TORTOISE SHELL.

The Way the Plates Are Removed From the Animal.

The comb of tortoise shell has a very pale and translucent yellow, the only really valuable kind of shell.

"Many people think this pale, unmottled shell the cheaper kind," the fealer said. "Do you know why? Berause the imitations are all made like this.

"That is one vulgar error about shell. Another is that the tortoise is killed to get its shell casing. That is as absurd an error as it would be to say a sheep was killed to get its wool. "What is done is this: The fishermen, having caught a tortoise, the him and then cover his back with dry grass and leaves. They set fire to this stuff, it burns slowly, and the heat causes the thirteen plates of the shell to loosen at the joints. With a knige the plates are pried off, and afterward the tortoise is set free. The base, or root, of his shell is infact and will grow again. If tortoises were killed to get their shell they would long since have become extinct.

"No, no. Every tortoise is, as it were, a farm-a shell farm. Fishermen catch him regularly and with heat and a knife gently remove his shell."-New Orleans Times-Democrat.

COLORS IN THE OCEAN.

Various Causes For the Different Tints of the Water.

Sky and cloud colors are often reflected in the sea, but just as the air has its sunset glory so water has its changing tints quite apart from mere reflection.

Olive and brown lines in the waves off the coast come from the muddy sediment washed from the shore, as blues arise chiefly from reflected sky. But there are many other colors in the ocean. On almost every long voyage at sea spots of reddish brown color are noticed at one time or another. When a few drops of the discolored water are examined under a microscope myriads of minute cylinder shaped algae are seen, some separate, some joined together in scores. It is this organism-sometimes called "sea sawdust"-which has given the name to the Red sea, although it also abounds a chocolate hue for an extent of several miles, and this is caused by milllons upon millions of minute one celled animals which lash themselves Monday it was cloudy, and Tuesday along, each on his erratic individual
