The Usefulness Of Tears.

The psychological aspect of tears has interested thinkers for ages. That crying brings about certain mental crisis now and then is definitely asserted and, in all probability, very true. Every woman knows that nothing relieves her feelings more readily or lifts a strain from her mind more certainly than a good weep on occasions.

The physical aspect or tears, however, has never been considered very seriously by scientific investigators until these latter days, when all our lives center around these pestiferous things we call germs. Everything about us seems fashioned for one of two purposes-either to attract or repel germs. Tears are said to be gréat germ killers.

Wherefore, if the baby cries, for instance, be not distressed. It is good for the baby to cry; it rids the little thing of millions of bacteria. If your young boy stubs his toe and bawls with all the vigor of an offended nature not yet arrived at youthful estate, console yourself that, while his toe hurts, his tears are washing away hosts of micro-organisms that might otherwise work great havoc with his physical self. COMMERCIAL Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

From the principal cities come such reports as "large fall purchases," "active demand," "sales exceeding best previous years," "large number of visiting buyers" and "outlook for very active fall trade."

A striking proof of stronger business conditions is furnished by the large reduced total of business defaults. The improvement in the iron and steel trade is steadily maintain; ed with a heavy production of pig iron, a practically full movement of finished products and notably heavy buying by the railroads. The only department of this industry where there is room for considerable business is that of steel rails, but it is anticipated that next year's production will be much heavier than this year.

Bradstreet's says:

Trade and industrial tendencies are still in the direction of improve-Impetus is given these movement. ments by the beginning of the cotton harvest at the South, by the completion of the spring wheat harvest in the Northwest and on the Pacific Coast and by the gathering in of other products of agricultural interests in various sections of the country. In commercial lines jobbing trade still has the center of the stage, and reports are practically unanimous that buyers' excursions are stimulating fall demand as the close of the vacation period approach-es. Retail trade still largely deals with the disposal of fall goods, mainly at concessions.

SENSE ABOUT FOOD

Facts About Food Worth Knowing.

It is a serious question sometimes to know just what to eat when a person's stomach is out of order, and most foods cause trouble.

Grape-Nuts food can be taken at any time with the certainty that it will digest. Actual experience of people is valuable to any one interested in foods.

A Terre Haute woman writes: "1 had suffered with indigestion for about four years, ever since at attack of typhoid fever, and at times could eat nothing but the very lightest food and then suffer such agony with my stomach I would wish I never had to eat anything.

"I was urged to try Grape-Nuts. and since using it I do not have to starve myself any more, but I can eat it'at any time and feel nourished and satisfied: dyspepsia is a thing of the past, and I am now strong and well.

"My husband also had an experience with Grape-Nuts. He was very weak and sickly in the spring. Could not attend to his work. He was put under the doctor's care, but medicine did not seem to do him any good until he began to leave off ordinary food and use Grape-Nuts. It was positively surprising to see the change in him. He grew better right off, and naturally he has none but words of praise for Grape-Nuts.

"Our boy thinks he cannot eat a meal without Grape-Nuts, and he learns so fast at school that his teacher and other scholars comment on it. I am satisfied that it is because of the great nourishing elements in Grape-Nuts."

"There's a Reason."

It contains the phosphate of potach from wheat and barley, which combines with albumen to make the gray matter to daily refill the brain and nerve centres.

It is a pity that people do not know what to feed their children. Thereare many mothers who give their youngsters almost any kind of food, and when they become sick begin to pour the medicine down them. The real way is to stick to proper food and be healthy and get along without medicine and expense.

"MEMOIRS OF DAN RICE," THE CLOWN OF OUR DADDIES.

At Last, There is on Sale a Book Brimful of American Humor.

Any bookseller will tell you that the constant quest of his customers is for "a book which will make me laugh." The bookman is compelled to reply that the race of American humorists has run out and comic literature is scarcer than funny plays. A wide sale is therefore predicted for the "Memoirs of Dan Rice," the Clown of Our Daddies, written by Maria Ward Brown, a book guaranteed to make you roar with laughter. The author presents to the public a volume of the great jester's most pungent jokes, comic harangues. caustic hits upon men and manners. lectures, anecdotes, sketches of adventure, original songs and poetical effusions; wise and witty, serious, satirical, and sentimental sayings of the sawdust arena of other days. These "Memoirs" also contain a series of adventures and incidents alternating from grave to gay; descriptive scenes and thrilling events; the record of half a century of a remarkable life, in the course of which the subject was brought into contact with most of the national celebrities of the day. The book abounds in anecdotes, humorous and otherwise; and it affords a clearer view of the inside mysteries of show life than any account heretofore published. Old Dan Rice, as the proprietor of the famous "One Horse Show," was more of a national character than Artemus Ward, and this volume contains the humor which made the nation laugh
