COMMISSIONERS-ELECT MEET.

And Elect Their Attorney, Clerk and Court House Janitor.

County Commissioners-elect Jacob Woodring, of Port Matilda, and H. E. Zimmerman, of Benner township, met at the Brant House, Bellefonte, Saturday morning, holding their first formal meeting as commissioners-elect and selected from among the candidates for the positions the following:

Clement Dale, attorney. Ed. R. Williams, of Unionville, clerk. Leyl Simmonds, of Benner twp., janitor. Dr. W. W. Feldt, county physician.

Of course, it is understood that the commissioners are not yet in office, but they met early and made the selections named to avoid friction in the party, which is always stimulated to a greater or less degree by disappointments on the part of applicants for the party apollo. Their action was, however, not too early to eliminate every contention, but perhaps it was reduced to the minimum. There were a number of applicants for commissioner's clerk, among them being C. F. Deininger, of Centre Hall, Love, Keller and Quigley were also after the privilege of giving the commissioner's advice for the three years covering their term of office.

Thus the first acts of public importance by the commissioners-elect becomes history. Those who have not been selected can now, if they wish, congratulate the successful ones.

Cyrus Philips Injured.

Cyrus Philips, a resident of Madisonburg, sustained two fractures of one of his lower limbs Wednesday afternoon of last week. The fractures were reduced by Dr. H. S. Braucht, and since he has been getting along as well as could be expected.

The accident occurred at Spring Mills, and was occasioned by the spring wagon in which Mr. Philips was sitting and to which two horses were hitched turning turtle.

In turning at the coal sheds of Charles P. Long, the Reporter's correspondent states, Mr. Philips' wagon upset, throwing Mr. Philips between the horses. One of the animals became excited and kicked, striking the prostrate man on one of his legs with the result above stated.

Mr. Philips was carried to the home of Mrs. Alice Neese where the fractures were reduced, and in the evening he was taken to his home by his two sons.

Dedication of Grange Hall.

One of the most progressive subordinate Granges in Centre county is the Bald Eagle Grange, at Milesburg. It was among the first to be organized, and has always been abreast of every Grange movement in Centre county. From its organization until the present time the Grange has not had a home of its own, but during the past summer a hall has been erected, and Thursday, 19th inst., it will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies.

The Centre County Pomona Grange will meet at Milesburg at the same time with the Bald Eagle Grange and add interest to the ceremonies incident to the dedicatory services.

Mrs. Paul Swab Surprised.

More than twenty guests participated in the birthday surprise party given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Bitner to their daughter, Mrs. Paul Swab, Thursday evening of last week, at their home near Farmers Mills. As is usually the case on such occasions, the refreshments played an important part in making the guests and the lady honored glad to be the fortunate ones to receive an invitation and be the principal. Of course, the husband, Mr. Swab, also had a hand in the planning, which plans were carried out to perfection. There were a number of presents for Mrs. Swab, and besides all wished her many more happy birthdays.

The Pink Label.

The Pink Label appears on the Centre Reporter this week. This indicates that credits on subscription paid between September 8 and November 9th have been made and appear on the Pink Label. The Pink Label appears on all papers, but it is of special interest to those who paid subscription between the dates named, and these are requested to examine the figures opposite their names and report if errors have occurred in making changes. Where no month is indicated the month implied is July; all other months are indicated. When no year appears the year implied is 1908.

Rebersburg.

Foster Bower, of Aaronburg, spent a day this week in town on business. Miss Mary Hoy, of Philadelphia, is at present visiting among friends and relatives in Rebersburg and vicinity. A number of people from this place attended the football game at State College, Saturday. Miss Miriam Auman is ill. Mrs. Scott Stover is visiting friends and relatives at Woodward this week. Miss Mittie Winkleman, of Nittany, a trained nurse, is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy G. Rearick, in Centre Hall, waiting on the second son that arrived in that family two or more weeks ago.

The election of Taft will have no effect on the Centre Hall applicants, which closed down before the election, and will not be opened again until a bountiful crop of apple are harvested.

Rev. William H. Diven, who entered the Lutheran ministry in 1858, died at Newport. At the time of his death he was living retired. Rev. Diven was well known in Central Pennsylvania synod, and filled charges in Mifflin and Clinton counties.

A process has been discovered whereby paper can be made from corals, and it is believed that after proper machinery has been constructed it can be manufactured much cheaper from this material than from wood, and at the same time a much better grade made.

R. D. Foreman, member of the first Foreman & Smith, has a second-hand rheumatism the neighbors in that portion of town are passing along from house to house. He thinks it is just as good as new, and has the quality of making all rheumatics limberlike. He was kept from business some days, but it is hoped his pains and aches will disappear ere long.

