THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1906

CHURCH APPOINTMENTS.

Presbyterian—Centre Hall, morning; Spring Mills, afternoon.
Lutheran—Spring Mills, morning, communion; Centre Hall, afternoon, communion.
Reformed—Union, morning, communion, preparatory service Saturday afternoon; Spring Mills, afternoon; Centre Hall, evening.
[Appointments not given here have not been reported to this office.]

SALE REGISTER.

W. M. Grove, agent for James B. Horner—Saturday, November 17, one o'clock on James Street, farm, one mile west of Centre Hill: 2 horses, 3 cows, 4 head young cattle, farm machinery, etc.
Thursday, March 14—D. W. Bradford.

Grove Re-Elected.

Prof. Cyrus Grove was re-elected Superintendent of Public Schools of Stephenson county, Illinois, by a plurality of 1710, the largest plurality given any candidate. Unlike in Pennsylvania the superintendent of schools is elected by a popular vote. Congratulations to Mr. Grove, a native of Penna. Valley.

It's Number 11.

Ira C. Corman, of near Pine Grove Mills, has real reason to be proud over the arrival of a son. It is not number one or six, but eleven. The Reporter congratulates Mr. and Mrs. Corman, and hopes they may live a happy life until number twelve brings them all the blessings a dozen children can bestow.

Creasy's Majority—293

The largest majority in Centre county of any candidate was received by Hon. W. T. Creasy, for auditor general. The majority is 293. A few Grangers stood by Farmer Creasy; many more should have. Apparently the farmers prefer to stick to their political party rather than elect one of their class.

Editors Get Offices.

Senator B. K. Focht, editor of the Lewisburg Saturday News, was elected to congress in the 17th District; Harry Thompson, editor of the Tyrone Times, was elected as a member of the legislature from Blair county, and Charles H. Bressler, editor of the Clinton County Times of Lock Haven, was elected Associate Judge of Clinton county.

The Fatal Straw Stack.

The oft repeated accident is recurring again—the straw stack is tumbling over, smothering valuable cattle. This was the case at Colyer recently, on the Brungart farm, when a stack went over, the result being the death of a bull and heifer, and one animal badly injured.

Jacob Meyer, of Linden Hall, had a similar experience. Several head of cattle were under a stack, and when removed one was dead and another almost smothered.

Guessing Hogs in Millheim.

From Millheim Journal.
The hog committee made its usual fall rounds in the town Sunday. They usually visit every pen and judge the weight of the hogs therein. Its decision is as unchangeable as the laws of the Medes and Persians and any one questioning it is liable to have his hogs judged the lightest in town. The Journal won't give the names of the persons who compose the committee, but is the same old gang that has been doing the judging for the past several years. All honor to the hog committee.

Rebersburg.

Mrs. Julia Delinger, of Millheim, is visiting friends and relatives here. James Frank has returned from Harrisburg and is staying with relatives at this place for a few months.

The third grade school at this place had no school last Thursday, owing to the illness of the teacher, Henry Detwiler.

Miss Mary Bright, who had been attending Bucknell College, returned to her home on Thursday.

Robert Mensch, of Aaronburg, was in town on Friday.

Mrs. Laner Stover, of Coburn, spent a day last week with her sister, Mrs. Willis Weber, at this place.

Wednesday of last week Mr. and Mrs. Jared Kreamer received news of the serious illness of their daughter, Mrs. Solly, near Philadelphia. Mrs. Kreamer left for her daughter's home at once, accompanied by Dr. Bright.

William Bair, who recently bought a home in South Rebersburg, has improved the house by building a porch.

Miss Roseta is making her home with Mrs. Samuel Gramley, at this place.

Last Thursday evening the friends of Mrs. William Eckert assembled at her home during her absence and completely surprised her upon her return. The evening was spent very pleasantly in a social way, and a bounteous repast was served. The following persons were present: Rev. F. Wetzel, wife and daughter Grace, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Corman, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Weber, Mrs. John Harter and daughter Ethel, Mrs. Scott Stover and daughter Amy, Mrs. George Waite and daughter Jessal, Mrs. Sidney Krumrine, Mrs. George Haines, Misses Emma Baird and Ruth Hackman, Miss Grace Beckenhold, of Pittsburg, and Homer Zerby, of Spring Mills, were out of town guests.

Pennsylvania Day at State.

Friday, November 23, is Pennsylvania Day at Pennsylvania State College.

