

DEATHS.

MRS. LUCINDA WEAVER.

Mrs. Lucinda Weaver, who had been ill the greater part of the time since March of last year, died at her home in Centre Hall Sunday evening.

Interment was made Wednesday morning, services being held in the Lutheran church, Rev. B. F. Bieber, pastor of the deceased, officiating.

Mrs. Weaver is survived by one daughter, Anna, at home, and one sister, Mrs. Lavina Shaffer, of Zion; and three brothers, namely: George Scholl, of Houserville; Thomas Scholl, of Aaronsburg; and James Scholl, of Farmers Mills.

The deceased was aged sixty-six years, one month and one day.

MRS. HENRY KLINE.

Mrs. Kline, widow of Henry Kline, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Stover, at Farmers Mills, Tuesday afternoon. Interment was made at Tusseyville, Thursday morning. She was the third wife of Henry Kline, and her maiden name was Clark, Moses Clark being a brother. Her age was seventy-eight years.

William Keeler died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jerry Lutz, at Nittany, aged seventy-one years, nine months and twenty-three days. He is survived by six children.

Frances Alice, the ten months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Tutten, died at their home on North Penn street, Bellefonte.

LOCALS.

Mrs. E. W. Crawford returned from the Bellefonte hospital Tuesday. Her condition is very favorable.

Miss Gertrude Keefe, of Youngwood, an operator in a railroad telephone exchange, was the guest of Miss Cora Brungart.

Harry Whitten & Company have a line of goods that will interest the ladies that will not be found elsewhere in the valley.

Rev. H. W. and Mrs. Buck, of York, and Mrs. Emma Buck, of Lewisburg, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Geary, in Centre Hall.

Mrs. G. W. Hosterman was seriously ill the beginning of this week, but has now much improved. Her daughter, Mrs. C. F. Shaw, came home Tuesday.

R. L. Emerick, of Smulton, who recently graduated at Mont Alto Forestry Academy, has been stationed at South Fork, Potter county, as a forest ranger.

D. A. Grove, the well-known horseman, will sell a car load of mule colts at auction, on Grange Park, Thursday afternoon, September 16th. See adv. in this issue.

The Harvest Home services, on Grange Park, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, will be conducted by Dr. W. H. Schuyler. The subject of his discourse will be "The Old Testament Farmers."

The present condition of Mrs. W. H. Schuyler, at the Bellefonte hospital, is very critical. In fact, there is little hope for her recovery. Mrs. N. B. Shaffer, also at the same hospital, is no better.

Take advantage of the opportunity to meet the public men who will be at the Grange Encampment and Fair next week. Of course, they are human, just like you are, but then there is nothing like rubbing up close to them and observing the stuff they are made of.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Snyder and Miss Hattie Snyder, of York, parents and sister of Rev. S. A. Snyder, are guests at the United Evangelical parsonage. Mr. Snyder, for thirty-five years, has been a school teacher in York county, and will again enter the school room on his return home.

No doubt you have heard some of these famous songs: "My Country 'Tis of Thee", "Hail Columbia", "Home Sweet Home" and many others. Possibly you have often wondered as to how they were originated, and what history was connected with each of these. The Philadelphia Press will tell you.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barger are at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Stump, of near Centre Hall. Mr. Barger for several years was station agent at Martins Furnace, on the Bald Eagle railroad, but several weeks ago resigned his position. Since then he made a trip through Northern Illinois. He expects to remain here for several weeks, and then will accept one of several positions he has in view.

The destruction of a large barn on a farm near North Liberty, Adams county, Ohio, caused a loss to the owner, Mrs. Lillie Alexander, of Centre Hall, of about $1000 on the barn, and $200 or $300 on the crop, making a total loss to her of almost two thousand dollars. Hon. W. M. Allison, of Spring Mills, went to Ohio in the interest of his sister, and adjusted matters pertaining to the loss, and also sold the farm, which contained one hundred and forty acres, and was one of four farms owned by Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. Frank McCoy, of Bellefonte. The barn was riddled, but proved no protection against the heavy charge of electricity.

