

MEMORIAL DAY.

Saturday is May 30, When the Soldiers Beneath the Sod, Will be Especially Honored.

Saturday is Memorial Day, the day set apart by the National Government on which to especially honor the departed heroes of the various wars engaged in by the United States.

The rank and file of the veterans of the Civil war, which began almost a half century ago, is being rapidly reduced. When disease makes no claim, time decimates.

Memorial Day is a National Holiday, and every citizen of this Greatest Nation on all the earth should give at least a portion of his or her time to express in a public way the great and good service rendered by the men, who, in the flower of life, were willing to sacrifice their lives that this nation might be preserved.

DEATHS.

HON. SIMON MOTZ.

Hon. Simon Motz, born in Woodward, October 25, 1841, and was educated in Lewisburg Academy, died in Hayes City, Kansas, February 6th. In 1859 he went to Colorado, where he engaged in mining, and from there enlisted in Co. B., 2nd Colorado Cavalry, in October, 1861, and served to the end of the war. Coming to Hayes City, Kansas, at the close of the war, he engaged in the general mercantile business in which he was very successful.

He served in the Kansas Legislature in '69 '70 and '71, and in 1880 he was elected a delegate to the National Republican Convention that nominated Blaine. In the same year he was elected a member of the Kansas State Senate, afterwards serving in the capacity of postmaster and filled many other positions of trust. He is survived by his wife and one grown son, Frank S. Motz.

Mr. Motz was a son of Jacob Motz, of Woodward, and a brother of Samuel Motz, who is one of Woodward's oldest and most respected citizens.

JOHN H. SNYDER.

After an illness of two weeks, John H. Snyder, east of Centre Hall, died Thursday of last week. Interment was made Sunday morning at Centre Hall, Rev. D. Gross, pastor of the Reformed church and of which the deceased was a member, officiating.

Surviving are the widow, nee Mary Cottle, sixteen grandchildren and the following children: David E., Linden Hall; Samuel F., Centre Hall; James I., Freeport, Ill.; Milton H., Pittsburg; Lizzie, wife of Harry Davidson, Milroy; Esther, wife of Earl C. Lutz, Centre Hall. One sister, Mrs. James Ott, of Bellefonte, also survives.

The deceased was the son of Levi Snyder, and was born near Coburn, but has lived for many years in various parts of Potter township, his death having occurred on the Snyder homestead. He was a farmer by occupation, and was aged sixty-six years, three months and ten days.

JOSEPH P. CURRY.

Joseph Peter Curry, a native of Centre county, died at his home in Altoona, Friday afternoon, 15th inst., following an illness of about five months with heart trouble and dropsy.

Decceased was born at Boalsburg, December 9th, 1835, but for the past twenty years had been a resident of Altoona. He was a veteran of the Civil war, having served in Co. G 205th Regiment P. V. I. He was united in marriage to Miss Mary W. Benner, at Pennsylvania Furnace, April 9th, 1856. She survives his death with the following children: G. H., of Altoona; Mrs. Emma Lamberson, of Mapleton; Thomas E., of Altoona; Mrs. Annie Hooper, of Mapleton; Mrs. Laura Somers, Mrs. Margaret Knipple and J. J., all of Altoona. He is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. Sarah Peters, of St. Joseph, Mo.; Mrs. Kate Cowher, of Gibson, Mo.; Mrs. Margaret Johnsonbaugh, of Braddock.

Mrs. Sophia Herliacher, widow of the late John J. Herliacher, died at her home in Loganton, from paralysis, aged seventy-two years. She was the sister of General D. K. Heckman and was one of the best-known and most lovable old ladies in Sugar Valley. She had been in poor health for some time. About two years ago she received a paralytic stroke, from which she never fully recovered. She is survived by four sons and one daughter. Funeral services were held in the Lutheran church at Loganton, Friday, conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. D. Gutoney.

SAMUEL KLECKNER.

