HITS AN ICEBERG AND GOES DOWN

The Alaskan Liner Yucatan Lost During a Snowstorm,

SIXTY-FIVE PEOPLE ARE RESCUED.

Snow falling heavily when iceberg looms up—Ship rams the monster and tears great hole in its side—Headed full speed for shore, but goes to bottom in eight minutes—Men and women reach the island—Row fifteen miles for help.

Juneau, Alaska, February 17.—The steel steamship Yucatan, of the Alaskan Steamship Company, formerly a yacht used by George W. Perkins, of New York, bound from Valdez to Seattle, with 65 passengers, struck an iceberg in icy Strait yesterday and sank within eight minutes in six fathoms of water at high tide. There was no loss of life, and as far as is known, no one was injured.

The shipwrecked passengers and sailors are camped on Chichagof Island. They will be brought to Juneau tomorrow by the steamer Georgia, which left Juneau soon after news of the wreck was received.

First Mate Gustafson, of the Yucatan, and Capt. Raymond Jaeger, of the fishing schooner Alexandria, arrived here with news of the loss of the Yucatan.

The Yucatan was bound for Gypsum, on Chichagof Island, to take on a cargo of gypsum. When icy Strait was reached the water was smooth, but there were great fields of ice. Snow was falling so heavily that it was impossible to see far ahead. Capt. Porter was on the bridge with the pilot, Capt. John Johnson, who commanded the steamship Ohio when she was lost in British Columbian waters last summer.

Slow steam was ordered and the steamer crept through the ice. Presently an iceberg loomed up ahead and the steamship rammed it, tearing a great hole in the side of the vessel. Full steam ahead was ordered and the Yucatan was beached on Chichagof Island. The boats were lowered and all on board were taken ashore without mishap or confusion. The 19 women passengers were taken off first. Food and bedding and the United States mail also were saved.

On the island the castaways found cabins, and, with sufficient food, clothing, blankets and wood, are not likely to suffer. Many passengers lost their personal effects.

Soon after the crew had landed Captain Johnson, First Mate Gustafson and four sailors out in a lifeboat to seek aid. After rowing 15 miles they sighted the fishing schooner Alexandria. Captain Johnson and the sailors turned back to the island in the lifeboat, while Captain Jaeger and Mate Gustafson set out for Juneau in a gasoline launch, which broke down after going a short distance. The two men had difficulty in getting their craft to a Hoonah Indian village. The Indians refused to lend them a boat and the white men were obliged to row the heavy launch to Juneau.

Mate Gustafson could not say whether the Yucatan could be saved. It is a steel vessel built at Chester, Pa., in 1890, and was valued at $300,000. Last summer she was equipped as a private yacht at an expense of $50,000 and, flying the flag of the New York Yacht Club, carried George W. Perkins, of New York, and a party of friends on a pleasure trip along the Alaskan coast. After this trip the Yucatan was reconverted into a commercial boat.

A BOY'S MAD PRANK.

Created Panic in School By Shouting a Bomb Was in Cellar.

New York (Special).—"Look out; there's a bomb going to explode in the cellar in a minute!" was the cry that startled the several hundred pupils of a Brooklyn school.

The resulting panic was instant and narrowly escaped being disastrous. The children rushed for the exits screaming with fear. Luckily the staircases were ample and the efforts of the teachers to check the rush were successful enough to prevent serious injury to any of the pupils. There was no explosion and investigation disclosed no bomb or other explosive in the cellar.

It did develop, however, that a boy with Black Hand ideas in his head had taken a notion to play a serious prank, rushing into the school and shouting the alarm so that his voice could be heard all over the building. The police are looking for this boy.

On their arrival at Naples Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter will await the departure of the steamer Schleswig, which sails March 4 for Cairo, and arriving at the Egyptian port will at once proceed up the Nile to Khartoum, meeting ex-President Roosevelt there on March 14. Definite arrangements for the return journey, including the European itinerary of the party, have not been made, except that it is their present plan to go first to Naples, reaching there about April 1.

5 KILLED IN GEORGIA.

Passenger Trains Meet Head-On 19 Miles South of Macon.

