THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1907

TRAIN SCHEDULE

Trains leave Centre Hall on the Lewisburg and Tyrone Railroad, P. R. R. System, as follows:

EAST.....7:17 a. m. and 2:55 p. m.

WEST.....8:15 a. m. and 3:36 p. m.

The Racket.

"When the June bugs go a dancing
On the ceiling and the wall,
And in melodies entrancing,
From the fence the pussies call,
While the 'skeeters are a humming
All the night into your ear,
Don't believe that summer's coming,
For it's then already here."

The Coming of Death.

The redemption of the beautiful cantata of the above title will take place in Bellefonte tonight (Thursday) and Friday night. The cast is made up of young people of the town, with a few from the outside. Among the latter is Miss Helen Bible, daughter of Dr. George P. Bible, of Philadelphia.

Bad Burn Quickly Healed.

"I am so delighted with what Chamberlain's Salve has done for me that I feel bound to write and tell you so," says Mrs. Robert Mytton, 457 John St., Hamilton, Ontario. "My little daughter had a bad burn on her knee. I applied Chamberlain's Salve and it healed beautifully." This salve allays the pain of a burn almost instantly. It is for sale by:

The Star Store, Centre Hall; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills; C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville.

Go to Camp.

Company B, Fifth Regiment, Second Brigade, go into camp Saturday, at Tipton, Blair county, to remain for a week.

For fourteen years A. G. Noll, of near Centre Hall, has been cook for Company B. The length of his continuous service and the general good health of the boys while in camp is a guarantee that his cooking is o. k. Mr. Noll is ably assisted in manipulating the frying pan, etc., by William Parker, also of near Centre Hall, who has had two years experience in that capacity.

Keith's Theatre.

Philadelphia is doing everything for the Elk's this week. Not to be behind, Keith's Chestnut Street Theatre has an especially good bill, headed by the famous American wit, Nat M. Wills. Gus Edwards presents the Blonde Typewriters, with John Stanley, comedian. Sherman, De Forrest & Co. are making a great hit in "The Fall of Port Arthur." The Big City Four, vocal comedy quartet, is appearing for the first time in the Quaker City. Lew Simmons and Lew Pistel, the veteran minstrels; Charles and Nellie King, song and dance artists; Loro and Payne, comedy acrobats; Belloc Brothers, head and hand balancers, are a few of the many features on the bill. The Ellis-Nowlin troupe of European gymnasts and acrobats are a special attraction, while the Flying Ballet is given a welcome return.

Teachers Agree to be Good.

At a meeting of the West Beaver township school board, near Selinsgrove, a resolution was passed requiring all the teachers in that district to sign an agreement that they will abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors and tobacco and not loaf in or about hotels during the school term. The teachers signed the compact cheerfully, and the members of the board say they are going to enforce the rule rigidly. The penalty is the forfeiture of the right to teach in the district for the remainder of the term. A school teacher ought to be impressed with the importance of his position sufficiently to abstain from committing any of the follies mentioned above without being required to sign a special agreement. To say the least, the action of the board reflects on the personnel of the Snyder county school teachers.

Penn's Eagles Mad.

The Pennsylvania Eagles are mad all over because Right Grand Worthy President Krause, of Wilmington, Delaware, has obliged Worthy State President Thomas H. Greevy to call off the convention called to meet in Altoona the latter part of this month. It is said that President Krause and those who stand with him fear the power of Pennsylvania Eagles, who have the largest subordinate body in the order. It is intimated that they see a growing disposition to elevate State President Greevy to the head of the national body, which would undoubtedly assume definite form if the state convention were permitted. It was intended, it is said, to have the state convention endorse the candidacy of Mr. Greevy, and this is the very thing, some Eagles say, that caused the interference of the national president.

The canceling of the convention has caused friction, and prominent Eagles say that it will culminate in an upheaval at the next national convention of the order, when there will be a strong movement to oust National President Krause.

LOCALS.

The Jamestown Exposition is in full swing with only the Historic Art Building uncompleted.

