Letter to D. A. Booser.
Centre Hall, Pa.
Dear Sir: There's twice as much horse in one horse—it may be a mare—as there is in two or three other horses together.
So with paints too. If a painter can do your job with 10 gallons of Devco for $50; it'll take 12, 15 or 20 of other paints; and the cost of a job is about $5 a gallon, whatever the paint may be.
There are paints adulterated three-quarters—only one quart of paint in a gallon—he's got to paint four gallons of rubbish to get one gallon of paint. The worst horse you've got is as good as that paint, and he'll go as far.
The less-galons paint is the paint, as the most-horse is the horse.
Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & Co.,
New York.
Kreamer & Son sell our paint.

It is a shame how reckless pleasure seekers drive their horses through Centre Hall. Many horses are driven at a rapid gait up the steep grade at the foot of the mountain without the least apparent concern for the poor brutes. If the average resident in Centre Hall had a bit in the mouths of these drivers, there would be frequent jars.

Messrs. Frank Emerson and William Meiss, of Buffalo, New York, were pleasant callers Wednesday morning. The young men are out on a pleasure tour, and are taking numerous views through Penns Valley to be used in an illustrated lecture. Mr. Meiss is a nephew of Merchant George R. ## GORDON FLAYS BOSSES

Former Judge Atty. Gen. Machine in Notification Speech.

Reviews Political Crimes
Declares Machine Has Not Been Whipped into Abdication, But Only Frightened, and Decisive Blow Must Be Struck.

Former Judge James Gay Gordon, of Philadelphia, delivered the notification speech for the Democratic party to Lewis Emery, Jr., at the Pittsburg meeting. He said:

"We live in momentous times. Some of the profoundest problems of social life are in process of solution. Questions vitally affecting the well-being of the people and that a little more than a year ago were scarcely discernible above the political horizon are now being debated at every crossroads store, on every platform and in the columns of every newspaper.

"Within the last twelvemonth a flood of light has been let in upon the methods and morals of the influences that control the capital of the country and the markets for the necessities of life. "State and municipal governments have been laid bare in all the hideousness of corrupt deformity. The nation has staggered appalled at revelations of financial dishonesty, corporate oppression and governmental crimes that the boldest critics of our institutions had never suggested.

"Sinners have covered this people as with a garment and we have bowed our heads in humiliation at the hissing derision of the nations.

"But the heat of indignation that revealed the disease disclosed also the cause of the malady. Every abuse, every oppression, every crime was found to be linked to a corrupt political machine that protected, if it did not engender it.

"No matter how remote the iniquities seemed on their surface from political connection, yet investigation showed that they ultimately rested on party bosses and party machines for support and protection.

Abandoned Wharves a Landmark.
"No locality and no political party had a monopoly of the infamy. From the turbid waters of the Missouri to the abandoned wharves of the Delaware—from Kansas to New York—from St. Louis to Philadelphia—the same unvarying lesson was taught:

"That public plunder has no politics and the corruptions of our financial and political institutions are united as by an umbilical cord with our party bosses and machines.

"Some may dispute the statement that the tariff is the mother of trusts, but in the light of recent revelations none will deny the proposition that the political boss is their godfather.

"It was with these revelations and this lesson before it that the Democratic party of Pennsylvania assembled in state convention last June.

"It had seen, moreover, what a free people will do when once thoroughly aroused to a sense of wrong and betrayal.

"It had seen the aggressive, ardent and impartial district attorney of St. Louis, E. P. elected to the governorship of Missouri. In spite of the Democratic machine, whose crimes he had unvarnished and punished.

"It had seen another district attorney, ostracised by his party for his fearless administration of justice, appeal to the people as an independent candidate and carry the great metropolis of the nation over all factions and bosses.

"It had seen likewise, at the same election, the Tammany candidate for mayor barely escape defeat by methods of dubious honesty and legality.

"Above all, it had seen in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania, the Gibraltar of corrupt boss government, an outcast Republican constituency that had voted for Roosevelt the year before by half a million majority, defeat its party state machine by nearly a hundred thousand.

Honest Citizens Redeemed City.
"In Philadelphia a fusion of honest citizens of all parties redeemed that city from a rapacious political organization the most powerful, all-controlling and debased in the annals of municipal government.

"The Democratic party when it assembled in convention last June was therefore, confronted by an extraordinary condition of public affairs and a delicate and difficult problem.

"A great national party with a confirmed history of more than a hundred years, it would have been natural had it looked upon the disruption of its great political rival as an opportunity for a party advantage.

"We were those in the councils of the party who sincerely entertained this view of political and public duty. They supported their advice by illustrations and arguments that were difficult to confute and that, in normal times, would have been prevailing.

"But these are not normal times and a new issue is before the people of Pennsylvania, and new duties have devolved upon parties. The new issue is the destruction of the boss-governed political machines that have brought shame upon the nation and woe innumerable upon the people.

"The hope of the future lies first in the emancipation of parties from the thralldom of boss-controlled organizations. Reform will follow only when parties become responsive to the will of their voters.

