With the consent of the management, Millheim and Centre Hall will follows . cross bats on Grange Park, Friday afternoon, the day of the Odd Fellows' picnie.

Picnic at Tusseyville.

The picnic at Tusseyville was a day long to be remembered; a day of joy to the participants. The grove was in fine condition. About two hundred were present, and all seemed to enjoy meeting with friends from near and far. There were no frowns, no doubt, owing to the fact that the lemonade was free. The affair was speechless, so far as voices from the rostrum were A SPECTATOR.

Mad Dog in Telegraph Office.

Here is one of a hundred accounts of the vicious dog's capers reported in the Pennsylvania papers. The Lock Haven Democrat says:

Operator Clyde Bitner, the messenger boy and his companion were in the P. and E. telegraph office Thursday evening, when a mad dog, frothing at the mouth, came running in through the open door. The animal snapped at the chairs and jumped on the table among the clicking instruments In the midst of the excitement that followed the dog jumped through the window and ran up to near Jay street, that point. where it was shot and killed.

Ball Games at Millheim

It was at Millheim that two base ball teams met defeat Saturday afternoon. The first game was between Rebersburg and Millheim, and the result was 7 to 5. The game throughout was well played by both teams. There is great rivalry between these two teams, consequently the rooting lines were distinctly drawn-Millheim to the right; Rebersburg to the left. In the lower end of Penns Valley the base ball enthusiast is not limited to the lads in knee breeches and boys in their teens, but the gray-haired man roots with an earnestness that would put to shame the most vociferous youth that ever indulged on Grange Park diamond. The score was as

The game between Millheim and Centre Hall was too mild and onesided to even accommodate the line of rooters, and with the exception of the exact height of the net, the direction of repeated gawfs, there was little doing. The score was 8 to 18.

An Example of a Judicial Mind. At a dinner attended by a score of well known lawyers recently, the phrase "judicial mind" was defined by, illustration as follows: "I have searched far and wide for a satisfactory definition of the inevitable query raised when judicial nominations are in sight," said one of the lawyers. "On a Mississippi river steamboat some time ago I obtained my only approximate answer. A southern colonel who employed the phrase yielded to my request for a definition and explained that on a certain occasion a legal light of Mississippi was traveling in a river steamer when the boiler exploded. As the boat was passing the penitentiary at the time the force of the explosion deposited the lawyer inside the walls of the establishment from which he had saved so many criminals. Being uninjured, as a clever lawyer would be under the circumstances, he applied to the warden for a release. The warden listened to the circumstances as he narrated them, but declined to release him, in-

It is a curious fact that every book written on lawn tennis cautions the player to keep his eyes on the ball at the moment of striking it, yet there are very few expert players who do so. A rifle shot looks at his target, a bowler looks at the pins, and a billiard player generally looks at the object ball, not the cue ball. I have found it next to impossible to earry in my mind, while moving rapidly to play a flying ball, the the lines of my opponent's court and his position, so that it has become second nature with me and with most other players to look up in the direction that the ball is to go before it actually leaves the racket. A Missing Five Franc Piece.

Fully half the grownup people of France believe the old story that Napoleon Bonaparte put a check for 100,000 francs in a silver five franc piece and that the coin is yet in circulation. They create a demand for it Napoleon resorted to the device mentioned. The check or treasury order, it is said, was written upon asbestus paper and inclosed in the metal at the time the coin of the check was first circulated.

Right of Way In New York. Most people in New York think Uncle Sam's mail wagons are supreme. They are not. The hospital ambulance comes and when the ambulance gong gongs clear the track. Next in importance is the fire engine. Property is more important than mail, and when the en gine toots and the bells ring clear the way. Two Witnesses.

In order to test a Chinese witness qualification for taking the oath an English magistrate asked him the other day where he expected to go when he died. He replied, "Peking," and was disqualified.

When Cod Become Blind.