The Howard hotel has been leased by Charles McMurtie, of Tyrone. The former landlord was Edward Henderson.

J. Roy Shaffer, of Graysville, was at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bigler Shaffer, east of Centre Hall, over Sunday.

Claude K. Stahl, of Altoona, was home over Sunday. He has in mind a trip to Chicago to his chum, Paul Murray, also of this place.

The Howard Mattress Company have moved into their new building and are turning out their product at a lively rate. So remarks the Hustler.

Mrs. I. V. Musser and little son Harold, of near Pittsburgh, are guests of the former's parents in Centre Hall. They will remain here for several weeks.

Mrs. Edward Jamison and little son, of Millheim, came to Centre Hall Saturday afternoon and spent Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Homan, east of Centre Hall.

Charles J. Sigmund, postmaster of Salona, Clinton county, died, aged forty-five years. He was an active politician, and two years ago was the Republican candidate for sheriff.

The marriage of Miss Priscilla Ann Wilson, formerly of Boalsburg, and W. C. Williams, of Curwensville, took place recently. The young couple will make their home in Punxsutawney.

The aggregate tax levy in Centre Hall is just one-half mill higher than last year. The poor tax was reduced one mill and the school tax raised one and one-half mills. Other tax rates remain the same as heretofore.

A team of horses valued at five hundred dollars, belonging to John Hipple, of Union township, ran away and getting in front of a freight train on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad were run into and both were killed.

While working about the stove mill of his father, Monday morning, Austin Robinson got the thumb on his right hand too near the saw, and the result was a badly mutilated member. It is thought the wound will heal without amputation.

The many friends of Chauncey Bill Stuart, formerly of State College, will be pleased to learn that he has finally made a rich strike on his oil lands in Oklahoma, as a week or two ago he blew a well which is now spouting fifteen hundred barrels of oil a day.

In another column of this issue will be found an article telling of the soil survey now being made in Centre county. Farmers should read it, and make application for the pamphlet which will be mailed from the Agricultural Department for the asking.

From the Millburg Times: John Dasher and wife, of near Centre Hall, spent a few days in town as the guests of C. O. Harter and family. Mr. Dasher purchased a fine carriage of the Hopp Carriage Company before leaving. D. H. Myers had business in Centre county this week. He visited Linden Hall.

Rev. J. M. Steck, D. D., died a few days ago at Pottsgrove, after completing a half century in the Lutheran ministry. Dr. Steck was a native of Hughesville, where internment was made. For several years he was pastor of the Bellefonte Lutheran church, and while there delivered several lectures in Centre Hall. Later he went to Shamokin, where was succeeded by Dr. Fischer.

TELEGRAMS.

They May Be Opened and Read and Refused by the Receiver.

"Of the many popular suppositions which are erroneous," said a telegrapher to a reporter, "one is that the addressee or the receiver of a telegram upon which the tolls are to be collected must pay the charges if he opens the envelope and reads the message."

"This, however, is not correct, but it is astonishing how universal is this belief. There are many ways of accounting for it, and perhaps one may be attributed to the fact that a letter sent through the mails upon which postage is due and collectible is surrendered to the addressee only upon the payment of the necessary deficient postage."

"Much more importance attaches to a telegram than to a letter on the part of the recipient, and it is seldom that a person will refuse to receive and to pay for a telegram sent 'collect,' though an individual might refuse to pay the additional postage due upon a letter, holding that if the sender did not esteem it of sufficient importance to fully prepay it the addressee did not care to receive it. But there is always more or less importance regarding a telegram, and many persons have received a 'collect' telegram and then afterward kicked themselves because they were required to pay the charges."

"But a telegram may be opened, read and refused precisely as the addressee of a letter may refuse to receive a letter. In the latter instance the addressee does not open the envelope, but indorses thereon the words 'Refused by addressee' and signs his name, and this is the course to pursue with a telegram which the addressee does not desire to accept, only the envelope may first be opened."