"The world owes me a living!" shouts "Weary Willie." But the world repudiates his claim, and the world is right in refusing to pay. The world does not owe Willie a living but it does owe him (and every other person) a chance to earn a living, says Edwin Markham in a symposium "If I Were a National Santa Claus," in the December Delicteator.

Rev. and Mrs. James J. Glenn, of Huntedale, Cumberland county, drove to Centre Hall arriving at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. Mary Goodhart the latter part of last week. They will remain until the latter part of this week before returning. Their drive was an exceptionally pleasant one, although they crossed a number of mountains. Rev. Glenn is serving a Presbyterian charge at the place named, and this is the first vacation taken since his marriage.

Harris Township.

J. Shoeb, of Millheim, passed through this place on Thursday, offering stock and poultry food for sale.

John Fry, of Fairbrook, and Miss Annie Fortney, of Pine Grove Mills, spent an evening with Mr. and Mrs. John Kimpfort.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ream, of near Penns Cave, visited over Sunday with the latter's sister, Mrs. N. W. Meyer, at Locust Grove.

Burn Near Martha Burned.

Wednesday night of last week the barn on the farm of Peter Meyers, near Martha, tenanted by his son, was burned to the ground, the fire being so far advanced when discovered that no attempt was made to extinguish it.

In addition to the building there were burned three horses, three head of beef cattle, farming implements, wagons, 300 bushels of wheat, a big crop of hay, corn fodder, etc. The total loss will amount to about $4000 on which there was only a partial insurance.

Mr. Meyers, who is a resident of Phillipsburg, but who was on the farm at the time, and son Charles both made narrow escapes, coming out of the barn just as it toppled over. The burning of the barn set fire to a valuable tract of woodland belonging to Mr. Meyers, and a full day was spent in fighting the flames.

The Hooven Mercantile Co., Dividend No. 72

The directors of The Hooven Mercantile Company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1 1/2 per cent. on the Preferred stock and 1 per cent. on the Common stock payable on December 1st to stockholders of record November 18th. Checks will be mailed.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamp, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and one dollar bottles are sold by all good druggists.

Don't make any mistake, but recognize the name, Swamp Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamp, N. Y., on every bottle.

Why We Are All Mimics.

"If we did not cough in church, the human race would not exist." And the professor, twiddling a piece of chalk in his hand, regarded the sophomores with a quizzical smile.

"What I mean," he continued, "is that the cause of coughing is the cause of our survival. That cause is mimicry. Mimicry is a better life preserver than fleetness or strength. For by mimicry we manage not to attract attention, and in prehistoric times they who attracted attention were hunted down by the tribe and roasted for dinner or hunted down by the saber tooth tiger and taken raw.

"Since those dark days mimicry has been instinctive with us. Mimicry is what causes us to follow the fashions. It causes us, when in England, to say 'cawn't' and 'lawf'. If your friend yawns, you yawn—that's mimicry. If he laughs, you laugh—mimicry again. And if he coughs in church, straightway you and all the rest of the congregation cough, the reason being the same one which saved our forefathers from extermination."—New York Press.

Famous Floggers.

Among English schoolmasters whose names have come down to posterity with the dubious reputation of great floggers Dr. Busby of Westminster school is the generally acknowledged chief.

Of him it is recorded that, one of his head boys having insulted a young French viscount who came to the school to demand satisfaction, he flogged the viscount first for the blood-thirsty intentions and next his friend who was the bearer of his challenge.

Dr. Valpy, too, who edited an edition of the classics, was a potent wielder of the rod. Archdeacon Groom, who was a pupil of his, tells a story in illustration of his prowess. One of the boys had been flogged by the redoubtable dominie, and the lad's father came to complain.

"Sir," said Valpy to him, "I flogged your son because he richly deserved it. If he again deserves it, I shall flog him again, and," rising, "if you come here, sir, interfering with my duty I shall flog you!"

A Famous Architect's Trick.

When Sir Christopher Wren was building the town hall of Windsor, a fidgety member of the corporation, so the story goes, insisted that the roof required further support and desired the architect to add more pillars. In vain did Sir Christopher assure him that the danger was imaginary. He knew better. The alarm spread, and the great architect was worried into adding the desired columns.

Years passed, and in later times, when architect and patrons were dead, cleaning operations in the roof revealed the fact that the supposed additional supports did not touch the roof by two inches, though this was not perceptible to the gazers below.

By this ingenious expedient did Wren pacify his critics, while vindicating his own architectural skill to future generations.

I'm Telling You.