"In Pennsylvania, more than any other state, this issue is emphasized. A protesting body of independent and patriotic Republicans emphasized it when, under the name of Lincoln Republicans, they placed a ticket of their own in the field in opposition to the Machine Republican nominees.

"This body of protesting Republicans integrity arrayed itself upon a platform of principles that represent the urgent reforms earnestly demanded by honest men of all parties.

"Thus stood the Republican voters of Pennsylvania when the Democratic convention met. The old, unregenerate, guilty and convicted Machine, with its cohorts of disciplined dependants on the one side, and on the other the enthusiastic, ardent, honest but unorganized independent Republicans, seeking to save their party from the continued rule of the despot and their state from the continued shame of the spoiler.

"In this emergency what did the Democracy do? Rising to the highest duties of patriotism, putting behind it the promptings of selfishness, recognizing a common cause in the struggle for political freedom, it proclaimed a truce to partisanship and turned its united organization over to a common leadership in the war of emancipation from Machine serfdom.

"By this act of renunciation the Democracy established at once its sincerity and its greatness. The oldest party in the nation and destined probably to endure for many generations to come, it nevertheless has not hesitated to sacrifice its leadership to fall behind the leadership of the youngest of all parties.

"Placing, therefore, at the head of its ticket the nominee of the Lincoln party for the office of chief executive of the state, the Democrats gave him three colleagues of highest character, and eminent fitness to do battle at his side.

"By the command of the Democratic state convention, it devolves upon me to give those candidates formal notification of their nomination. This I do by announcing that you, Louis Emery, Jr., Republican, are the Democratic nominee for governor, and you, Jeremiah S. Black, Democrat, are its nominee for lieutenant governor, and you, William T. Creasy, Democrat, its nominee for auditor general, and you, John J. Green, Democrat, are its nominee for secretary of internal affairs.

"The Democracy is fulfilling its mission when it refuses to strive for a partisan victory that would foster chains on honorable foes. Democrats must stand for liberty first and always. Partisanship will be a helpful manifestation of public spirit when it ceases to be an asset by which the boss maintains his power.

"Political bosses are never partisans. They preach partisanship to their followers, but themselves practice the most miscellaneous inheritance. They are professed monogamists, but practically polygamists. The politics of a boss and a corporation are the same. An irremediable affinity for the party in power and an inveterate hostility to unrepresented minorities.

Progress Grange will hold a festival Saturday night of the opening of the Grange Encampment and Fair.

Miss Roxanna Brisbin will start for Hartford, Conn., the latter part of this week. Before going to that place, she instituted a Rebekah Lodge, at State College.

Because the Reporter called attention to a series of thefts in Centre Hall, a certain individual is said to have threatened to bring a suit for libel. If any one acknowledges that he stole Dr. Allison's chickens, chickens from the roost of Rev. D. Gross, ducks from Isaac Smith, lard from Samuel Gross, and committed a hundred and one other thefts, for the good of the community and not with the intention of committing a wrong, the editor might offer an apology, and might induce the persons mentioned to do the same.

DEATHS.
WILLIAM H. BROUSE.
William H. Brouse, a well-known citizen of Pine Grove Mills, died at his home in that place Saturday morning after an extended illness from paralysis. He is survived by his wife and one son, Edward, of New York city.

Simon Rubie Dead.
The readers of the Reporter, especially the older ones, will recall Simon Rubie, who about twenty years ago went west, locating first at Iola, Kansas, and about eighteen months ago at Caney, Montgomery county, Kansas. His death occurred on 26th ultimo, his age being some sixty years.

Mr. Rubie suffered a paralytic stroke a few years ago, and since then began to gradually waste away. Your home paper comes to you as an old friend and neighbor, telling you all the home news while the large city daily enters your house as a stranger. A local newspaper is absolutely necessary for local news.

The Lincoln-Democratic and Republican candidates will be at the Encampment and Fair. The Lincoln-Democrats will be here Wednesday; the Republicans Thursday. The Eagles will also be in parade Wednesday forenoon.

Claude K. Stahl came home from Altoona last week, remaining only over Sunday. He is one of the many clerks employed at the Pennsylvania railroad shops, and devotes his spare time in assisting a friend engaged in the grocery business. Recently he had the misfortune to injure one of the leaders along the neck, and consequently the enforced vacation.

The roads in Potter township are said to be in a worse condition today than they have been in fifteen years. The succession of heavy rains during the past six weeks have brought about this condition. The Millheim pike is also showing lack of attention. The road in question is one of the problems for the ruralite to crack, and under present road laws the landowner must foot the bills.

Not only chickens are gobbled up by the sneak thief but ducks also. This is attested to by Isaac Smith, who was relieved of four fine ducks the other night. Another theft was committed at the home of Samuel Gross. In this case the sneak thief entered his cellar and removed about half the contents of a can of lard and took it with him. The can might have been identified, but who could prove ownership of hog's lard? The local talent is cute, you know.
