General Funston Takes Up His Headquarters at Mananao and Actual Military Occupation of Cuba Has Begun - The American Authorities Still Having Trouble.

ARMY OF OCCUPATION. Five hundred men of the Fifth United States Infantry and 350 men of the Second Battalion of Engineers landed in Havana and are in camp. General Funston has established his headquarters at Marianco.

Two squadrons of the Fifteenth Cavalry and one battalion of the Twenty-eighth Infantry sailed from Newport News for Cuba on the transport Panama. Two more transports with troops sail today.

The Disarmament Commission reports that threatened trouble with the rebels may be avoided with the exception of those in Santa Clara Province, where troops will have to be sent.

Havana (Special) .--- The first landing of American soldiers in the present occupation of Cuba was accomplished Sunday with marvelous promptness, and at night 500 men of the Fifth United States Infantry and 350 men of the Second Batalion of Engineers are settled under canvas in Camp Columbia. The cruiser Brooklyn arrived here with 400 men on board.

Gen. Frederick Funston established his headquarters at Marianao, convenient to his command. Col. L. W. T. Waller, commander of the marines, has been ordered to report to General Funston, and the entire force of regulars and marines will be under Funston's command until the arrival here Tuesday of Gen. J Franklin Bell, who will direct the distribution of the forces throughout the island.

Within an hour from the time that the transport Sumner came alongside the railroad wharf the disembarking had been completed, and the 850 men had been transported on street cars direct to the camp. Their equipage and supplies were taken on freight cars by another route. The movement was so skillfully handled that the men prepared their midday meal from their own rations. The men are in good condition and are pleased with their camp and its pleasant surroundings.

Philadelphia, Pa., (Special) .-Eight persons were killed outright, everal others are likely to die and at least two-score were injured by exploding gas in the Market Street Subway at a point between Sixth that fact. and Seventh Streets. Buildings rocked under the shock, and many were set ablaze as the fire darted through the supply pipes. Thousands of panes of glass were shattered, and no building within a radius of a block escaped damage. The explosion occurred about 6.40 o'clock, an hour when workmen fill the streets. Pedestrians were blown high in the air, and trolley cars rolled in their tracks as though they were on rockers. Some of the dead were caught in the excavation, while the injured were blown high in the air, by the exploding gas. The street caved in, traffic was halted and business was suspended. The flaming gas soared nearly to the height of the tallest buildings in the neighborhood, and water was of no avail to quench it. The loss will reach more than $500,000. Workmen are searching for bodies of supposed victims in the great cavity made by the explosion. Sounded Like Thunder.

The time of the accident, 6.36 clock, is fixed by Lyttleton, a poiceman at Seventh and Market Streets, who had just looked at his watch when he heard the detonation.

all dead, is the situation at the West Fork Miles of the Pocohontas Colleries Company, where an explosion curred. The bodies of eighteen men were ecovered from the mines as the result of the heroic work of a band of 35 men constituting a rescue party that worked incessantly through the hours of the night and day. It was not until 7.30 o'clock P. M. that the rescuers reached a point near the St.

Paul entry, where the explosion occurred. The work of rescue was very slow, as the conditions confronting the party were difficult to surmount. The authorities anticipated the fearful extent of the casualties by ordering a carload of coffins and burial supplies. Superintendent William Leckie, of the mine, who entered the mine as one of the rescuing party, had a narrow escape from death. He was overcome by the fumes and had to be carried out. Edward Jones, the inside mine foreman, led the first rescue party, and when that party failed to return in a reasonable time a second rescue party, under Superintendent Leckie, followed. Odham and Brown were overcome by gas and died, and Leckie barely scaped with his life. Then the third party was formed and coninued the work. Meantime the first tive. party had reached another entrace to the mine in safety and sent word over the mountain announcing

The scenes around the mine were oitiful. Relatives and friends gathered in groups at the entrances and prise. lsewhere, awaiting tidings of the victims, and gave vent to their grief as the bodies, one by one, were brought out. S. B. Cook, one of the victims, feet of the outside of the mine, was the only survivor of the big explosion in the Pocohontas mines, in 1884. The explosion piled up timbers and dirt to the height of six feet.

Parties coming to work from the Tug River, on the West Virginia side the mines, did not know there had been any trouble in the mines until they ran into some bodies on the tracks and some mules dead, with a man pinned between them.
