

TRAIN SCHEDULE

Trains leave Centre Hall on the Lewisburg and Tyrone Railroad, P. R. R. System, as follows:

EAST 7:15 a. m. and 2:30 p. m.

WEST 8:15 a. m. and 3:30 p. m.

It Is Not.

The busy little bee is not the busiest thing that's born; it isn't in it you will find If you disturb a hornet.

Justice Mingle Ties Knot.

Married on September 19th, at Centre Hall, by W. B. Mingle, J. P., Bradford Civetts and Mrs. Elva Cramer, both of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gephart Farm Sold.

The heirs of J. P. Gephart, deceased, have sold the farm located within the borough limits of Millheim, and now occupied by Ammon Snook, to Adam Corman, of Coburn. The consideration was $4250.

The Reporter's Register.

Only a part of the callers at the Reporter headquarters on Grange Park registered, and their names appear in another column of this issue. It will be observed that those who called were not all from Centre county, but many of them are Reporter readers.

A Belated Marriage Notice.

In that famous little church around the corner, in New York city, is the place where, on July 3rd, Andrew C. Jackson, of Oseola, and Miss Emma Boal, of Centre Hall, were made man and wife. Mr. Jackson is a contractor, and recently was engaged in Huntington county. They are now living in Centre Hall.

An Expert Chemist.

Dairy and Food Commissioner Foust has sent to Prof. William Frear, of The Pennsylvania State College, one of the leading pure food experts of the country, samples of 75 brands of breakfast foods and other patent foods for analysis. Every brand from all over the United States was taken. Cornstarches are claimed to be used in some of the patent foods.

The Zettie Reunion.

The Zettie families held their first reunion at Beaver Dam last Saturday, over one hundred of them being present. The storm about noon drove them all into the school house where an organization was effected as follows: Pres., Roland Zettie; historian, Andrew Zettie; sec., W. M. Grove; executive committee, Jerry Zettie, Arch Zettie, Harvey Vonada, Nathaniel Zettie and Roland Zettie.

Lost and Found on Camp.

Under this head appear several lost and found articles on Grange Camp.

Found—A ladies umbrella was left at the Reporter's register desk. It is of no great value, but can be had by calling for it at this office.

Found—A dash lantern. Can be had by calling upon George Nearhood, Centre Hall.

Lost—Gold watch, by Mrs. George O. Benner, hunting case, bearing initials "M. J. M."

Milton's Big Fair.

The Milton fair, which will be held on the 1st, 2nd, 3d and 4th of October this year, never had a brighter prospect for a good fair and a large attendance. The management of the Milton fair has established a reputation for square dealing with its exhibitors and for giving the public the best entertainment of any fair in Central Pennsylvania.

The racing this year will be better than ever. The midway will be a popular feature and will be free from anything immoral or objectionable, and the attractions are the best that money can procure. Excursion rates on all the railroads.

Presbyterian Missionary Meeting.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of Huntington Presbyterian will hold its twenty-fourth annual meeting in the First Presbyterian church of Altoona, of which Rev. H. L. Bowley is pastor, September 26th and 27th. The popular meeting Thursday evening will be addressed by Rev. Samuel Colten, D. D., pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh. Workers among the Immigrants, the Cubans and the Freedmen will be present and take part in the day sessions. The Centre Hall auxiliary will be represented by Mrs. James W. Boal and Mrs. W. Henry Schuyler.

Keith's Theatre.

Peter F. Dalley & Co. are offering a brilliant original musical comedy at Keith's Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, this week. It is being presented for the first time on any stage, and is entitled "Nearly a War Correspondent." Julian Eltinge, world's foremost impersonator, is making his first appearance in America since his recent European triumphs. Another feature at this vaudeville is the great Metzatti Troupe, Europe's marvelous combination of trained acrobats. Jessie L. Lask's Pianoplayers are playing a welcome return. Clayton White and Marie Stuart, presenting Geo. V. Hobart's great racing drama, "Cherrie," constitute an added attraction, and there are many other interesting features on the bill.

EDITOR FOOTE DIES SUDDENLY.

