THE FATE OF AN EASTER BRIDE.

Miss Lillie Davis Stops Work on Her Trousseau to Take a Walk With Her Committed Suicide.

Hale, 21 years of age, now languishes vestigation of the alleged $4,000,000 in a Bristol (Va.) jail and must face graft on the capitol at Harrisburg the charge of having murdered his former sweetheart, Miss Lillie Davis, a pretty 18-year-old girl. The trage- derson $1,619.20 for the stand. dy occurred in East Hill Cemetery, 36 feet from the Virginia state line, oredence whatever to Hale's story that he loaned the girl his revolver, at her request, so that she might commit suicide.

The girl was to have been married Sunday, March 31, to J. M. Mc-Roberts, of Georgel, Va. She had been the sweetheart of Ack Hale for two years until some months before the killing, when they separated and she accepted McRoberts. Hale is said to have become very much angered at the time, but apparently his wrath cooled, and, presumably on account of the love affair, he came to the city Tuesday from his home, at Johnson City, as he said, on his way to Colorado. He left Bristol, but at Pulaski, Va., abandoned his proposed trip and returned to Bristol.

He went to the home of the girl's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, on Hadden Street, late Wednesday evening, and took Lillie for a walk. The Davis home adjoins the cemetery. They were seen to enter the cemetery about dusk, but, as the day had been very hot and the moon was shining brightly, persons who saw them suspected nothing, presuming that they were going to sit down on the benches in the cemetery and rest. Fifteen minutes later a shot rang out clear and Hale ran out of the ceme-He passed the home of the girl's mother and went 200 yards further to another home, where he reported that the girl had committed suicide with his pistol. Miss Davis was found lying on the grass in a private square with a mortal bullet wound above her heart, from which was gushing her life's blood. She never regained consciousness, but talked incoherently, and frequently cried out: "Oh, Ack, how could you? You are smothering me to death. Please quit, for God's sake." She died an hour and a half later, and Hale was arrested on a warrant charging him with the murder.

Miss Davis had gone driving with Tale in the afternoon before her death. She returned to her home to assist her mother and sister in working on her wedding trousseau. Hale came and asked her to take a walk. She did so, telling her mother that she would return in time to work an hour to aid in finishing up the clothes that night. Witnesses testified that they saw Hale hold her and pour whiskey down her throat. Beside her after the shooting was reported was found an empty whisky Ten feet distant was found the pistol which ended her life.

The examination of the girl's body by physicians resulted in the disclosure that she had been criminally assaulted. The theory is that Hale assaulted the girl and while she lay on the grass half unconscious he fired the shot that sent her into eternity.

It is also recalled that Miss Davis was the strongest witness against his (Hale's) brother, Roy Hale, who killed her brother, Irby Davis, at Johnson City, Tenn., several months or of the former president's sevago, and for which he is shortly to entieth birthday.

While the Davises are not wealthy people, they are highly thought of, and are closely related to some of the richest people in this section.

Hale is in Virginia and refuses to cross the state line. He was locked up in Virginia after the shooting because there was a doubt about jurisdiction. It developed later that the killing was on Tennessee soil.
