Oklahoma City, Ok. (Special) .-Five companies of Oklahoma militia five years ago, and that he was conmarched against Crazy Snake's band of Creek Indians, half-breeds and negroes entrenched in the Hickory Hills, seven miles from Henryetta.

The heavily armed troops are under orders either to capture or exterminate the murderous band which, since Thursday, has caused the death of six men, the wounding of many others and brought about a condition of terror in Henryetta, Pierce and all the surrounding country.

The troops left Henryetta at 3 o'clock and reached Crazy Snake's camp at 9 o'clock P. M. They found it deserted and every tepee, hut and tent in flames. The Indians had fled to a stronger position to the north, where a battle likely will be fought.

Crazy Snake's men number about 200, all armed with modern rifles and plentifully supplied with ammunition. They had prepared two months for this, their final stand against lawful authority. They defiantly sent out word that they would fight to the death.

that they would shoot to kill from the first.

Crazy Snake's band strongly entrenched itself early in the day and was reinforced from time to time by roving companies which were scared away from Henryetta by the approach of the troops.

Crazy Snake, or Chito Harjo, the Creek chief, is in personal command. This was established by the testimony chocked out of his college-bred son by means of a nice, new, inch Young Harjo was strung up by the determined deputies until nearly dead. Then he gasped out that his father was in command, named the Indian who killed the deputies, told the officers how to trail the band, and did everything which a stoical red man is supposed not to do when in the hands of his

The Fashionable Circles Of Washington Are Greatly Shocked By The Tragedy In The Home Of Pierre Lorillard, Jr. - A Note Is Left, But The Bereaved Husband Refuses To Make It Public-Relatives Claim That The Death Was Accidental—Body First Discovered By Butler.

Lorlilard, the tobacco magnate of New York and Washington, was found dead in her bathroom at 8.30, and Coronor Nevitt, who was summoned by Dr. M. E. Cuthbert, the family physician, after an investigation and an autopsy by the deputy coroner, Dr. Glazebrook, gave a certificate of death by suicide. In spite of the coroner's certificate, members of the family declare that Mrs. Lorillard died of heart failure.

The death was made more dramatic by occurring only a few hours after Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard had been the guests of Mrs. Townsend on Massachusetts Avenue, at a dinner given in honor of Lady Paget. In fact, it is believed that as soon as Mrs. Lorillard arrived at her home, at Hillyer Place, shortly after midnight she began to prepare for her death. About 8.30 o'clock A. M. the butler in the Lorillard residence detected an odor of gas permeating the rooms. With little difficulty the ori-Lorillard's apartments. It is the sentiment of the delegation that acceptance of the operators' offer to renew the old agreement would be the wiser course, accepting any additional demand that the generosity of the coal operators

The men are preparing even to relinquish their erstwhile staunch support of the clause that brought the issue down to recognition or strike. It is no strike under any circumstances.

At a meeting of the officers of the three districts there was a division in the opinion as to the support of the recognition clause, and the committee, unable to come to an agreement on this point, decided to appoint a subcommittee to decide the question of policy. This committee consists of President Lewis, District Presidents Ryscavage, Fahey and McIlhenny

President Lewis and the district leaders were not anxious to relinquish that stand for recognition, but the delegates were quite willing to waive even this, realizing that the present situation is not favorable for a test of strength.

If the operators stand willing to sign the counter proposition made at the Philadelphia conference, the miners will reluctantly sign it, although the only question that will have to decided at the conference will be Reaffirming the demands already presented to the operators, the anthracite miners voted to remain at work after April 1, allowing the district executive boards of the hardcoal fields of Pennsylvania to continue their efforts to get an agreement satisfactory to the men.