Stricken in the Millinburg Times Office With Paralysis.

Editor George W. Foote, of the Millinburg Times, was fatally stricken with paralysis Wednesday afternoon of last week, and his death resulted several hours later at his home without regaining consciousness. About three weeks ago the veteran editor had a slight attack of apoplexy which affected his left side and arm. He was recovering from the effects of the attack, and for the last several days was able to attend to his editorial duties. On the afternoon of his death he went to the railroad station to witness the departure of a wedding couple and was in his usual spirits. Returning to the Times office shortly after, he was stricken with paralysis, and the office force at once went to his assistance. A stretcher was secured and the old veteran was carried to his home. He was unconscious from the start, and died about midnight.

Editor Foote was one of the oldest newspaper men in this section of the state. He was aged about sixty-seven years, and since he was fifteen years old he has worked at the printing trade, being employed at Emporium, in the Government office at Washington, Bellefonte, and other places. At one time he was editor of the Millheim Berichter, and in 1885, founded the Millinburg Times, conducting the latter continuously until his death.

Mr. Foote was a veteran of the Civil war, and enlisted at the outbreak of the conflict at the call of President Lincoln for 75,000 troops to suppress the rebellion, in Company G, 4th Pa. Vol., and later re-enlisted in Company H, 51st Vet. Vol. He served forty months in the service, and at one time was a member of the G. A. R., and the Union Veteran Legion of Williamsport. He was identified with membership in the M. E. church.

Funeral took place from his late residence at Millinburg on Saturday afternoon. Interment was made at Millinburg.

The Bible Concert Company.

The Bible Concert Company, of Philadelphia, furnished the entertainments during the week in the large auditorium, and performed its part to perfection. Dr. Bible is an entertaining speaker, and whenever he appeared the house was eager to hear him, and prepared for continuous laughter.

The vocal and instrumental music was all of a classic order, the company preferring to hold to their former rule. Every number was well received and heartily applauded.

Especially worthy of mention here are Miss Dorothy Bible and Howard Wetherbee, the violinists. Although only children, one had merely to forget this fact and he would imagine he heard the masters.

Genevieve Bible, the tot of ten years, in her Chinese song and as a black cork artist, brought down the house in rounds of applause.

Mr. Morphett, the magician, proved himself an entertainer of the first class. His hands were always able to deceive the eye. His tricks were all new and peculiarly striking.

Winter Wheat Varieties.

As a result of continued experiment with wheat the Pennsylvania Experiment Station reports: There is no relation between straw yield and grain yield in wheat. No single variety of wheat can be pointed out as the best. The best variety of one season may be among the poorest of another, and vice versa.

Long year averages seem best for determining variety qualities. Taking yield as a basis the five best varieties for conditions as they exist at the Station farm are: Fulcaster, China, Royal Red Clawson, Reliable, and Dawson's Golden Chaff.

No specific date, for sowing wheat can be given. Too early or too late sowing should not be practiced. There is a rather long intermediate season during which wheat may be sown with likelihood of good results.

Large Enrollment at State.

Pennsylvania State College opened Thursday morning of last week with services in the Auditorium. The student body was addressed by Gen. James A. Beaver, president pro tem of the college, who gave the young men some wholesome advice. The enrollment this year will be the largest in the history of the college, and will probably total 1,150. There are already twenty co-eds enrolled in the new department—Home Economics—and the freshman class will number 400.

The Mother's Tent.

A number of mothers availed themselves of the comforts afforded in the mother's tent on Grange Park, opened for the first time (but will not be the last) during the Encampment and Fair. The tiny bits of humanity oft-times slept in the crib or cradle, while the rain pattered on the canvas roof, just as contentedly and looked as sweet and innocent as a baby can, and the mother pointed with pride to her belonging when the oft repeated question "whose is it?" arose.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Paragraphs Picked from Exchanges of Interest to Reporter Readers.

Millheim Journal.

H. E. Duck went to Selinsgrove Tuesday on a business trip.

Miss Mary Etta Meyer is visiting friends at Centre Hall this week.

Miss Mabel Leiser, of Sunbury, is visiting her friend, Miss Minnie Beaver.