MR. CLARK SPEAKS.

J. Wood Clark, the candidate for auditor general, in responding to the notification address, said:

The duties of auditor general are of more importance than the average citizen or voter may imagine, if indeed he has thought of the matter at all. In fact, the carelessness and indifference of Pennsylvania voters as to who they choose to public office, is a sad reflection on their judgment and good sense. The fact is, we could judge by the record of the past, and I refer more particularly to the period of construction and equipment of the state capitol building. I should say that our people have been misled by those who held up, and robbed, and here willfully blind and hopelessly indifferent people humbugged as a barker for a country circus hoodwinks his listeners by his blarney and the display of impossible performances on painted banners, and in exchange willingly and greedily accepts the proffered coin from the hand of the willing sinner.

Selected by Political Boss. You may ask, have those who previously held the position of auditor general, placed there by the leaders of the Republican party, have they been true to their constituents, honorable and upright in conducting the affairs entrusted to them as officers? Unfortunately, in one case, at least, we need not investigate the records of the office, nor call to your attention the names of any previous incumbents, but sadly and painfully refer to the criminal courts of Dauphin county, and the answer is contained in their records. Far be it from me to say that the Republican party as a political party is entirely responsible for the conduct of one of its members to whom they have entrusted the duties of a public office, but I wish to call your attention to the fact that the party has not chosen these representatives in the office of auditor general and state treasurer for many years. They, alas, have been dictated by the self-styled political boss, who sits in his office at Philadelphia, or in the senate chamber at Washington, and the Republican conventions at Harrisburg do as he bids without a protest. Republican citizens, the voters of this our grand and glorious state can take away this power, and it is your duty as citizens to take it away. Remove these public offices from corrupt bosses, and place it in the hands of those whom you may designate as proper parties to do your business as members of the business firm "State of Pennsylvania" by name. Let me ask you which one of you in the hearing of my voice would delegate the management of his private business here in Williamsport to a man whom you had no hand in selecting, but on the contrary was chosen by an outsider who knew nothing of your business, and who cared less as to its success.

A Change is Needed. I appeal to you as citizens, not as Democrats or Republicans, or Prohibitionists, or what not. The business part of a state, its management, its honest dealings ought to be taken care of by you, not by outsiders. We hold that a change in official care of the departments of auditor general and state treasurer is very much needed, and that the fair and impartial trial of one who happens to be a Democrat will not affect the party standing of any voter in the state.

In brief, the qualities necessary to the position of auditor general, in addition to an average education and a fair amount of ability, are a little bit of common sense, and a big bit of common honesty. Do not forget that when a corrupt dictator places a man of his selection in office, that man must do his bidding, though he approaches the gates of prison in so doing, and that situation may recur here in Pennsylvania, within your hearing. Let us do everything in our power to rouse the voters from their lethargy and indifference. Let all fair-minded citizens, independent of their political faith, join us, and do our duty toward our sovereign states.

Munson on Supreme Judgeship. Hon. C. Larus Munson amply justified the action of the Democratic state convention in his speech of acceptance. He showed not only a keen appreciation of the compliment bestowed upon himself, but a just estimate of the importance and dignity of the office for which he has been nominated. No man is worthy of such an office who is not thus equipped, and no man who accepts an appointment to the nomination at the hand of a boss can be so equipped. Mr. Munson said:

The honor conferred upon me by the free and unanimous choice of the Democratic state convention, voted by you as its representatives, constitutes a gratification not easily expressed. It is appreciated the more because your other nominees are such distinguished gentlemen as George W. Kipp and J. Wood Clark, whose abilities and high character eminently fit them for great service to the commonwealth in the important offices for which they have been nominated. Greater, however, than the honor is the call of a united Democracy to every citizen, irrespective of his previous political affiliations to join in a vigorous effort to vindicate the fame of Pennsylvania; by making impossible the spoliation of its treasury; by resisting any attempt to make seats upon her bench of justice a subject of partisan or private favor, and by wresting the state from the grasp of any combination whose motive is selfish and its bond of cohesion the division of the offices of the people as political spoils. The call to perform any part in such a movement transcends all personal considerations, and should be stronger than any party ties. It is the obligation of patriotism.

