchased the lot to the rear of his new possessions from John Spiecher. The lot fronts on Hoffer street, and has a good stable on it. Mr. Bartholomew no doubt will turn the plot into a poultry run.

Mrs. Perry McKinney, of Potters Mills, a rather aged lady, is suffering from cancer of the breast, which is gradually spreading over other portions of her body. Two years ago Mrs. McKinney received treatment for cancer from physicians at distant points, the result being that the disease was aggravated rather than subdued.

Samuel K. Knepley is disabled on account of an injury received to his eye. While using an emery wheel a number of small particles of the emery struck the ball of the eye, and embedded themselves. The foreign substance was removed, and while Mr. Knepley suffers more or less, it is not thought that his sight will be permanently impaired.

A ewe belonging to Richard Brooks, on the farm of Capt. G. M. Boal, recently gave birth to a trio of lambs, but refused to nurse them. Mr. Brooks, for a short time, was nonplussed what to do with his inheritance, when the thought struck him that a heifer, docile and kind, might relieve the situation. The evidences of his predicament were presented to the young cow, and in a short time the lambs were given every motherly care the brute could bestow. "Sookey's" lambs are doing fine.

Several weeks ago Miss Ella Alters, of Bellefonte, was taken to Philadelphia for further treatment for necrosis. It appeared that after recovering from the operation she underwent a year or more ago in which part of the lower jaw bone was removed and having been fitted with plates the disease, instead of being overcome, has broken out at another place in the lower jaw bone and at two or three places in the upper; and the latest word from the hospital surgeons is that it will require constant watchfulness and care, and possibly another operation to overcome the disease.

A very much broken up wagon, a few scratches on the horses was the result of a team belonging to William H. Brooks, of near Linden Hall, becoming frightened and tearing loose while hitched in front of the store of John Meese, Bellefonte. Mr. Brooks was on his way home from John Williams' fitting, and having a bit of business in Bellefonte stopped there to transact the same. While Mr. Brooks was engaged elsewhere, an automobile came along and frightened his horses. They broke loose, ran out Allegheny street and played havoc along the way. The wagon was damaged to such an extent that Samuel Gingersich and William Ingram were obliged to load it on their wagons for transportation.

"HERBES O' VERTUE."

Rosemary and Rue Held High Esteem Among the Ancients.

Of high rank among the ancient and mediæval "herbes o' vertue" was rue. This plant, "the herb of grace," probably gained its reputation for breaking the spells of witchcraft, because it was so often employed for sprinkling holy water. Spenser includes this herb in the ingredients of a charm by which the aged nurse endeavored to change the current of Britomart's thoughts when she fell in love with the image of Sir Artegall in a magic mirror. Another favorite amulet was vervain, the holy herb, which was much used in ancient religious rites and subsequently for decorating the altars of churches. Roman heralds always crunched their heads with vervain when they either declared war or made a truce.

Rosemary was valued for its powers of strengthening a weak memory; hence it became the symbol of remembrance. Rosemary was also used as a love charm, the reason being "both Venus, the love goddess, and rosemary, or sea dew, were offspring of the sea, and therefore as love was beauty's son rosemary was love's nearest relative." Anne of Cleves wore sprays of rosemary at her marriage with Henry VIII, as this flower was then used by brides instead of orange blossoms, and wedding guests wore it instead of white favors. Rosemary was also closely associated with funerals, the mourners each carrying a spray to drop into the grave at the conclusion of the service.

Powdered rosemary applied to the face was supposed to have magical effects for restoring faded beauty, and a bath of rosemary taken three times a day was said to restore youth and vigor. In the language of flowers rosemary signifies fidelity in love. Shakespeare referred to this when he made the old nurse ask, "Do not rosemary and Romeo begin both with a letter?"—that is, with the same letter.—Chicago News.

LITTLE JACK HORNER.

Only an Up to Date "Grater" in the Days of King Hal.

The origin of the poetical jingles known as nursery ballads is in some few cases well known. Thus "the fine lady with rings on her fingers and bells on her toes" refers to the pilgrimage of the queen consort of one of the English kings passing through Banbury, where a cross was set up to mark her night's resting place, and ending at Claring Cross.

The ballad of "Little Jack Horner" is based on the following facts: In the time of Henry VIII, immediately after his breach with the pope, commissioners were sent throughout the country to seize the church lands.

One of the commissioners sent into the west of England, that portion referred to in Kingsley's "Westward Ho," was John Horner. About ten miles from Bath and five from Frome, both in the county of Somerset, lies the Horner estate, which has remained in the possession of the Horner family ever since the above John Horner, when despoiling the church of its lands for the benefit of King Hal, managed to grab a considerable slice for himself and thus originated among the surrounding country folk the ballad referring to Little Jack Horner.

He put in his thumb, And he pulled out a plum, The plum being the Horner estate. The matter was referred to some years back in one of the leading Bristol papers.—H. Smith in New York Times.

Throwing the Handkerchief.

Statement copied from an old manuscript: "In the Foundling Hospital the Boys are bound apprentices, the Women when marriageable are conducted in procession thro' ye streets, and any Young Man who see one He wd wish for a Wife is at liberty to mark Her by throwing his handkerchief." The further to malities required previous to matrimony are not stated. Perhaps this peculiar custom is the origin of the expression "throwing the handkerchief."—Nineteenth Century.

Well Answered.

"Do you see much difference between Americans and Englishmen?" a handsome, spoiled English guardsman is said to have asked a sparkling American girl newly arrived in London society.

"Oh, yes," was her quick reply. "Over there the men admire us; here we are expected to admire you."

"They say the astonished soldier almost fell off his chair at the unexpected edness of it."

Himself a Victim.

A Harvard sophomore was reciting a memorized oration in one of the classes in public speaking. After the first two sentences his memory failed, and a look of blank despair came over his face. He began as follows: "Ladies and gentlemen, Washington is dead, Lincoln is dead"—Then, forgetting, he hesitated a moment and continued, "and—I am beginning to feel sick myself."—Boston Herald.

He Induces It.

Gerald—The faddists claim that yawning is a most healthful and beautifying exercise. Gladys—Well, if that opinion gains ground Cholly Sapphead will become much more popular with the girls.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Wanted the Money.

"Your money or your life!" growled the footpad. "Take me life," responded the Irish man. "I'm savin' me money for me old age."—Cleveland Leader.

Manufacturing sorrow is one of the worst of sins.