F. M. Stevenson, who is employed at Harter, West Virginia, is visiting his family in this place.

John Kerstetter, who is employed at State College, spent Sunday at his home in this place.

Mrs. Francis S. Ulrich and daughter are spending the week with the former's parents at Centre Hall.

Mrs. Rebecca Schleifer and daughter, Miss Minnie, are visiting relatives at Shamokin this week.

Mrs. John Musser and Mrs. Paul Musser, of Wilkes-Barre, are visiting at the home of J. C. Smith.

Miss Gertrude Yearick, of near Hubersburg, spent Sunday with her friend, Miss Minerva Smith.

William N. Duck left on Tuesday afternoon for Selinsgrove, where he will enter the Susquehanna University.

Charles Schleifer, of Pittsburg, spent several days last week visiting his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Schleifer.

T. R. Stam, of West Union, Ia., arrived Wednesday morning for a visit with relatives and friends here.

Bruce Stover, son of M. O. Stover, of Woodward, left for Pennsylvania State College, where he will enter the freshman class.

Mrs. J. W. Reifsnnyder went to Larnar Saturday, on account of the serious illness of her father, Calvin Funk, who resides there.

Mrs. Mary A. Luse left Friday for Turtle Creek, where she will make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Warner.

State College Times.

Gov. Stuart has been invited and will very probably accept, to review the regiment on Pennsylvania day at Pennsylvania State College.

Mrs. R. S. Pillsbury and children, of Jacksonville, Fla., are the guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Martha Edmiston. Robert Edmiston met his sister and children at Washington and accompanied them to State College.

LOCALS.

Lewis Detwiler, who for some years lived in Washington, is now a resident of Eureka, California.

NOTE—Persons who test or found articles on the Park can have them advertised free of cost in the Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jackson, of Oseola, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jackson, on Church street. They just returned from a trip to Indiana.

While the average man is burning the midnight oil to make ends meet John D. Rockefeller is piling up wealth at the rate of $21.25 a minute from the oil he is burning.

Messrs. Guy Jacobs, of Centre Hall, and Henry Burkholder, of Centre Hill, are back to Pennsylvania State College, the former being a member of the Sophomore and the latter of the Junior class.

Harry Hazel, formerly of Bellefonte, died at Niagara Falls. A month ago he was stricken with typhoid fever, which terminated in death Thursday evening of last week. Interment was made in Bellefonte. He leaves a wife—nee Miss Mable Otto—to whom he was married five months ago.

The Encampment and Fair brings to Centre Hall many former residents of the town and valley who have not been here in a long while. Among these was W. A. Ripka, a railroad man of Sunbury, son of W. H. Ripka, of Middleburg, who had not been in Centre Hall for twenty-two years. He was entertained by E. S. Ripka.

The Centre county historical society held quite an interesting meeting in the court house on Monday afternoon. Col. J. L. Spangler presided and among those who read papers and took part in the discussions were Mrs. H. C. Valentine, Mrs. Elizabeth Callaway, Mrs. J. L. Spangler, J. Thomas Mitchell, Clement Dale, G. W. Romberger and D. Paul Fortney.

Dr. A. G. Lieb, of Bethlehem, came to Centre Hall Monday in the interest of his farm, east of Centre Hall, tenanted by John Korman. Dr. Lieb was one of several heirs who came into possession of this farm by inheritance, but lately the doctor purchased the interests of all heirs and now owns it himself. Dr. Lieb has for twenty years been located in Bethlehem, where he has been very successful in his profession.

Nebraska was represented at the Encampment and Fair by George S. Dale, son of Horace C. Dale, of Rushville, and grandson of George Dale, at Dale Summit. Mr. Dale is on his way to Annapolis, Maryland, having captured the free scholarship in the Naval Academy to which his congressional district is entitled. Mr. Dale is an unassuming young man, although he has had large experience with wild western life. He had a kind word for the boys—John and Hutch—formerly from Boalsburg, and well known to many of the Reporter readers.

When Longfellow Dined.

