Man's Inconsistency.

Two men whose offices were on the second floor were on the first floor, waiting for an elevator. Long and impatiently they waited.

You're not looking extra well, Landsel," remarked the lawyer. "No, Rangle," replied the real estate man. "Think I'll join an athletic club. I need the exercise."

"Me, too." Still they waited for the elevator. -Kansas City Times.

Every Reader Will Concede the Truth of This Statement.

One who suffers with backache any form of kidney trouble wants a cure, not merely temporary benefit. Rev. Maxwell S. Rowland.

of Toms River, N. J., makes a statement in this connection that is worth attention. Says he: "I was suddenly taken with an attack of kidney trouble, bad severe pains in my back and loins and was generally run down. Doctors were not helping me, so I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They brought me prompt relief, and as I continued taking them the pains in my tack disappeared and the kidneys were restored to normal condition."

Psychology Of Murder.

There is an inclination gradually rising from the pleasure of seein? anything killed to the most over powering desire to kill. It is possible to pass by imperceptible gradation; from the extreme case to the norma. state in the following order: The pleasure of killing, the overpowering desire to kill, the pleasure of looking on at killing, the pleasure of seeing the blood of animals shed, the pleas. ure due to the representation of viclent and blood-thristy melodrama, and, lastly, the pleasure of reading bloodthirsty novels or hearing accounts of murders, which is purely an affair of the imagination. If there is one psychological law more firmly established than another, both by facts and argument, it is that every intense representation-i. e., ideaof an act tends to realize itself. How is it, he goes on, that artists who feel things violently never pass them into action? Because the law is in them subject not to an exception, but to a deviation by the creation of a work of art which delivers them from the haunting idea. Morbid art is thus a defense against abnormal tendencies which otherwise would tend to transform themselves into action. Mar being a carnivorous animal retains the trend of idea that the blood-in his acts of necessity and amusement is the main thing-he must always be killing something, and with many the killing is the chief object of life. -Current Literature.

THREE REASONS Each With Two Legs and Ten Fingers.

A Boston woman who is a fond mother writes an amusing article about her experience feeding her

Among other things she says: "Three chubby, rosy-cheeked boys, Bob, Jack and Dick, aged 6, 4 and 2 years respectively, are three of our reasons for using and recommending the food, Grape-Nuts, for these youngsters have been fed on Grape-Nuts since irfancy, and often between meals when other children would have been given candy.

"I gave a package of Grape-Nuts to a neighbor whose 3-year-old child was a weazened little thing, ill half the time. The little tot ate the Grape-Nuts and cream greedily, and the mother continued the good work, and it was not long before a truly wonderful change manifested itself in the child's face and body. The results were remarkable, even for Grape-Nuts.

"Both husband and I use Grape-Nuts every day and keep strong and well and have three of the finest, healthiest boys you can find in a day's march." Many mothers instead of destroying the children's stomachs with candy and cake give the youngsters a handful of Grape-Nuts when they are begging for something in the way of sweets. The result is soon shown in greatly increased health, strength and mental activity.

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly

Review of Trade says: All branches of business affected by the new tariff law are rapidly adjusting themselves to the amended schedules and the ending of the period of uncertainty as to the rates of duty to be imposed has already had the effect of stimulating trade. Reports from all the important cities in all the leading trades are most encouraging.

In the iron and steel trade each week serves to bring an increased volume of business to the mills and labor is in greater request. Advices from the principal industrial centers indicate that working forces are being enlarged whenever possible, and retail trade shows more activity as payrolls expand.

The trend toward fuller demand in the dry goods trade has been steady and conservative, many retail buyers being registered in the large central markets and jobbers report a more general call for merchandise. Ready-to-wear and specialty houses are particularly busy, but piece goods and knit goods are in better demand than at any time since the middle of the spring jobbing season. In the primary markets on cotton goods and yarns the uncertainty of prospects in raw cotton is still a factor in causing delay in naming prices on late delivery goods.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and un-qualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weak-nesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclaysays, it is "worth moun tains of gold" to suffering women.
