

Transfer of Real Estate.

Mary Rupp, et al., to H. E. Wells, Aug 22, 1907, 2 acres in Spring twp. $400

Sallie Hagerman to Ella H. Gephart, Oct. 29, 1907, premises in Bellefonte. $3250.

Wm. W. Schenck, et ux., to Frederick Robb, Nov 6, 1907, premises in Howard twp. $1700.

No Poison Found.

Two weeks ago it was stated in these columns that the body of Edward Nearhood had been exhumed with the view of having the contents of the stomach analyzed to ascertain whether or not death had been occasioned by poison. The stomach was carefully analyzed by Dr. G. G. Pond who reports that no traces of poison have been discovered.

Limestone Ridge Sold.

It appears the most valuable possession today in the real estate line is a limestone ridge conveniently located to a railroad track. This conclusion is drawn from the fact that within the past few years farms having pronounced limestone ridges on them have sold at almost fabulous prices, and now comes the announcement that the Emanuel Rhoads farm, one mile north of Eldersburg, was purchased by the Cambria Steel Works, at Johnstown, that they might own their own limestone quarry. The price paid was $8000.

Installation Services.

Services incident to the installation of Rev. B. F. Bieber as pastor of the Centre Hall Lutheran church, will be held Sunday, November 24th. The ministers appointed by the president of Synod to officiate are Rev. J. M. Rearick, of Salona, and Rev. A. A. Parr, of Lock Haven.

The charge to the people will be delivered in the morning by Rev. Parr, and in the afternoon Rev. Rearick will charge the pastor.

In the evening Rev. Parr will hold services at Georges Valley and Rev. Rearick at the Union.

LOCALS.

After two weeks of the most desirable kind of weather for all kinds of out-of-door-work it began raining Monday.

County Commissioner John L. Dunlap was in Centre Hall Thursday of last week to visit the family of Frank W. Shutt.

Farmer Jacob Reish, of near Pine Grove Mills, is arranging to build a barn next summer. Howard Barr has the contract.

The farm sold by M. S. Fiedler, executor of Jacob Reed, deceased, recently to Jacob Harter, located in Haines township, was resold last week to George W. Keister, of Aaronburg.

As a result from a wound received in the head during the Civil War, Jacob Emerick, of Millheim, has become almost totally blind. He is also suffering from other ailments, which have reduced him very much.

Samuel, the little son of D. R. Gregory, of Pine Grove Mills, nearly lost his life the other day. The little chap fell on a sharp pointed knife, which penetrated his side and cut a gash six inches long. The wound is a painful one.

Charley McClenahan is employed by the Spruce Run Park Association, along the Susquehanna River, near Pine Glen. He is assisting in watching the association's territory that hunters, other than those who have rights, do not encroach.

Rev. Ralph M. Hillingworth, who was a former pastor of the Penns Valley M. E. church, and is well known throughout this community, has accepted a call to become pastor of one of the largest churches in Camden, N. J. He had recently been located at Baltimore, Md.

John, son of Frank Gardner, of Rock Springs, was accompanied to the German hospital, Philadelphia, by Mack Goheen, for an operation for appendicitis, but after a careful examination by Dr. Denver, who thought it advisable not to operate at this time, returned home as well as could be expected.

By the narrow margin of one hundred and fifty-four votes, Harry S. Meyer was elected prothonotary of Lycoming county. He is a native of Potter township, having lived for a number of years with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Meyer, now deceased, west of Centre Hall. For the past twenty years or more he has been in Williamsport, engaging in the insurance business. Mr. Meyer was elected on the Republican ticket.

Messrs. John H. Glasgow and Thomas Farnor, both of Philadelphia, traveled over the Seven Mountains for a week or ten days in quest of game, and were successful in killing a goodly lot of rabbits and pheasants. They are both natives of the south side of Potter township, and think the game on the hunting field of their youth much more cunning, and the flesh better than that of any other section. Besides, when not in a mood to hunt, the time can be pleasantly spent with old associates.

Very Nicely Done.
Gallant Man (aside)—At last I have her all to myself. Now I can tell her how I love her and ask her to be mine. How shall I do it, I wonder?

Gentle Maid (behind her fan)—It is surely coming. I am so nervous and frightened. I know he is going to be terribly dramatic. I do hope I shan't have to help him up off his knees. Goodness, why doesn't he say something? I must break this horrible silence. (Aloud, recklessly) Have you ever been abroad?