"The telegraph company protects itself in always insisting at the time of the receipt of a 'collect' message that the sender shall deposit with the receiver a sufficient sum to pay for the full tolls, and if this is not demanded and received by the clerk accepting the message he is held personally responsible by the company in the event of the message being refused at the other end of the line."

"Many persons send 'collect' telegrams, often at great length and considerable cost, as a means of annoyance or as a joke on the recipient, but the joke may be turned on the other fellow by simply refusing to pay the charges. There is one exception, however, to the rule, and the public might bear it in mind to advantage. Often telegrams are sent which require a direct and immediate answer. In these instances the 'collect' charges are expected to be paid, whether the recipient likes the message or not, and it is seldom that we have trouble in such cases as regards the tolls."—Washington Star.

The "Pull" and the Job.

Business men are constantly being pestered by young men who seek positions through letters of recommendation, often in the form of personal requests from fellow business men. One may well question whether these letters have any great "pulling" power after all. The Saturday Evening Post tells of such an instance. After being very politely dismissed by several managers with the stereotyped expression that there was not a vacancy at present, the young man tore up the letters and went back to the place last visited.

"What can I do for you now?" the manager asked in an annoyed tone. "Pardon me," said the young man, "but I've just torn up those letters. Could you give me a job on my own hook?"

The manager looked amused and said: "We need a young fellow to chip castings in the machine shop at $6 a week. If you like, you can have that until something better turns up." "Yes, sir," replied the job hunter, "I'm ready now."

Queen Sophia and Bismarck.

Queen Sophia of the Netherlands, the first wife of King William III. of Holland, was too great a friend of Emperor Napoleon III., the Empress Eugenie and of France generally to take kindly to Bismarck. Before the big war of 1870 and probably some time after the Luxembourg squabble there was an international exhibition in Amsterdam, which the queen visited. She was conducted over the whole place by the committee, and as they came to a certain section one of the members said, "Now your majesty will see the greatest enemy of Germany." "Ah, Bismarck!" she cried, with some glee. The members stood aghast and never repeated this rash exclamation. The "greatest enemy" he had to exhibit was not, of course, Bismarck at all, but only a very much enlarged reproduction of either the phylloxera or the Colorado beetle, which at that time did a great deal of harm to German agriculture.—Westminster Gazette.

The Doctor Away from Home when Most Needed.

People are often very much disappointed to find that their family physician is away from home when they most need his services. Diseases like cramp, colic and cholera morbus require prompt treatment, and have in many instances proven fatal before medicine could be procured or a doctor summoned. The right way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. No physician can prescribe a better remedy for these diseases. By having it in the home you escape much pain and suffering and all risk. Buy it now; it may save life. For sale by The Star Store, Centre Hall; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills; C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville.

"Tipping" in Europe.

According to immemorial usage, European servants are entitled to tips as an assured part of their income. At the hotels the theory is that the landlord furnishes a guest a private room and the use of the public rooms, heat and light, food and dishes, but not menial service. For convenience he keeps at hand a corps of servants who will respond to the guest's summons, but at his expense. In old times travelers were attended by their own servants to wait on them. The modern custom echoes the ancient. The traveler no longer carries with him a retinue of servants, because he can hire temporarily those of the landlord. The customary fees are the payment. To avoid feeling is really to cheat the servants, who need all they can get, heaven knows. A chambermaid at the best hotels receives as wages only about $2 a month. Tipping servants in America is a regrettable imitation of the European custom without its resting on the reasonable basis of the foreign institutions.—Travel Magazine.

Told Who He Was.

The game warden of Colorado was walking out in the mountains on one occasion when he met a hunter with his gun. The official suggested that that ought to be a good country for hunting. "It certainly is," said the hunter proudly. "I killed one of the finest bucks yesterday I ever saw, and he weighed over two hundred." It was the season when deer may not be shot without subjecting the hunter to a heavy fine. "Well, that is a fine one," said the warden, "and do you know who you are talking to?" Being assured that he did not, the official said, "Why, I am the chief game warden of Colorado." The hunter was only taken aback for a moment, when he asked, "And do you know who you are talking to?" The warden didn't know.