Samuel Kleckner died at the home of his son, C. W. Kleckner, in Gregg township, Sunday morning, the 17th inst., of diseases incident to old age, aged seventy-five years, one month and two days. He leaves to survive one son, C. W. Kleckner, of Gregg township, and one daughter, Mrs. Sallie J. Finlison, of Florida. Funeral services were held at the home of W. R. Weiser, in Millheim, conducted by Rev. C. F. Garrett. Interment was made in Fairview cemetery, Millheim.

WILLIAM ELLENBARGER.

One of the most aged residents in Ferguson township, William Ellenbarger, died at Pine Grove Mills, Saturday afternoon. Interment was made Tuesday in the Ross cemetery, Rev. A. L. Frank, officiating. His age was eighty years six months, and he was the father of twelve children. He was a prominent figure in the M. E. church and served for four years in Co. E., 45th Regt. P. V.

LOCALS.

Elmer Alexander, of Potters Mills, Tuesday night caught a sucker in the Dead Mill dam that weighed four pounds.

Surely this is growing weather, and to prove it several three foot stalks of alfalfa have been put on exhibition in this office.

After an absence from Centre Hall for several months, Mrs. Mary Shoop is back again. The greater part of the time was spent in Harrisburg.

Wilbur A. Henney announces that he is prepared to do all kinds of blacksmithing and repair work; also painting, trimming and wood work.

Mrs. W. H. Snyder, of Milton, accompanied by her two children, visited her parents in Centre Hall for several days returning Tuesday.

The Spring Mills academy closes this week. The school was largely attended by young people who intend making teaching a profession.

After spending several weeks with her brother, John S. Hosterman, at Montrose, Miss Helen Hosterman returned home the latter part of last week.

After a visit of two weeks in and about Philadelphia, Mrs. C. A. Krape returned to her home at Spring Mills the latter part of last week. She was delighted with the trip.

Hon. Wm. W. Krape, of Freeport, Illinois, is a candidate for the office of state senator. Mr. Krape is a native of Clinton county, and a relative of the Krapes in this county.

A flock of about sixty White Wyandotte pullets, Duston strand, has been added to the yards of Charles D. Bartholomew. They are exceptionally fine and should make extra good breeders for next season.

W. J. Mitterling, the drover, has broken ground for the foundation of a cow barn on the lot recently purchased from Mrs. Anna Wolf. He will also erect a dwelling house nearby on the lot next to the Reformed church.

New subscribers are coming the Reporter's way, and the reason is the news from Centre county cannot be had without reading that paper. Thanks to those who unsolicited have had their names placed on the subscription list.

J. H. Detwiler, east of Centre Hall, is the owner of a stallion, registered as Nickabon, bred from a long line of fast horses, and certainly ought to have power to impart speed to his get. There are a number of his colts in the county, and when bred from active dams the foals invariably develop into first class roadsters.

Edward Wolf, of Altoona, was in Centre Hall from Saturday until Monday, having come here for a little outing and to again meet with acquaintances formed during the past year. Mr. Wolf is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and is one of the fortunate ones to hold a place not effected by the retrenchment of the company.

Potters Mills.

The Methodists are well pleased with their new minister, Rev. Lantz. He preached a very good sermon on Sunday. They will hold communion service at Sprucetown on June 7, and children's service the 21.

The hard rain last week did considerable damage here. The dam burst, and the chop mill was washed over onto the saw mill.

Will Booser and Miss Bertha McCormick spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Squire Carson.

Lowell Alexander spent Sunday with his parents. He is attending school at Spring Mills.

John Jordan, of Yeagertown, is visiting his uncle, Michael Smith, for a few weeks.

The Memorial service at Sprucetown will be held at 2 o'clock sharp.

The newly organized choir at Sprucetown is doing nicely. They deserve much credit for the interest they are taking.

Prof. Neff is repairing the dam at the chop mill.

Charles Jordan and Mr. Shore, of Yeagertown, are spending a few days at the Michael Smith home.

Chance for Reporter Readers.