Gallant Man (smiling)—No. I'm saving it for a wedding tour.

Gentle Maid (demurely)—Why, how funny; so am I.

Gallant Man (meaningly)—Then why shouldn't we take it together?

Gentle Maid (innocently)—Possibly your wife and my husband might object to going in such a crowd.

Gallant Man (brilliantly)—The crowd wouldn't be objectionably large if your husband and my wife were husband and wife.

(Further conversation was disjointed and indistinct).—Pearson's Weekly.

Where Animals Beat Men.
"Nature faking aside," said the zoo keeper, "mice won't eat oleo. It is a fact. Lay a pat of oleo and a pat of butter side by side and in the morning the butter will be gone, but the oleo will remain untouched."

"Oh, yes, some animals are incredibly nice about their food. The otter, when living wild, will only eat one piece, one mouthful out of each fish he catches. He will land a beautiful trout, but only one bite of it from the back, just behind the neck, is good enough for him. The rest he tosses aside. This epicure often kills a dozen fine, big trout to make one meal."

"Chimpanzees have very delicate tastes. A banana or a pineapple that to you seems delicious to a chimpanzee may be revolting. His taste is keener. Grapes grown in hothouses where sulphur fumes are used as an insecticide taste all right to a man, but a chimpanzee will have none of them.

"The Ichneumon loves eggs. He can tell a fresh from a stale one simply by tapping the shell."—Los Angeles Times.

"Copy Reading" Howells.
The London Athenaeum says of the following Howells paragraph that it is the best sentence perhaps in any recent English book. Describing a certain ancient edifice, Mr. Howells writes and the Athenaeum quotes:

"What, in the heart of all this blossoming, was the great cathedral itself when it came in sight of it but a vast efflorescence of the age of faith, mystically beautiful in form and gray as some pale exhalation from the mold of the ever cloistered, the 'deeply reforested past.'"

Very fine, all must admit. But wouldn't that paragraph have been meat and drink to the man who used to mark up Mr. Howells' newspaper copy back at Bucyrus, O. If Howells the reporter had written that for the Bucyrus Blade he would have found it in the paper next day about like this:

"The cathedral, with flowers all around it, looks fine. It is 400 years old and needs paint."—Galveston News.

Thought Nine Enough.
The following amusing birth notice appeared in the Dresden Anzeiger: "To our seven hearty boys there came today, in God's early morning, but in compensation, a pair of fine boys. We judge by this elementary event that these wretched times demand more men than blossoms of the gentler sex, and console ourselves with thoughts of our fatherland, to which we call:

"Hurrah! Hurrah! Now there are nine. Firm stand and true the watch on the Rhine!"

"To all dear friends and acquaintances and to whom else the joyous tidings may be of interest we give this notice—the last of its kind—Eduard Root and wife."

A Bargain.
Mr. Mason rubbed the edges of the umbrella with discriminating fingers while his wife listened to the saleswoman's enumeration of its good points.

"This is $10, isn't it?" he asked.

"Oh, no," replied the saleswoman respectfully. "It is $9.89."

"She seems to regard the 11 cents as particularly invidious. I wonder why?" whispered Mr. Mason to his wife.

"Not at all," said Mrs. Mason, with mild heat; "nothing 'invidious' about it. Only very naturally it touched the girl not to have you perceive that you were getting a bargain."—Youth's Companion.

Cautious.
A five-year-old girl was very ill, and, noticing the anxiety of her parent, she said, "Mamma, do you think I'm going to die?"

"No, my dear," replied the mother. "I think you will soon be better."

"Well," said the little one, "I'd like to die and go to heaven on a visit if I was sure I could come back if I didn't like the place."—Chicago News.

Looked That Way.
"I don't think she'll ever marry him," said Mrs. Henpeck. "She quarrels with him so and is so domineering that—"

"She is!" interrupted Henpeck. "I'll bet they've been secretly married already!"—Philadelphia Press.

All Alone In That Class.
Mr. Hunker—I have merely a speaking acquaintance with Miss Throckmorton. Mr. Spatts—You are very lucky. All her other acquaintances are listening acquaintances.—Stray Stories.

He who changes the sports is secretly changing the manners of the young.—Plato.