The speakers for the occasion are Hon. Robert S. Murphy, Lieutenant Governor-elect; Hon. Henry Houck, Secretary-elect Internal Affairs; Miss Kate McKnight, President State Federation Pennsylvania Women; Hon. W. B. Simpson, House of Representatives. Exercises will be held in the Auditorium 10:30 a. m.

Lunch-on at McAllister Hall for guests of the College 12:30 to 1:30 p. m. Review of the Cadet Battalion 2:00 to 2:30. Foot Ball—3:00, University of West Virginia vs. State

Last Revolutionary Pensioner.

The last widow revolutionary pensioner on the Government pension rolls died at her home in Rutland, Vermont, November 11. She was ninety-two years old. At the age of twenty-one she married George Dana, a soldier of the Revolution, aged seventy-six years, in 1835. This instance furnishes an extreme illustration of how far into the future the pension system projects itself after the ending of a war. The youngest person alive today can hardly hope to live to see the time when the last pensioner of the civil war shall pass over the river.

Picnic Committee Meets.

The Executive Committee of Patrons Exhibition and Fair held its settlement meeting last Thursday at the home of Hon. L. Rbone. The finances of the association are in a healthy condition. The committee has formulated plans to erect an extensive building for exhibition purposes. This structure will take the place of the several tents in which the exhibits of the farm, garden and orchard have heretofore been located. Other improvements have also been suggested.

Money Redeemed.

George Seanson, of Linden Hall, who chased his pocket book through a threshing machine at Linden Hall, sent the gold and paper money to Washington to have it redeemed. His loss was quite small.

Arbor Cumings would be very willing that the scamp who found his purse redeem his good name by returning the cash to him.

Votes by Parties.

In another column appears a table setting forth the vote cast in Centre county under each party column. The table is one of great interest, and should be studied by those who take an interest in local politics.

LOCALS.

A forest fire raged in the Seven Mountains last week.

Miss Nora Thomas, of near Pleasant Gap, was a caller Friday of last week.

March 14 is the day selected by D. W. Bradford for his sale of farm stock and implements.

A girl baby was born Thursday night to Mr. and Mrs. George Breen, of Centre Hall.

J. Bruce Davis is the first president of a new national bank that will soon be doing business at Milroy.

Farmers are pretty well through with the corn crop, which was the best grown in a number of years.

Mrs. G. H. Widder returned to her home in Harrisburg after a visit of several weeks in and about Centre Hall.

Mrs. Henry Dudeney, the distinguished English writer, is the author of "The Shoulder-Knot," the novel which opens the December Smart Set.

Henry Nighthart, a brother of John Nighthart, the barber, of Bellefonte, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head, at his home in Lewisburg.

The flour mill of Kennedy Brothers at Mt. Morris, Waynesburg, burned, together with nearly 2,000 bushels of wheat and $1,000 worth of flour. The loss is about $10,000 with no insurance.

Schemm Spiglemeyer, of Millheim, who is within a few days of the eighty-fifth anniversary of his birth, has been a traveling salesman thirty-four years, and is still on the road. He says that he is the oldest traveling salesman.

You can assist in preventing a semblance of an epidemic by taking a careful survey of your premises and removing all filth before cold weather comes. It's the thaws in mid-winter and spring that let loose the germs in decayed vegetable matter.

The school teachers throughout the state are booming Charles A. Snyder, of Schuylkill, for speaker of the house, but his candidacy is not taken seriously by others. Mr. Snyder is the author of the teachers minimum salary bill. Frank B. McClain, of Lancaster, at present is the most talked of man for the speakership.

While bawling walnut logs at McConnellstown, Huntingdon county, Samuel H. Meyer had the misfortune to badly cut his foot, and since has been obliged to locomote on wooden pins. He has had unusually hard luck during the past year, having been bitten by a copper head snake, and received a deep scalp wound, by a limb of a falling tree. Good luck is what he hopes for after having had the three mishaps mentioned.

A THRILLING MINUTE.

It Made Up In Intensity of Terror What It Lacked In Time.

The adventure of a contributor to Science lasted but a minute, but it made up in intensity of terror what it lacked in duration of time. The writer tells his own story:

Some years ago while I was making researches in an excavation near Frankfort, O., the center wall of the mound was undermined by the workmen, and I was struck by a mass of falling earth. I had just stooped to examine a small bone which had been uncovered when earth to the amount of several cart loads dropped on me. No one else was in the excavation, the men having gone to the top of the mound.

The falling mass knocked me backward, and I fell with my head and shoulders on a small heap of earth. The falling wall of earth looked black to me, and I well remember the rush of wind it brought.