Macon, Ga. (Special).—Five persons were instantly killed, eight seriously injured and a score slightly injured when passenger trains No. 2 and 5, on the Georgia Southern and Florida Railroad, met head-on at 5 o'clock, 19 miles below Macon, between Wellston and Bon-Aire.

It is stated that the accident was caused by the crew of train No. 2 misreading orders to meet train No. 5 at Bon-Aire.

Both engines, the mail and baggage cars and two day coaches were completely demolished. The trains were not running at a great rate of speed, but they met on a curve and the engineers had little chance to prevent the accident.

The wreck occurred in Dismal Swamp, and passengers described the cries of the wounded and dying as most pitiful and heartrending.

CALLS CONGRESS TO THE RESCUE

Taft Wants Publicity in Tax Returns.

THE PRESIDENT MAKES APPEAL.

Secretary Of Treasury Cannot Open To Public Inspection The Returns Of Corporations Unless An Appropriation Of $50,000 Is Provided For Clerical Hire—Snake Found In A Former Act—President Renders An Opinion.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—The returns made by corporations under the law imposing a tax of 1 per cent. on their net incomes are not to be open to public inspection unless Congress makes an appropriation specifically providing for accommodations and clerical help for that purpose. Somebody has discovered that an act passed in 1882 expressly prohibits the Secretary of the Treasury from using any part of the appropriation of $100,000 made by Congress for the "expenses of collecting the corporation tax" in the employment of persons within the District of Columbia.

President Taft is of opinion that Congress intended that the returns, original and corrected, should be open to inspection as are court records, and in a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury he has suggested that if the construction which seems to him to be the right one is to be carried into execution there must be an appropriation of $50,000 for the specific purpose. Following the President's suggestion, Charles D. Norton, acting secretary of the Treasury, has submitted to the Speaker of the House an estimate for an appropriation to the amount stated.

Strong opposition had developed to the publicity feature of the Corporation Tax Law and President Taft and his advisers have frequently conferred on the question of reaching a basis of administration of the act. The issue now is squarely before Congress and much interest is manifested as to whether that body in effect will re-enact the existing publicity provision by granting the appropriation recommended.

The President's Letter.

President Taft's attitude and views on the subject are voiced in the following letter to the Secretary of the Treasury:

"Washington, February 16, 1910.

"My Dear Mr. Secretary: On the question as to the meaning of paragraph 5 of the Corporation Excise Law, in section 38 of the tariff act of August 5, 1909, I have very little doubt. It seems to me that it was intended by Congress that the returns, original and corrected, but not the documents and evidence taken upon investigation, should be open to inspection, as are court records."

"I understand the difficulty that presents itself to you, to wit: That Congress, in the urgent deficiency bill of August 5, 1909, appropriated $100,000 for the expenses of collecting the corporation tax, and that it was assumed that this would enable you to use a proper part of the sum for increasing your clerical and other assistance needed to give the opportunity for the public inspection specified in the act. It will require at least $50,000, properly indexed and displayed the returns of more than 400,000 corporations, to house them in rooms convenient to access for the public and to provide clerks for the care and custody of them under such conditions."

"It now turns out, however, that by section 4 of the act of August 5, 1882, the Secretary of the Treasury is expressly prohibited from using any part of the appropriation of $100,000 made in the words of the statutes already quoted for the employment of persons within the District of Columbia. In other words, therefore, no appropriation exists with which to make the returns of corporations a public record available for public inspection in any different manner from that in which other internal revenue records are public records."

"In my judgment, the failure to make a specific appropriation for the purpose was an oversight, due to the supposition that the $100,000 might be applied in part to the purpose under discussion, and that it was, as already said, the intention of Congress to make these records different from the ordinary internal revenue records and really subject to general public inspection."

"But with the situation as it is, nothing remains to be done except for you to state the case to the House of Representatives, where appropriation bills are properly introduced, and to suggest that if the construction, which seems to me to be the right one is to be carried into execution there must be an appropriation of $50,000 for the specific purpose; and with a further statement that if no such appropriation is made the only course open to those who are executing the law in the department will be to treat the returns as other internal revenue records."

"Sincerely yours,

"William H. Taft."

FOREIGN NATION HONORS COMMANDER PEARY

King Humbert Gold Medal Awarded to Him.