Several large cod are kept in one of he tanks of the Amsterdam aquarium, accessarily near the surface and therefore exposed to a strong light from above. Now, the cod, though not a deep sea fish, is not a surface swimmer and lives at depths where the sunlight must be very much modified by passage through the water. It lives in what to us would be semidarkness. Evrry one of these cod exposed to the strong light is suffering from an extraordinary hypertrophy of the eye. The whole organ has become overgrown, as if in the effort to adjust itself to the use of more light rays it had become overequipped and then useless. The cod, in fact, are blind. The most interesting feature in this change is the extraordinary rapidity with which increased supply of light rays has overdeveloped the organ for its use. It has taken place not by slow degrees from individual to individual, but in a course of time to be measured by months and in every individual in the tank. If this example is a measure of the rapidity with which such changes take place among fishes, the adaptation of those creatures which have migrated from the shallow waters of the deep seas, shown by the total loss or enormous development of their eyes and the growth of illuminating organs to light the abyss, may have been as rapid as it is marvelous.-London Spectator.

A Bothed of Violence. The Island of Sardinia is a hotbed of violence. The "Granary of Rome" resists the softening influences of civilization and remains with many of the peculiarities which distinguished it in the middle of the last century. "In the country," writes a traveler of that time, "the men are clothed in goatskins, one before and another behind, without breeches, shoes or stockings, and woolen or skin cap on the head. The women have no other habiliments than a long woclen gown and a woolen cap. The peasants always go armed to defend themselves from one another, for they are all robbers and assassins, so that traveling in the interior is extremely unsafe without an escort, and it is even dangerous for ships to send their people on shore for water unless they are well armed. In short, the Sardes are the Malays of the Mediterranean." -London Chroniele

A Leopard Collar. "A leopard collar." he said, taking up dog collar studded with sharp spikes three inches long. Fitting the collar on chemical action of the gases. In it his dog, he resumed: "This piece of armor-for that is what it is-illustrates an oddity of the Himalayasnamely, the fondness of the Himalayan leopard for dog flesh. In the if any shore deposits are apparent in it. | Himalayas last year I found that all dogs were these murderous looking spiked collars. The explanation was canoes. The minerals are supposed to that the Himalayan leopards conducted in uncensing dog hunt, and that in at tacking a dog they always fell upon his neck. This collar with its sharp spikes is a great protection. It has saved many a dog from a hungry leopard. Often in the Himalayas a dog comes trotting home safe and sound; though with smears of blood and yellow hairs upon his collar spikes."

Names and the Law.

Speaking generally, the law of Engand allows a person to assume and use any name, provided its use is not calculated to deceive or inflict pecuniary loss. So the court of appeals laid down the law in Dockrell against Dougail, and this attitude of the law, the Law Journal remarks, is characteristic of our British tove of liberty. French law is much more strict. It forbids any citizen to bear any name other than that which is expressed in the registry of his birth or to add any surname to his proper same. German law is the same, only it goes a little further in imposing a penalty on any one giving a false name to an official.-Dundee Advertiser.

Guns.

The Germans were the inventors of he first gua. About 1378 Schwartz, German machinist, manufactured nuperous crude guns which were brought nto use by the Venetians in 1392, It is a strange fact that cannon were made before small firearms. At Amberg there is still a piece of ordnance marked with the date 1303. Cannon were first used in war at the battle of Crecy. in 1346. It was not until 1544, however, that they were made in Eng-way to his senses. "Of course, you will understand," he went on, "that we have to be careful about making contracts. I merely wished to assure myself that you are legally of age."

Equally Ignorant.

The author of "Reminiscences of a Country Politician" once asked a laborer in an English village how old he

"I be just the same age as the queen," he said. "It be either a fortnight older or a fortnight younger. I don't rightly know which, and I don't suppose her knows either."

A Witty Forlornity.

A forlorn looking man said, "I've tried everything that I could turn my hand to, but couldn't make anything answer, and now I have decided to go up among the bills, where they say there's a wonderful echo, to see if I can make that answer."