"Yesterday I dined with Dominican friars at the convent of San Clemente, Archbishop Manning and several people of note were there. We had a jovial dinner and good wine, and every dish was Italian, not to say Italianissimo. After dinner we went into a small coffee room, where the inquisitor tried to light a fire, with small success. Some one cried out, 'Ah, padre, the days have gone by when fires can be lighted by inquisitors!' and there was a roar of laughter, in which the padre aforesaid joined heartily."

"Yesterday Lowell gave a supper to Thackeray. We sat down at 10 o'clock and did not leave the table until 1. It was a very gay affair, with stories and jokes.

"Will you take some port?" said Lowell to Thackeray.

"I dare drink anything that becomes a man," replied T.

"It will be a long while before that becomes a man."

"Oh, no," cried Felton; "it is fast turning into one!"—Extracts From Longfellow's Letters.

A North Atlantic Curiosity.

"In the midst of the north Atlantic there is an enormous field of floating seaweed which kept its place presumably for centuries," said an old sea captain. "It occupies an immense eddy about the fifty-sixth degree of west longitude and between the twenty-second and twenty-eighth degrees of north latitude. There is a great difference of opinion regarding the origin of this floating mass. Some believe it to be detached from rocks at a considerable depth in the latitude where it floats. Others suppose it to come from the shores of the northern seas, having been detached from the rocks by the violence of the winds. Some again imagine that it comes from the rocky shores of Florida and Mexico, while many others agree with me in believing that it has never had any other than its present place of abode. No one has ever seen it attached to rocks, nor have roots ever been discovered belonging to it."

What a Man's Beard Tells.

"You can tell some of a man's habits and read some of his traits of character from his beard," said the old barber. "If a man spends his days at a desk beside a window his hair and beard will grow faster on the side toward the window. Plants and beards both flourish under the influence of sunlight. Why, one of my customers found the effects of the side light so pronounced that he changed his office desk to face the window. Another interesting fact is that, when a man is up late or works long hours, he needs a shave oftener than if he took the usual amount of sleep. That's because in being awake he keeps the vital processes of his body in greater activity than when asleep. The growth of the hair depends largely on the circulation of the blood, and the heart slows down when we sleep."—Kansas City Star.

Fog and Sound.

In a fog at sea the toll of a bell buoy is singularly grave and solemn, well matched by the weird note of a whistling buoy. Unfortunately the value of both is lessened in foggy weather from there being but little motion of the sea. Nothing, too, is more difficult than to distinguish in a fog the direction from which a sound comes. This is in part due doubtless to the interference offered to the straight course of the waves carrying the sound, but also probably to the absence of the normal, although unsuspected, refraction of eye and ear in locating the origin of sound. The assistance of the eye can see and land is indifferently given to the ear in many different ways. In a fog the ear has only itself to trust to.—London Spectator.

Encampment a Railroad.

The Pennsylvania Gazette in 1890 asked the question: "What is the worst railway in the world?" And the English kicker answered thus: "The Southern Railway in the U. S. The engines are asthmatic. The tracks are twisted by foolish virgins. The fare is excessive. Its carriages are to be seen in winter and not in summer. Its motto is 'survive.' Its principal station is a 'squeeze' through the neck of a bottle. It ruins the temper, destroys the digestion and enables one to realize the horrors of Dante's 'Inferno.' I am, sir, yours obediently, the Worm Who Turns."

Noncommittal.

"Gilty or not guilty?" "Yes," replied the man at the bar. "That's that?" queried the court sharply.

"You asked whether I was guilty or not guilty, and of course I am. Of the two conditions I could not well escape both."

"But which are you?" "Any one, indeed. What's the jury for?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Stir on a Great State.

It is told of the Right Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, D. D., LL. D., who had been attending an important conference at Lambeth palace, London, that during a very formal function he and his wife were loudly announced as "the bishop of Misery and Mrs. Tuttle!"—Harper's Weekly.

How We Do Change.

"Ah!" exclaimed Mr. Jellus. "Been treasuring another man's picture all these years, eh?" "Not exactly," answered his better half. "That's a picture of you, dear, taken when you had hair."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

How poor are they that have not patience.—Shakespeare.