If you cannot call at his store, cut out the coupon and mail it with 25 cents, and a 50 cent box of the specific will be sent you by mail, charges paid.

THE BELL IN THE SEA

How Ocean Liners Hear Their Way in Thick Weather.

FOG SIGNALS UNDER WATER.

Method by Which the Submerged Gong is Operated and the Apparatus by Which the Sound is Picked Up Miles Away—Port and Starboard Lights.

To those who go down to the sea in ships probably no discovery in recent times has been of more importance or tends more to save life than that of the possibility of signaling from ship to ship and from ship to shore by sound, writes Sidney F. Walker in the London Mail. It literally, when fully developed, will enable steamers to "hear" their way under all conditions of weather and particularly in fog just as well as they now see their way on clear nights by the aid of the lights that each ship carries and those distributed round the coast of every civilized country.

The whole apparatus hinges upon the fact that water is a good conductor of sound. The readiest example of this of which the writer is aware is to be found usually at mineral baths. There is nearly always pumping going on in connection with the baths, but under ordinary conditions the pump is not heard. When undressing, for instance, to enter the bath one can very rarely hear the pump, but immediately one is in the bath if one places one's head under water the pump is almost painfully evident, and an engineer could easily count the strokes had he a watch at hand.

For signaling purposes a bell is employed. Immersed some distance under the water and inclosed in a chamber, the hammer being worked by compressed air operated from the surface. The sound of the strokes on the bell is transmitted to a distance of several miles and can be heard by suitable apparatus. The hearing apparatus consists of a microphone, a modification of that we use every time we speak to the telephone, inclosed in a chamber inside the ship and connected with the bridge by wires in the usual way. The microphone chamber is filled with a special liquid which the inventors have found to answer the purpose best, and there are, as at present arranged, one chamber and one microphone on each bow below the water line. In the chart house on the bridge are a pair of telephone receivers, similar to those we put to our ears when we talk through the telephone on shore, and a switch, enabling the receivers to be connected to either of the two microphones.

Several of the Lighthouses on the coast of America and some, the writer believes, on that of the United Kingdom are fitted with bells as described above, which are rung at certain intervals, each lighthouse having a different number of beats, so that any particular lighthouse is distinguished by its bell, just as in clear weather it is distinguished by the arrangement of its lights. An approaching ship can tell within a very close approximation, as mathematicians would say, how it lies with regard to the lighthouse, because the bell will be heard loudest in that direction on the side of the ship on which the lighthouse is, and the officer of the watch can steer accordingly.

All ships carry a red light at night on the left hand, or port, side and a green light on the right hand, or starboard side, while all steamers carry in addition a white light showing on both sides. Neither of the lights can be seen astern or for some distance toward the bows, the limit being what sailors call two points abaft the beam, a little astern of her middle point, so that when approaching a ship from astern no lights are visible to the approaching ship, but her full lights are visible from the ship approached.

When two ships are approaching each other from opposite directions and on each ship will see the other's two or three lights and can easily steer to keep out of each other's way. There is a simple rule for this, and incidentally it may be mentioned that the danger is least in this case, provided that both ships are properly handled. The danger of collision arises principally from ships crossing each other, and for this also there are simple rules governed by what is called the rule of the road. Leaving out the question of sailing ships for the moment, the ship which has the other, the crossing ship, on her own right hand (starboard) side has to keep out of the way, and it does so by turning slightly to the right, or to starboard, presenting her left side to the other ship.

Whenever a ship has to give way to another the color of the light of the other ship is on the same side as that to which the helm must be moved. Thus when a red light is seen on the right hand (starboard) side the helm is put to port, the side of the light seen. Similarly when a sailing ship is crossing from port to starboard, showing her green light, that carried on her starboard side, the steamer puts her helm to starboard to clear. This rule could be followed quite as easily with sound signals.

Recommendation. "It seems to me that I have heard most of the ideas advanced in your speech before." "That," said Senator Sorghum, "merely goes to show that they are good ideas which will stand wear and tear."—Washington Star.
