THE TENTERS.

Not in Years Have the Tents Been So Completely Filled—A Partial List of Tenters.

The Canvas City, or Grange Park, has a large population, and not for years have the tents been so completely filled by the farmers, their wives, daughters and sons. There is the best feeling among all of them—each is endeavoring to enjoy him or herself, and doing all possible to make life pleasant for the neighbors. Many of the tents are equipped in a manner to make them most attractive and home-like. The ladders especially are well filled, and no one arises from the tables without a wholly satisfied stomach.

Appended is an incomplete list of the tenters as returned to one of the Centre Reporter's news gathers:

Centre Hall's Portion—$245.

In addition to its regular appropriation for school purposes available after next June, on account of the school teachers' new salary law Centre Hall will get $245, that being the increase in wages on account of the new law referred to. In the meantime this $245 must be raised by taxation, because school teachers, like all other employees, have a right to demand their money at least monthly.

According to the State Master William F. Hill, of Chambersburg, the bank movement among Grange members is advancing rapidly. Fourteen institutions have been organized in eighteen months, and work is now proceeding on six new buildings. The aggregate capital of Grange banks now in operation is about $1,000,000.

Won Both Foo and Girl.

A young lawyer in a western city was asked by a business man against whom a $25,000 claim was about to be pressed to incorporate his business so as to render his judgment proof. It was his first chance for a fat fee, and he did the job with immense success. "They couldn't find a cent!" jubilantly exclaimed the client after the usual supplementary examination. Pocketing his fee, the attorney hastened to a summer resort to press his suit for the hand of a fair maiden. Only the paternal consent was lacking, so he determined to make himself particularly agreeable to the father. One evening as they were puffing their pipes after dinner cigars the father suddenly asked if the lawyer knew a Mr. —. Most assuredly the suitor did.

"Well, that old rascal owes me $25,000," granted the father, "and a telegram informs me that some slick lawyer has fixed him up so I can't recover a cent."

A hilarious outburst followed a minute of silence on the part of the attorney. He told the whole story—and won the girl.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Orchestra Tuning Explained.

Doubtless many theater goers have wondered why it is a practice of orchestra musicians to make their appearance so far ahead of the time of beginning the performance and sit in their seats with nothing to do. Then, at a seeming given signal, all hands begin to "tune up," torturing the ears of the early arrivals with a series of squeals and scrapes. The mystery was explained by an orchestra leader the other day. "The instruments have to be in accord with the temperature of the house," said he. "There may be several degrees difference between the temperature of the music room below stage and the house itself. If we tuned our violins downstairs they would all be flat when we take our places in the orchestra. For that reason we come upstairs earlier and let our instruments get the house atmosphere before the actual tuning begins."—New York Press.

A Small Horror.

The weasel is one small horror. Astonishingly strong, apparently fearless and as persevering as an ant, when once he has settled to the track of a rabbit that particular bunny is indeed in grave peril. The rabbit seems to know it, too, and the knowledge to half paralyze him, for he seldom attempts the one saving chance—a straightaway, long sustained run at top speed. And the end of the patient, if we do-but-wait-the-hour sort of pursuit! This indeed bloody murder. The fiend within angel garb finally tolls within deadly distance. There is a snake-like stroke, most likely aimed at the big vein near the butt of the rabbit's ear. Once there, the brute sticks his like to the blood sucking, while the trembling, walling rabbit totters aimlessly about till its drained body falls limply to pay its tax to mother earth.—Edwin Sandys in Outing Magazine.

Daniel O'Connell.

After a dinner at Lord Dunsgrange's, Lord Morgan writes in her diary, I met the redoubtable Dan O'Connell. Dan is not brilliant in private life, not an impressive figure. He is mild, silent, unassuming, apparently absorbed and an excellent listener to the give and take of a social assembly. I said so to Lord C. and she, who replied: "If you knew how I found him this morning! He had the very steps of his door, craved with his clientele. He had a word or a written order for each, then hurried off to the law courts, thence to the Improvement society and was the guest here today. Two hours before he was making that clever but violent speech to Mr. In Touche, and now no wonder that he looks like an extinct volcano."

A Curious Epitaph.

The following epitaph is copied from a tomb in the vicinity of Port Royal, Jamaica: "Here lieth the body of Louis Gaby, Esq., a native of Montpelier, in France, which country he left on account of the revocation. He was swallowed up by the earthquake which occurred at that place in 1692, but by the great providence of God was, by a second shock, flung into the sea, where he continued swimming until rescued by a boat and lived forty years afterward."

Good Idea.

First Beggar—How is it that you always manage to get something from both of these women on the ground floor of that apartment house? Second Beggar—Dead easy. I ring both bells at the same time. Both women come to the doors at the same time and each one wants to outdo the other.—Fillegende Blatter.

An Obliging Man.

Home (at the village barber's)—I say, do you know why this man's shop is hung all over with sacred pictures? Barber—Oh, yes; that is for the convenience of his customers, so that they may call on all the saints when he shaves them.—Megendorfer Blatter.

Helped Her Up.

Orchestra Leader—I never heard the prima donna do that high note as well as she did last night. Stage Manager—Nor I. You see, just as she reached it she saw a mouse in the wings.—Yonkers Statesman.

Leze Majesty.

Ann—You don't tell me that that gem of a cook left Mrs. Dust! Flo—Yes. You see, Mrs. Dust refused to change grocers when the cook and the delivery boy fell out.—Puck.

STEVENS Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble. Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose. Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling home of Swamp-Root, including all of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Lame Back.

This is an ailment for which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has proven especially valuable. In almost every instance it affords prompt and permanent relief. Mr. Luke LaGrange, of Orange, Michigan, says of it: "After using a plaster and other remedies for three weeks for a lame back, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and two applications effected a cure."
