

FELL DEAD IN COMPANION'S ARMS.

Emanuel Fye and Josiah C. Rossman Start Early Tuesday Morning for a Day's Butchering and the Former Dies on the Way.

A sad death occurred Tuesday morning near Penns Cave, when Emanuel Fye died in the arms of his companion, Josiah C. Rossman, near the residence of Harvey B. Hough. Mr. Fye and Mr. Rossman had been engaged by Mr. Hough to assist him in butchering, and on the way there the former stopped at Mr. Rossman's house, and the two started off together, Mr. Fye being apparently in good spirits and physical condition. The two did not go far until Mr. Fye complained of severe pains on his breast. He sat down, and in a few moments he again continued toward their destination. On the way he became very weak, great drops of sweat oozing from his body. As they reached a point near the Hough home, Mr. Fye collapsed, and when Mr. Rossman came to a full realization of what was transpiring, he found his companion dying in his arms. He called, and some of the members of the Hough family heard him, and went to the rescue. The man was carried into the house, but life had left its temporal abode.

Mr. Fye, on his next birthday in May, would have attained the age of fifty-nine years.

Funeral services will be held at the house, on the Tibbens homestead, Friday morning, 9 o'clock; interment at Centre Hall, where services will be held in the Lutheran church by Rev. B. F. Bieber.

There survives the deceased a widow, nee Julia A. Meyer, and the following children: Mrs. William H. Homan, Centre Hall; Mrs. Charles Stover, Spring Mills; Harry E. Fye, Centre Hall; Minnie, at home; Mrs. Edward Jamison, Spring Mills.

Mr. Fye was a farmer by occupation, and for a number of years lived on the farms now owned by E. M. Huyett and Mrs. F. O. Bairfoot, near Centre Hall.

LEVI CONSER.

Levi Conser, for many years a resident of Loganton, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John A. Marshall, in Logk Haven. He was born in Lycoming county in 1819, and in 1822 with his father moved to Rebersburg. At the age of nineteen he opened a tailor shop in Loganton; then he engaged in the mercantile business in Loganton and Logans Mills. Later he became a lumberman in Dunns-town, but during the panic of 1857 he returned to Sugar Valley and began farming on the farm of his father-in-law, Anthony Kleckner. In 1863 he again opened a store in Loganton, and continued the business for twenty-five years.

Deceased is survived by four sons and four daughters, as follows: C. W. Conser, Williamsport; C. C. Conser, Ridgway; Prof. H. M. Conser, of Orono University, Maine; Dr. T. C. Conser, Sunbury; Mrs. John A. Marshall and Mrs. Lucretia Yoxheimer, Lock Haven, Mrs. George W. Bell, St. Joseph, Mo., and Mrs. Amelia Reynolds, Topeka, Kans. Mr. Conser was married a second time to Mrs. Bright, who also preceded him to the grave.

JACOB RUNKLE.

Jacob Runkle, for many years a resident of Bellefonte, but late of Youngstown, Ohio, died at his home Saturday, from heart trouble and dropsy.

The deceased was born in Penns Valley, and was aged fifty-nine years, nine months, eighteen days. He was the son of Samuel Runkle. For many years he was a traveling salesman and at one time kept a green grocery in Bellefonte.

He was married to Miss Margaret Coan who with the following children survives: William, Joseph, Lee, Charles and Mary, all of Youngstown.

He also leaves two brothers and two sisters, namely, John L., of Tusseyville; Samuel L., of Centre Hall; Mrs. Jerry Condo, of Spring Mills, and Miss Elizabeth A., Centre Hall.

The remains were brought to Bellefonte Tuesday morning and buried in the Catholic cemetery. Rev. McArdle officiated.

WILLIAM REED.

William Reed, of Reedsville, died from injuries received by being struck by a coal car. By contract Mr. Reed unloads the coal at Burnham, and it was while shifting cars the accident happened.

Mr. Reed is survived by a widow, nee Kate Wion, sister of Daniel Wion and Mrs. Harry Swabb, in this place. Some years ago Mr. Reed was employed in the Centre Hall roller mills.

Isiah E. Harr, of Philipsburg, died Monday evening of last week as the result of a ruptured blood vessel at the base of the brain. He was born in Maryland and was seventy-one years old. Thirty-two years ago he located in Philipsburg, where he has lived ever since. His wife died twelve years ago, but four sons and five daughters survive.

Mrs. Frances A. Bratton, wife of Perry M. Bratton, of Bradford, and a sister of Mrs. Anna Ayers, of Philipsburg, died at her home at the former

A Fire Averted.

Things are never quite as bad as they might have been. This was especially the case with M. N. Miller, tenant on the Grove farm, along Sinking Creek, on butchering day. A peculiar roaring was heard, and when the attention of Mr. Miller was called to what was supposed to be the roaring of a fire in the chimney, he suspected something wrong, and on looking over the buildings saw the roof of the wash house ablaze. He at once mounted the roof, and a portion of the barrel and a half of water on the premises was judiciously used, with the result that the flames were extinguished. Several square feet of the roof had already burned, and while Mr. Miller was battling the flames at one place, several other portions of the roof took fire, but these flames too were soon extinguished. In a very short space of time the fire would have gained such headway that the water supply on hand would not have been sufficient to combat it. These buildings are along Sinking Creek, but true to name the water in the creek sinks above the Grove farm when the stream is low, and this condition accounts for the very meagre supply of water at the time of the fire.

The cattle plague is something like the Irishman's flea—now you have it stamped out, and now you haven't. It leaps over one block of counties to develop in another. It is here today and there tomorrow. But sharp-eyed persistence will get the better of it by and by.

Almost all the hogs killed for private use or put on the market this fall were light in weight. The high prices paid last fall for dressed pork induced owners to fatten and kill every hog of marketable size, leaving for the 1908 crop nothing but small pigs. The greater part of the hogs offered this fall were bred within the present year.

After taking a brief rest from a strenuous hunting trip in the Seven Mountains with the Bradfords, Dr. J. K. Hosterman went to Ford City, Armstrong county, where he will again engage in the practice of medicine and dealing in real estate. He was formerly located there, and had not parted with all his interests on leaving a year or more ago.

Adam Neese, of near Millheim, will become the tenant on the J. C. Rossman farm, east of Penns Cave. Mr. Rossman will make sale of his farm stock, and move into the dwelling on the farm, located on the west of the regular farm buildings. Mr. Neese formerly lived on the Brass farm, east of Centre Hall, and is a good, all 'round man and farmer.

H. G. Strohmeier believes in rushing things to completion, and carried that idea into effect in building a dwelling house at State College. It is not long since ground was broken for the foundation, and now a tenant occupies a completed house. The structure is three stories high, brick cased, with all modern improvements. The lumber, which is said to have been the finest worked in that town for a long time, came from South Carolina.

Although the steers recently purchased by Messrs. E. M. Huyett, of Centre Hall; James C. Gilliland, of Oak Hall Station, and Struble, of Zion, were shipped from Chicago, Dr. Pearson and an assistant made an examination of the cattle recently, and declared them whole and sound. The steers in the possession of Mr. Huyett are a fine lot, and he is now assured that the attention given them and feed consumed by them will not be for naught.