The office of justice of the supreme court is so long in term, is of such importance, involves so great responsibilities and demands such high qualifications as to command the serious consideration of every citizen of Pennsylvania. We elect the president of the United States and the governor of this commonwealth for terms of four years; and we choose our representatives in congress and in our state legislature for two years; but the justices of our supreme court hold their positions for terms of twenty-one years, so that during that time five presidents and an equal number of congressmen and governors will occupy their executive chairs, while ten congressmen and legislators may have followed each other in Washington and Harrisburg. Judged then by the length of term and the importance of the office, choice of our supreme court justices is most apparent, but measured by the duties of that great tribunal it is manifest that no office within the gift of the people, indeed no office of any kind, is of such paramount importance as that held by those who are chosen to sit in final judgment upon the rights of their fellow men. Legislation is created by our law makers, with the power in the executive only to approve or negative those laws, to enforce limited in action by the right of the law making body to override the veto by a proper majority of its members. But with the supreme court rests the greater power, not only of constraining legislation, but of actually nullifying it, if in their judgment such laws are in violation of the constitution. The executive authority as to these laws, although in a somewhat limited form, to the appointment to certain offices, but then only with senatorial consent, while the appellate courts may be called upon to place the matter as to the validity of the right to hold or the tenure of an office conferred by the gift of the executive, or even secured by the exercise of the elective franchise.

Powers of the Court. Important as are these duties of courts of last resort, there is a further power conferred upon those tribunals there may be how great, and another earthly position; a power which is one of the attributes of Divinity; that of judging without question and without appeal the rights of their fellow men as to their lives, their liberty of property. A man may live or die, as may be the judgment of the supreme court; he may be deprived of his liberty during his life or for a term of years as the result of a conviction of crime, or his property may be preserved or destroyed, as they may be judged; or his property may be conserved to him or swept from him forever as the result of a judgment indicated. It is, therefore, undeniable that there is no office within the gift of the electors of our commonwealth so important in the preservation of their rights, if properly administered, or so fraught with danger to all they hold dear, if unjustly exercised, as that of membership in the supreme court of Pennsylvania; a position which should be held by those only whose judgment shall be unbiased, perfectly just, and at all times wholly impartial and unprejudiced.

It was never intended by the framers of our form of government that the selection of those who are to pass upon the rights of their fellow citizens, whether in the courts of first instance or in the tribunals of last resort, should be placed in the hands of a small number of men, whoever they may be, nor how great their power; nor that those high offices should be the spoils of the politics or the rewards of partisan services; such a selection would be abhorrent to every good citizen, and we may well believe that Pennsylvania will never deliberately consent that the ermine of her highest judiciary shall come to the bench of that great tribunal smirched with the mire of the lowest form of political partisanship, or labeled with the proprietary mark of any clique or faction. Should the hour ever come when seats upon the appellate bench of our commonwealth—that last barrier against anarchy and civic destruction—shall in any degree be held by those who have been selected otherwise than by the will of the people first expressed in their preliminary convictions, and finally by their honestly taken and counted ballots at the polls, the day will have dawned when civil righteousness and liberty shall cease and wickedness and injustice shall direct our destinies.

Mule Sale on Grange Park. D. A. Grove, of Lemont, is now in Missouri, where he has selected a car load of young mules, two and arriving at three years old. They will be on exhibition at the Grange Park at Centre Hall during the Grange Encampment and Fair and will be sold at auction at that place, Thursday, at one o'clock, September 16th.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL. This is old home week at Huntingdon.