Confers With Secretary Meyer With Reference To Leading To Lay Claim To Wilkes Land, Which Was Discovered By Another American, But Over Which No Flag Has Yet Flown—Bitterly Assailed By A Cook Adherent.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, had the unique experience of being decorated by a foreign scientific society and vituperated by a fellow-explorer and countryman. Furthermore, it was announced that Congress may supply funds with which the American who has been furtherest north will lead an expedition into the Antarctic seas to lay claim to territory discovered nearly 100 years ago by another intrepid American and over which no flag has yet been flown.

The Italian Geographical Society is the organization which has conferred the decoration on Commander Peary. In a cablegram received by Mr. Peary from Marquis Cappelli, president of the society, the latter says:

"Council Italian Geographical Society awarded you King Humbert gold medal on account your long successful attempts to reach the North Pole; silver medal Captain Bartlett. Please wire if accept intention lecture Rome May after London."

Commander Peary promptly replied that he was highly honored and that he accepted the medal. He withheld his acceptance of the invitation to speak in Rome, however, for he is in a measure now subject to the orders of the Navy Department.

Secretary Meyer, on whom the offer of the medal was made, had been called to announce that if it was decided to have Commander Peary head the expedition that will lay claim to Wilkes Land on behalf of the United States, President Taft probably may ask Congress to provide sufficient funds for the carrying out of the expedition.

Wilkes Land lies far down in the Antarctic, and was discovered early in the nineteenth century by Charles Wilkes, an American naval officer. It has never been considered of enough commercial or strategic importance to warrant its attachment by this government, and, for like reasons, no other country has cast covetous eyes upon it. In view of the interest now attaching to the search for the South Pole, it suddenly has become of importance.

Neither Secretary Meyer nor Commander Peary would divulge the nature of their conference, which occupied more than an hour. It is not improbable that the Secretary explained to his caller the reasons for the defeat in Congress of the attempt to have the explorer retired from the rank and pay of a rear admiral.

Mr. Peary will retain his present status pending action by Congress on the bill to retire him as a rear admiral. He will leave Washington soon for Europe, where he will make addresses before several scientific societies. If Congress fails to enact a law placing Mr. Peary on the retired list as a civil engineer, with the rank of rear admiral, it is probable he will resume active duty in the civil engineer corps of the Navy on July 1 next.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—The high cost of living was formally brought before the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia by Mrs. Mary W. MADRIZ' ARMY IN MATAGALPA

Insurgents Evacuate City in the Night.

GENERAL CHAMORRO HAD NO CANNON.

Government Forces Had The Nicaraguan Town Almost Surrounded, And Chamorro Escaped None Too Soon—He Deserts Estrada And Makes Overtures To Madriz, Which Are Unconditionally Rejected.

Managua (Special).—The forces of President Madriz have again taken possession of Matagalpa, which on February 10 was occupied by General Chamorro, one of the insurgent leaders.

The bombardment of the city, which was begun Sunday night, after notification had been given to the non-combatants to withdraw, was abandoned for some hours, and began again Tuesday. The government forces had heavy guns on the hills, but the insurgents were without means to reply at long range. Chamorro, therefore, deemed it advisable to retreat, and under cover of darkness evacuated Matagalpa at an early hour this morning.

Generals Lara, Chavarria, Martinez and Rivas, each of whom commanded sections of the government troops, re-occupied the city at noon. Chamorro did not escape any too soon, as he was nearly surrounded by the government forces, which had been brought up as quickly as the condition of the country would permit during the last few days.

It is reported here that General Chamorro has broken away from General Estrada and proclaimed himself president. Overtures have been made to President Madriz by Chamorro through the medium of the American consular agent, W. H. De Savigny at Matagalpa, for the re-establishment of peace. Chamorro's offer, embodied in a letter, is now in the hands of Vice Consul Caldera, and President Madriz has as yet been only unofficially informed of the proposal, but he has already given his answer, which is that the unconditional surrender and imprisonment of Chamorro are the only terms acceptable.

Lieutenant Commander Symington, U. S. N., and Lieutenant Price, of the marines, are proceeding to Matagalpa to observe the operations. It is stated that Rear Admiral Kimball has dispatched Lieutenant Commander Symington for the purpose of offering mediation to the belligerents but with instructions to do nothing arbitrarily.
