DRINK MORE, EAT LESS.

Advice For Those With Rheumatism,

Gout, Eczema and Neuralgia. If people would take less nutrition and drink more water, there would be less rheumatism, gout, eczema and neuralgia in the world. The most frequent cause of these derangements is an excess of nutritive materials. The blood is surcharged with salts that are not needed in the system.

The doctors are trying to remedy these diseases by giving something to eliminate the salts, such as purgatives, diuretics and solvents of various kinds. The rational way, however, to cure such affections is to stop the Drink more water; eat less meat and concentrated foods. This shuts off the supply of urates in the

Those who take active exercise in the open air every day require a greater amount of nutrition. Not only do they use up the nutritive materials in muscular exercise, but the amount of oxygen inhaled because of their activities thoroughly oxidizes the urates and changes them in urea. If the blood is loaded with urates they are very likely to crystallize, especially in those portions of the body where the circulation is the least and the temperature is the lowest, such as the elbows, ankles, the toes and fingers.

Drink more water; eat less food. This is a prescription that is worth more to such people than all the drugs in the world. Shut off the source of urate poisoning and the effects of urate poisoning will disappear .- Exchange.

The Gentlemanly Leopard.

The cheetah has a reputation as-one of the most gentlemanly of beasts. A story from Ootacamund shows what fine manners the animal has. Three Calcutta visitors to the hill station were out on a tramp when they were overtaken by a thunderstorm, accompanied by sheets of rain. They spied a cave in the side of the hill, and into it they rushed. When the rain stopped they came out and, to their surprise, found a cheetah sitting lieking the heavy wet off his waistcoat and his paws. It was his cave, but rather than deprive his visitors of their shelter the polite creature had sat outside in the driving tempest. With a friendly mew and gracefully wagging his tall, the cheetah bade adleu to his guests and walked with dignity into his house .-Asian Magazine.

How to Succeed In Literature. The qualities which I consider most conducive to success in literature are imagination, coupled with a great knowledge of the world, concentration, the willingness and ability to work hard, a considerable knowledge of business and a firm determination to ignere the instructions of literary and reading public may be supposed to redependence in writing he may be called finished, so far as any career is in question.-John Oliver Hobbes.

Rainy Day Money.

"Is your husband putting by anything for a rainy day?" asked the prudent relative

"I think so," answered young Mrs. Torkins. "I heard him mention several horses yesterday that he said always run best on a muddy track."-Washington Star.

Smart Youth.

"Young man, there are two questions in life-'Will it pay?' and 'Is it right?' Which shall you choose?"

"Both. I'll use the first up to fifty. and then I can probably afford to adopt the second."-Houston Chronicle.

Benevolence is the tranquil habita tion of man, and righteousness is his straight path.-Menicus.

YOUR OWN FACE

Would You Recognize It if You Saw It on Another?

"How curious it is." said the philosopher, "that the person for whom you care most on earth, the one you see oftenest and who receives your most constant attention, is the one whose countenance is least familiar to you." "Who is that?" asked the visitor.

"Yourself," said the philosopher. "It is a fact that if people could be duplicated and could meet themselves in the street very few would recognize themselves. We look at ourselves many times during the 365 days of the year. We say our eyes are blue or brown or whatever other color they may be, our hair black, our chin peaked, our forehead high. We know every lineament of our face from constant study and attention, yet when we turn away from the mirror we cannot conjure up a picture of ourselves.

"We know just how our friends and even acquaintances look. In fancy we can see them sitting so or standing so, and their varying expressions under different circumstances are clear to us even though we may not have seen them for years, but when it comes to ourselves we cannot fill in even the outlines of the picture. We may laugh, we may cry, we may frown, but we do not know how we look while we are doing it. Photographs do not help us. We have never seen ourselves in the flesh. Mirrors and pictures are poor alds when we sit down and try to see ourselves with the mind's eye.

"That is why people are so deeply interested in anybody who is said to resemble them. Just say to a man, 'I know somebody who is the dead image of you,' and he will never rest till he sees that person. Then if the likeness is really true he will own that up to that time he had had no conception of how he really looked."

The visitor smiled wanly. "I wish you wouldn't talk like that," she said. "It makes me feel positively ancanny."-New York Press.

LAWS IN CHINA.

They Take No Account of the Inten tions of the Accused.

The incompatibility of laws based on diverse civilizations is nowhere more marked than in China, says Hosea B. Morse in the Atlantic. There no bankruptcy law is possible. If a debtor's own estate will not suffice to pay his debts the deficiency must be made good by his father, brothers or uncles; if a debtor absconds his immediate family are promptly imprisoned; if the debtor returns he is put in prison and kept there indefinitely, so long as he can find money for his daily food until released by payment in full or by death. This is the law. When in 1895 Admiral Ting found other agents with regard to what the himself forced to surrender Weihaiwei and his fleet, he committed suicide. quire. If any author once loses his in- By this courageous step, technically dying before surrender, he saved his immediate family-father, mother, sons and daughters-from decapitation and their property from confiscation, the penalty when a commander surrenders an imperial fortress. This is the law.

When in the old days an English gunner caused the death of a Chinese by firing a salute from a cannon from which by oversight the ball had not been removed, he was seized, tried and executed. And in 1839, when in the course of a disturbance with English and American sailors at Canton a Chinese was killed, the authorities demanded that if the guilty person could not be detected and executed the whole party should be handed over for execution. This is the law.

Intention is never taken into account. A dollar for a dollar, an eye for an eye, a life for a life, and all for the emperor and his representatives-this is the law of China.

The Nickname.

The public man in America who has never been tagged with a nickname may be just as efficient and worthy of praise as his brethren who are known as "Bill" and "Joe," but he has not achieved an equal measure of popularachieved an equal measure of popularity. Nicknames are oftener inspired by ALTOONA MORNING TRIBUNE affection than by aversion. "The men of the people," so called, are invariably nicknamed. Venerable citizens still refer to "Abe" Lincoln, dwelling with reminiscent affection upon the abbreviation. Nicknames both good and bad are as old as history. In this country the people have a way of abbreviating the names of the men they really like and assigning their full titles to the men who prefer dignity to popularity.-Pittsburg Gazette.

A Fateful Day For Catholics. One of the most wonderful contrasts in history was made manifest on the day of Newman's entrance into the Roman Catholic church. On Oct. 8, 1845, Newman made his conversion to the Passionist Father Dominic at Littlemore. On the same day, Oct. 8, 1845, Ernest Renan left the seminary of St. Sulpice and went out of the church into the world.-London Stand-

Fit and Fought.

One would have thought this an Americanism, but I find it in Garrick's "Miss In Her Teens," where Tag says to Flash: "Oh pray let me see you fight! There were two gentlemen fit yesterday," etc. (act 2).-Notes and

And Cheerfully Too. "Ninety per cent of the men in this world make fools of themselves for money."

"Worse than that. Ninety per cent of them make fools of themselves for nothing."-Cleveland Press.