Miss Frances Schuyler, an able lecturer from Chicago, will deliver an address Sunday afternoon in the auditorium on Grange Park. She will take the place of Rev. W. H. Schuyler.

In addition to those whose names appeared in last week's issue as visitors to Williams Grove, the following also attended: John H. Weber, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Welker, of Centre Hall.

Mrs. Margaret G. Dikeman, of Washington, D. C., is making a visit to Huntingdon county, stopping with friends at Waterstreet. She is a descendant of the late Peter Durst, and has many relatives in this county.

Irvin G. Gray closed the deal whereby he became the purchaser of the great running horse, Lamptrimmer, from Dr. Rook, of Altoona. This will give him a string of four horses to take around the circuit this season.

Prof. E. A. Zeigler, who for some time was connected with the National Forestry Department at Washington, D. C., is now an instructor in the Mont Alto Forestry Academy. Mr. and Mrs. Zeigler have now located at Mont Alto.

HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION NEW YORK CITY

Three hundred years ago, Henry Hudson, an Englishman, in command of a Dutch expedition, with eighteen men, explored the Hudson River from Sandy Hook to Troy in his small craft, the "Half Moon."

One hundred and ninety-eight years later, Robert Fulton established, with his steamboat, the "Clermont," a regular water service between New York and the towns along the Hudson River to the North.

This year, New York City, with sister cities and towns along the Hudson, will celebrate these two achievements by a series of imposing observances, religious, historical, military, naval, musical and literary, extending from September 25 to October 9.

Replicas of the "Half Moon" and the "Clermont" have been built and will play a large part in the celebration. They will be the center of attraction in the great naval pageant on Saturday, September 25. The United States Government will have fifty-two war ships anchored in the Hudson, and Great Britain, France, the Netherlands, Italy, Germany, Argentina, Guatemala, Mexico, and Cuba will be represented by war vessels.

Two great parades of water craft will escort the "Half Moon" and the "Clermont" in triumphal procession past the war leviathans, first in the morning and again in the evening, when all the vessels will be illuminated.

On September 28 there will be a grand historical pageant, and on September 30 a big military parade in New York City.

On October 1, the "Half Moon" and "Clermont" will proceed up the Hudson to Troy escorted by hundreds of river craft, including torpedo boats.

A magnificent carnival parade will be held in New York on Saturday evening, October 2, which promises to eclipse all previous attempts.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, the direct line to New York, with its unsurpassed service of fast express trains, will sell excursion tickets to New York for this period at reduced rates of fare.

Full details concerning specific fares, dates of sale, return limits, and train service, may be obtained of Ticket Agents.

FRIEND FARMER

We wish to call your attention to the Weber and Columbia Wagons we have been offering you for the last few weeks through the columns of this paper.

In referring to the good qualities of these wagons we wish to say that nothing but the best of material enters into their construction; this combined with the best of mechanical skill, and the latest improved machinery designed especially for the construction of wagons, goes to make up these most complete and perfect wagons; not even the smallest details are overlooked.

The lumber used is selected by experienced men and is of four years' seasoning. The axles are of the very best grade of hickory. The hubs are the very best quality of white oak. The spokes are strictly A 1 grade of oak and hickory mixed and driven in hot glue.

The felloes are oak and are thoroughly soaked in boiled oil before tires are set, and are joined with improved steel dowels, which prevents clipping at the joints. They are exceptionally well ironed, light running and attractively painted, and in all a wagon that will give years of service.

We very cordially invite you to step in and examine these splendid wagons whether you are contemplating a purchase now or not. We want you to thoroughly understand their construction and see where they are better than the ordinary vehicle.

The important thing in buying a wagon is to know before hand what service it will give you; the important thing in selling them is to show you that, as well as we can, and then be sure that they are as good as we lead you to expect.
