

DR. J. F. ALEXANDER DEAD.

Death Came Tuesday Morning—Interment This (Thursday) Morning at Centre Hall.

Dr. John F. Alexander died at his home in Centre Hall, Tuesday morning. Interment will be made this (Thursday) morning, ten o'clock, at Centre Hall. Services will be held at his late home, and will be conducted by Rev. Daniel Gress and Rev. A. A. Black.

Dr. Alexander's continued illness was directly traceable to an injury to the spine, caused by a fall from a carriage eight years ago. His sufferings, for months at a time, during these years were extremely severe, and it was largely due to his superior will power that death did not overtake him ere this.

Dr. Alexander was one of the most highly esteemed residents in Centre Hall, and in his palmy days was beyond doubt the best equipped—intellectually and otherwise—physician in this locality. It was characteristic of him to search for new remedies and appliances, and it was often that he put these into actual use in his practice before his competitors knew of their existence. As a physician he was remarkably successful, and was just as anxious to restore to health the man of little means as those of wealth.

As a citizen Dr. Alexander stood high in the community. He was honest and honorable in all his dealings, and did all he could to advance the interests of the town in which he lived. Politically he was a Democrat. The Democratic spirit was inborn. He held a number of local offices which he filled with credit. In religious matters he was identified with the Reformed church, where his council was at all times of value, and his contributions of consequence.

Dr. Alexander was born in Penn township, February 22, 1849, and was a son of Amos and Elizabeth Alexander. He attended the public schools and later was a student at Dickinson Seminary from which institution he graduated. It was with Dr. Krider, of Bucyrus, Ohio, a native of Centre county, that he read medicine, and later he graduated from a Cleveland Medical College. During 1874 he was married to Agnes Elizabeth Schimp, and soon thereafter he located in Edwardsburg, Michigan, with the intention of remaining there permanently. A year's stay at that point proved that the climatic conditions were unfavorable to the couple, and it was decided to return to the Keystone State, and in 1876 they came to Centre Hall. Here he has lived continuously, except from 1893 to 1896, which time was spent in California. May 15, 1889, Mrs. Alexander died, leaving two daughters, Misses Emilie and Grace, the latter now Mrs. George Reed, of Los Angeles, California, both of whom also survive the father.

Dr. Alexander's marriage to his second wife, nee Miss Lillie Allison, took place 1898. She survives him. No woman could have been more devoted to her husband during his long affliction and last illness, nor could any mother have had a kinder feeling for her own than she displayed for the daughters of her husband.

The living brothers and sisters of the deceased are Christian, Millheim; A. Reel, Buffalo, Missouri, and Miss Catharine, Los Angeles, California.

Two Accidents.

Two accidents occurred at the Speicher homestead, west of Centre Hall, at which point the Kerstetters, carpenters from Pleasant Gap, and their assistants are preparing timbers for a large barn.

The first mishap befell William Flory, who was cut in the side, under the arm, with an axe. The axe in one of the workmen's hands glanced, causing the injury.

Just twenty-four hours later Merrill Kerstetter was struck with the keen edge of an axe that left a workman's hand. The left wrist was the point the axe struck, severing an artery and cutting into the bone.

Drs. Lee and Allison dressed the wounds, and it is reported the wounds are healing nicely.

To the National Association of Packers of Pure Food, of Belair, Maryland, the Centre Reporter wishes to say, that it will advertise their goods at the regular rates, but it cannot see its way clear to give the firm a column of free advertising. This is only one of a hundred firms that is of the mistaken opinion that the Reporter is published for the benefit of those not willing to pay for advertising space.

While on his way to Spring Mills on an urgent professional call, Dr. J. R. G. Allison overtook a carriage containing two men and two women, and when he attempted to pass them they deliberately drove across the road and prevented him from doing so. By zigzag driving the drunken sons kept the doctor back for a mile or more, although he kindly told them that it was important that he should not be delayed. Finally the doctor managed to drive ahead, when the wretches applied the whip to both the horse and physician. The parties, who are unknown, turned back in order not to be captured at Spring Mills.
