

ARBOR DAY OBSERVED.

Hon. C. Rhone Plants One Thousand White Pine Trees at Rhoneymede.

Arbor day was observed by Hon. Leonard Rhone by having planted on Rhoneymede one thousand white pine trees.

Under a law just passed, any one can secure trees at cost from the Forestry Department, and it is thought that this law will greatly encourage reforestation.

Besides the trees planted at Rhoneymede, Mr. Rhone was also instrumental in having fifty trees planted on the Methodist church site, east of Centre Hall, known better perhaps as the Pennington cemetery plot.

Grange Park was also remembered, fifty trees of various types having been planted there.

From Pittsburg.

C. D. Runkle, of Pittsburg, employed by the Knoxville Land Improvement Company, writes the Reporter lines that make the editor's chest expand some inches:

"We are always glad to receive the Reporter. You may know how eager we are to get the news in it, when you recall that we have been paying for two copies for a number of years that come to the same house.

"Knoxville has a population of a little over seven thousand, and we know little of hard times. The company my son and I are employed with is building fifty-five new brick houses, the work having begun the first of March, and now the brick work is half done, and by July first they will be entirely completed.

"We are all well and in good spirits."

Two Important New Laws.

The governor signed a number of bills which now are laws. Two of these are of local importance, and are these: Empowering auditors in boroughs, townships, poor districts and school districts to collect from any officials the amount of any loss that may occur through his neglect.

Authorizing townships of the first class and boroughs to acquire land by eminent domain for the use of parks or playgrounds.