Pat Murphy, who was in lodgings, was greatly annoyed by the landlady helping herself to his provisions. She began by taking a piece of his butter, and when Pat came home she said: "Pat, I'm taking a little of your butter, but I'm not like other landladies—I'm telling you."

Next day it was an egg, and so on. Every day there was something taken and put off with the remark, "I'm not like other landladies—I'm telling you."

Of course there was never any reduction in Pat's bill. One Saturday his bill came to a larger amount than usual. Pat looked at it, bundled up a few things in his handkerchief, walked to the door and said:

"Landlady, I'm sloping. I'm not like other lodgers—I'm telling you."—London Answers.

Beautifully Arranged.

Brown—Well, you've got the quarter. Is your sister coming down? "I've arranged it beautifully, old chap. I told her it was you first, and she said to tell you she was out, and then I said I was fooling and you ought to have seen her hustle to get into a clean shirt waist! She'll be right down!"

Not Surprised.

Skipper—I am inordinately sensitive to uncongenial surroundings, so much so that the very sight of some people will give me a nervous shudder. Chipper—Oh, well, there are very few of us that do not shrink from meeting our creditors.

No Hitch.

"How did the wedding come off today?" "Without a hitch." "Glad to hear it." "I said without a hitch. The bride backed out at the last minute."

Not Written.

"How do you write 'horn'?" asked the teacher of a small boy at the blackboard. "A horn isn't written at all," answered the little fellow. "It's blowed."—Exchange.

Like a Bicycle.

"What does the doctor say is the matter with Mirandy?" "He says she has pneumatic tendencies and that she is threatened with spinal trouble."—Baltimore American.

Why, Indeed?

The man who saves when he has little is called stingy. He that saves when he has much is said to be judicious.—Chicago Record-Herald.

She Lost Her Shoe.

While in Samoa Robert Louis Stevenson and his wife in a great measure did as the Romans did—that is to say, as the Samoons did. It was Louis' custom to lie abed late of a morning and spend the remainder of the time under a tree on the hill clad in light pajamas, the dress of the native Kanaka. With his wife it was the same. Stays were unknown to her and a curling iron a dim recollection of a shady past. It was while Stevenson and his wife were living at Apia, in Samoa, that Mr. Heywood was appointed consul there for this country. Shortly after his arrival in the country he arranged for a reception to the English, German and American residents of the country that they might meet him in his official capacity and he them as "citizens of Samoa." Of course an invitation was sent Robert Louis Stevenson and his wife. Two days before the date of the function Mr. Heywood was surprised to receive a note from Mr. Stevenson sent by courier. The note read as follows:

"Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson and Robert Louis Stevenson accept Consul Heywood's invitation with pleasure and assure him that they will be present on the evening of the 23d if by that time Mrs. Stevenson finds her other shoe. Ever thine, ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

Ancient Fashion Jargon.

The language of the fashion plate and the woman's paper is sufficiently appalling to the mere man even in these days of emancipated and, we may presume, more grammatical womanhood; but, according to an extract from a fashion journal of 1787, the jargon of those days was even more astounding. This is how the paper described the dress of a certain Mile. D. at the opera:

"She appeared in a dress of 'stified sighs,' ornamented with 'superfluous regrets,' the bodice cut in a 'perfect candor' point and trimmed with 'in-discreet complaints.' Her hair was dressed in 'sustained sentiments,' with a headress of 'sustained conquest,' ornamented with several 'flayways' and 'downcast eye' ribbons, and her collar was 'beggar on horseback' color."

"No doubt all these marvelous terms conveyed some meaning to the fashionable woman of the 'days when French society danced on the edge of the volcano of 1789, but to their descendants of today they have absolutely no meaning.

The First Hello Girl.

They were seated around a table in a well known cafe, and the conversation had turned upon the development of the flying machine and other fruits of the inventive genius of the day.

"Tut, tut!" exclaimed a solemn faced, lantern jawed member of the party. "What of it? The old folks were not so slow. Look at the telephone, claimed as a modern invention. Why, say, it's the oldest on record."

"You better see your doctor. What's the matter with you?" asked another. "Oh, I mean it," said the solemn faced man. "Telephone service dates back to the garden of Eden—that's where it originated. The garden's call was 2-8-1 Apple."

Then he dodged the remnant of a sandwich, reached for his hat and was gone.—New York Globe.

The Insuperable Anticipation.

A young Scotch emigrant was brought before the magistrate of a Nova Scotia court, charged with having deserted his work on a certain farm without giving due notice to his employer. When asked what he had to say in his defense, he replied, "Weel, they gied me nou't but brakeshaw to eat." Brakeshaw, it may be explained
