the scholars in the school days of our parents were poorer spellers than they are now, considering the attention given the subject then. Now other branches occupy the time of the scholars at all ages.

Miss Mothersbaugh thought that perhaps the question could be answered in the affirmative. Prof. Henry M. Hosterman, who was the chairman of the institute, thought the ability to spell good a very necessary acquirement, especially in literary and business life. Years ago much more time was devoted to the subject than can be given it now.

Whether spelling could be best taught by oral or written lessons, was the phase of the question spoken on by Prof. H. C. Rothrock, Prof. H. F. Bitner and Prof. Neff. They failed to agree, but all admitted neither the oral nor written spelling should be used exclusively. There is a demand for the teaching of the primary methods of agriculture in the public schools, was the opening statement made by Dr. Bitner when discussing the subject assigned to him. Make your teaching vocational, so the pupil will be petter able to conduct the farm. The speaker spoke at some length on the value of moisture to the plant and how moisture might be conserved.

Ramer-Bodtorf.

Thursday morning, January 13th, Charles Ramer and Miss Sudie Boddorf, both of Milroy, the latter being formerly from Colyer, left for Bellefonte, where they were united in the holy bonds of wedlock. Immediately after the ceremony was performed the young couple left for a wedding tour through Jersey Shore, Erie and other points. After returning from their honeymoon trip, they will make Milroy their future home, where the groom has already the home furnished for his young bride. The groom is a plumber, and a prosperous young man, and promises to make a model husband. The bride is a highly accomplished young lady, of a quiet, pleasing demeanor, always bearing the highest respect of those who knew her. Their many friends wish them calm sailing on the sea of matrimony.