At first I felt little pain, only intense pressure, which forced the buttons of my costume partly inside my flesh. My watch was pressed tight against two ribs which were broken. The skin on my forehead seemed cut, but it was the pressure of my hat forcing the flesh between the straw. The knife in my pocket seemed burning hot. Just under the small of my back was a large clod which gave me unendurable pain, as if my spine were slowly breaking. Then it stopped, and I felt nothing.

Thoughts raced through my head like lightning, thoughts of the past, present and future. I remember trying in vain to move a hand or a finger. I was perfectly motionless. My chest could not be inflated, and the downward pressure had forced the air out of my lungs. I could move my chin and open and shut my mouth. I tried to keep my mouth closed to prevent its being filled, but it instinctively opened, and the earth fell in. Then the assurance of strangling came to me, but I did not much care.

It was just sixty seconds, the surveyor said, before the men reached me and I felt the earth move slightly. A shovel struck my scalp and cut me. It felt like red-hot iron. When my head was uncovered the pressure on my body was so great the blood was forced to my head until my rescuers feared my veins would burst.

I observed everything, but could not move. The partial paralysis lasted several days. I have never wholly recovered from the effects of my adventure. I cannot enter a cave or stand near a bank of earth without terrible sensations.

WHAT THE HAIR TELLS.

Auburn hair means a kindly, sympathetic nature.

Straight hair indicates more power to govern than curly hair.

Curly denote a feeble sense of right and wrong, gayety, vivacity, self-confidence.

Straight black hair, growing coarse and thick, indicates more order and industry than mental power.

Fine brown hair only accompanies excellent minds. Generally the owner has intellectual tendencies.

Red hair is strongly characteristic—no halfway business there. It usually indicates a quick temper, though there are exceptions.

Beautiful golden hair is rarely seen on persons of a gross nature. Its owner loves fine arts and possesses exquisite sensibilities.

Hair and eyebrows differing in color indicate race mixture and bespeak a wavering, unsteady nature.

As a rule, smooth, fine, softly waving hair betokens gentleness, quietness, neatness.

The Earth's Three Motions.

The motion of the earth at the equator is equal to nearly 1,500 feet per second, and the earth has three motions—viz, the rotation on its axis in one day of twenty-four hours, the revolution around the sun in one year of 365 1/4 days and a very slow gyratory motion at the poles. This last mentioned motion is a very peculiar one and has not long been known. The poles move around the outside of a line at right angles to the plane of the ecliptic, coinciding with the line of axis rotation once in 25,888 years.

A Charming View.

Dawley (to the house agent)—I thought you said there was a charming view from the front windows. Why, there are only houses to be seen. House Agent—So there is a charming view, sir. In the house opposite lives the most beautiful widow you ever clapped eyes on, and she's always at the window.—London Fun.

Habit.

Habit is our primal fundamental law. Habit and imitation—there is nothing more perennial in us than these two. They are the source of all working and all apprenticeship, of all practice, and all learning, in the world.—Carlyle.

Cutting.

Mrs. Enpeck—I think Mr. Mahlistick paints such lovely pictures. I think that I shall have him paint portraits of Henry and me together. Mrs. Cutting—Oh, I didn't know that he painted battle pictures.—Chicago News.

The Lesser Evil.

"I don't see how she could possibly be sillier—she giggles so constantly." "Well, if she didn't giggle all the time she might talk, and perhaps that would be worse."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Her Wide Experience.

Dottie—I wonder if a blond is more attractive to men than a brunette? Lottie—Ask Tottie; she's been both.—Cleveland Leader.

POWER OF CHEERFULNESS.

The Way One Druggist Lightens the Ills of His Customers.

A pale, weak girl entered a downtown drug store the other day. She seemed about to collapse. The proprietor assisted her into a chair and prepared a mild stimulant for her. The druggist's manner was so sympathetic that a little later she confided to him that she suffered with her heart and feared she had not much longer to live.

"Heart disease?" inquired the druggist genially. "Why, I have heart disease myself; have had it for years. That's nothing. I don't worry myself about it. I don't look like a man with a load on his mind, do I? You probably think that you are liable to drop off any time. On the contrary, any doctor will tell you that the average person with heart disease generally lives to a good old age. The very care that a sufferer from heart disease takes of himself or herself is calculated to lengthen the years indefinitely. You see, a man with a weak heart naturally is careful of himself a bit. He doesn't commit any excesses, never overdoes anything, lives in moderation and thus keeps his vitality unimpaired. That's all you have to do—just take care of yourself. What's the use of worrying?"