"Well, sir," said the hunter, apparently much relieved, "you are talking to the biggest liar in the whole state of Colorado."—Kansas City Star.

The Primitive Violin.

In its primitive form the violin was a direct development of the lyre and monochord—the strings from the former and the elongated box, with its sound holes, finger board and movable bridge, from the latter. The history of the violin began with the invention of the bow some time before the thirteenth century, when the violle, or vielle, used by the troubadours, made its appearance. This instrument underwent many changes until the middle of the sixteenth century, when the true violin model appeared. The primitive violin had little or no contour. It was not until the thirteenth century that the vielle was scooped out at the waist. The corner blocks were added in the fifteenth century and are attributed to Germany. For nearly a century the sound holes were shifted all over the instrument before they were cut in their proper place and the bridge fixed between them.—Circle Magazine.

Two of a Kind.

A revival meeting was in progress, and Sister Jones was called upon for testimony. Being meek and humble, she said: "I do not feel as though I should stand here and give testimony. I have been a transgressor for a good many years and have only recently seen the light. I believe that my place is in a dark corner, behind the door." Brother Smith was next called upon for his testimony and, following the example set by Sister Jones, said: "I, too, have been a sinner for more than forty years, and I do not think it would be fitting for me to stand before this assembly as a model. I think my place is behind the door, in a dark corner, with Sister Jones." And he wondered why the meeting was convulsed with the laughter of those who came to pray.

Don't Whisk Your Hat.

Never use a whisk broom to clean a hat, either stiff or soft, particularly a soft hat, as it gradually removes the fine surface originally on the hat. The worst effect, however, is the wearing away of the band and binding by such rough usage. The effect is more quickly shown on the best grades of bands and binding. A fine hair brush, one of curved shape, made especially to use under the curl of the hat, is good. Best of all, however, is a thick piece of woolen cloth. Such pieces are now made in the form of pads, with a strap across the back, so that they can be held securely in the hand.—American Hatter.

Striking Originality.

"Your husband is not looking well tonight, Mrs. Blymer."

"He isn't, and I'm not surprised at it."

"No? Has he been overworking himself?"

"It isn't that so much. It's his originality. Why, that man is struck by so many original ideas that his mind must be one mass of bruises."

Spilled.

"Publishers insist on spoiling a great many manuscripts, don't they?" said the literary young woman.

"Undoubtedly," answered the bookseller. "A lot of 'em look a heap better typewritten and tied up with a ribbon than they do in print."—Washington Star.

All That Saved Him.

"Yes, sir, he was obliged to go in the snake country, so he took a gallon of Georgia corn along with him."

"And how did he make out?"

"Splendid! Got so full and wobbled so the snakes missed him every time they struck at him!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Laughing cheerfulness throws sunlight on all the paths of life.—Richter.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.

"HOW TO KEEP HEALTHY."

MISS MIDDLETON.

Give nature a chance. Establish regularity in movement of the bowels. Drink plenty of water but not at meal time. Chew your food very carefully and eat slowly. Sleep with the window open, don't be afraid of fresh air and do not eat a great deal of grease. Be regular at meals. Go to bed and get up at the same hour each day if possible. Take a bottle of Cooper's New Discovery twice a year and your life should be long and healthy.

Here is what Cooper's New Discovery does for run-down people who need a tonic: "I have been sick for a number of years with stomach trouble and also from back-aches and headaches. Sometimes I became so weak I could not stand on my feet. My food did not seem to nourish me and I could not gain strength. I felt tired to death all the time. Nothing I took helped me, and hearing so much of the Cooper medicines I decided to try them."

"I have taken two bottles of Cooper's New Discovery with the most remarkable results. I now feel entirely well. My appetite is fine, I sleep well, have no more headaches and am quite strong again. I cannot express my thanks for what these medicines have done." Sallie Middleton, 1957 Central Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.
