THE NATIONAL FLAG.

No Possession of a Country More

Loyally Loved and Revered. There is no possession of a country which is more deeply revered, more onsistently loved or more loyally supported than its national flag. In our country to this especially true, for in that one emblem are embodied all the cincipact which our forefathers upheld, all the benefits of a century and a quarter of enlightened progress and all the hope and assurance of a promising future

The stripes of alternate red and white proclaim the original union of thirteen states to maintain the Declaration of Independence. Its stars, white on a field of blue, proclaim that union of tates constituting our national constellation which receives a new star with every state. Thus the stars and stripes signify union and "in union there is strength

The very colors have a significance. White stands for purity, red for valor and blue for justice, together forming a combination which it is our inherited privilege to honor and aphold.

It is not the flag of a king or an ema president. it is the flag of he telepho broad let into being by their will, we ended when necessary by their patriotism and to which they turn for protection to time of danger. No matter into what parties our people my be divided due to political beliefs and leanings, they all stand united under one fide. It is the emblem of unity, safety and faith.-St. Nicholas.

The history of the word asparagus shows how, even in the days of dictionaries, word fashions change. In the eighteenth century, even in elegant usage, the delicacy was regularly called with your gross." A dictionary of 1791 says that "sparrow grass" is now so general that "asparagus" has an air of stiffness and pedantry. "Sperage" had ecu the usual English form in the sixteenth century, but in the seventeenth herbelists broan ht back the orighad Greek and Latin spelling "asparagua," Pepys varies between "sparrow grass," "eparagus" and "sparague." No doubt the eighteenth century relapse was the last, and the "a" is back for good now.

Bogs and Storms.

Hogs are always more restless than isual on the approach of bad weather, and when these animals run to and fro with mouthfuls of straw, leaves or branches the indication is for very foul weather. # Fireworks.

Fireworks originated in the thirteenth century, along with the evolution of powder and cannon. They were first employed by the Florentines, and later the use of fireworks became popular in Rome at the creation of the popes. The first fireworks, which resemble those which we see nowadays, were manufactured by Torre, an Italian artist, and displayed in Paris in Cotton cloth-they call it muslin in ome parts-all about the usual price per yard, but wider, twice as wide as some, and better, wears better, keeps white and whole a surprising time in call sorts of wear.

You could sell that cloth for hundreds of miles; there'd be no limit.

A yard goes further; one buys less yards Wears longer; one buys less often. It always looks right 'till well worn-out. No one customer buys so much of it, but think of the number of customers!

May be you can't get it in cloth: but you can in paint : Devoe Devoe is as if it were wider; a gallon goes further; you buy less gallons; you pay for painting less gallons-as if one paid less for making a garment of that wide cloth-and it keeps for fresh look and sheds water 'till you have forgotten how old it is.

It isn't true in cloth, but it is in paint: the less you pay the better it is; for the goodness of paint is reckoned by gallons; less gallons, more goodness. Goodness in paint is strength. The stronger a paint, the less gallons it takes for a job and the longer it wears.