The druggist's cheerfulness was infectious, the genial interest of his talk made depression appear foolish, and the girl soon began to look more hopeful and even smiled. After the druggist had gayly chatted with her awhile she rose and, walked out of the store with a firm step.

This druggist, though he would scorn the idea if suggested to him, is a benefactor to humanity. He is a believer in the power of cheerfulness, and the good that he does in his peculiar way is not easy to estimate.

Not a day passes that he does not impart his message of the cheerful life to some despairing individual. He makes all others' ailments his own and points out the uselessness of worry. A man will come in bent and suffering. Perhaps he confides to the druggist that he has kidney disease and fears his days are numbered. The druggist immediately informs him that there is no cause for alarm; he has had kidney trouble himself for, oh, so many years, and has no intention of dropping off. That druggist, in the course of a week, probably will acknowledge that he is afflicted with every ailment except housemaid's knee. He makes every complainer feel better. He fairly radiates good cheer and optimism. It is his belief that half the sufferers in the world have complaints that bright spirits will overcome. But even when they have a real disease it is his theory that a little cheerfulness doesn't hurt and that the malady is only aggravated by constant depression. He makes it his mission in life to drive away depression and turn the thoughts of people toward brighter things. His cheerfulness is a tonic that never fails to act.—New York Press.

Test For Ready Boiled Lobsters.

Should ready boiled lobsters be purchased, test them by gently drawing back the tail, which should rebound with a spring. If the tail is not curled up and will not spring back when straightened the lobster was dead when boiled and should not be eaten. Choose the smaller lobsters that are heavy for their size, as the larger ones are apt to be coarse and tough. Lobsters weighing from one and a half to three pounds are the best in size. All parts of the lobster are wholesome and may be used, except the stomach, which is a small hard sack and contains poisonous matter and lies directly under the head, and a little vein which runs the entire length of the tail.

A Queer Wager.

There are men whose pride is in the stoic endurance of acute discomfort. They insist upon doing unpleasant things in order to convince themselves that they can do them. At Oxford some years ago there was an eminent Rugby football player whose passion was to discover the most uncomfortable things and then to do them. One evening a humorist suggested that—as it was January—it would be rather beastly to sit in a cold tub all night long. The footballer at once offered to wager that he could sit till morning chapel time in his cold tub. And he did it.—London Chronicle.

Ease and Fluency.

When Thiers was president of the French republic, he was about to issue some important manifesto and submitted the draft to a critical friend.

"Yes," said the critic, "the matter is clearly expressed, but I miss the ease and fluency of your usual style."

"Ah," replied Thiers, "I have not worked those in yet! The ease will cost me much labor, and the fluency I shall have to drag in by the hair of its head."

Never Recovered.

"You say you are a woman hater, Mr. De Smith?" "Decidedly so," he replied. "In my youthful days a woman made a confounded fool of me, and"

"You never got over it. I understand, Mr. De Smith."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The New Suburb.

Mrs. Suburbs (with paper)—I see that the site of the garden of Eden has at last been located. Mr. Suburbs—Yes? When will the sale of lots take place, and what's the fare from the city hall?

—Puck.

Grant me, O Father, enough of wisdom to live well. Prosperity to live easily grant me not, as thou seest best.—Carlyle.

Every saint in the calendar is said to be provided with a floral emblem.

LINGERING COULD.

Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. U. Gihart, of Zephyr, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One small bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have ever used." This remedy is for sale by The Star Store, Centre Hall; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills; C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville.

Buy Oil from the Barrel.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for canned oil, which ought to cost but 60 cents a gallon. Ready-mixed paint is half oil and half paint. Buy oil fresh from the barrel, and add it to the L. & M. paint which is semi-mixed.

When you buy L. & M. paint you get a full gallon of paint that won't wear off for 10 or 15 years, because L. & M. Zinc hardens the L. & M. White Lead and makes L. & M. paint wear like iron.

4 gallons L. & M. mixed with 3 gallons Lined Oil will paint a moderate sized house.

Actual cost L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon.

Sold in the north, east, south and west.

C. S. Andrews, ex-Mayor, Danbury, Conn., writes, "Painted my house 19 years ago with L. & M. Looks well today."

Sold by Rearick Bros., Centre Hall.

Biliousness and Constipation.

"For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I would have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally."—Mrs. Ross Potts, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by The Star Store, Centre Hall; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills; C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville.
