

THE CENTRE REPORTER.
THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1910

LOCALS.

With a view of improving his house, in Centre Hall, J. W. Whiteman will erect a new porch to the front of his residence.

Easter was a most beautiful day, and the prophet who forecast what that day would bring—in the weather line—was disappointed.

The well on the Dr. Runkle farm, east of Old Fort is now about one hundred and thirty-five feet deep. The rocks are exceptionally hard, but the operators will pound away until water is reached.

The Pardee estate secured a verdict of $15,000 against the White Deer Mountain Water Company, in the Union county courts, for the usurpation of the waters in White Deer creek. Suit was brought for $200,000.

Motorists will hold a good roads conference at Lewistown on the 22nd of this month. They are mostly interested in having the road through the "Narrow" east of Lewistown put into passable condition. With that link repaired, it is said there will be a fairly good motor road between Altoona and Philadelphia.

The Red Mill is now being operated by Albert Bradford, who moved there from Everett. The mill is the property of the John Auman estate, and was operated by Mr. Auman prior to his death. Mr. Bradford is the former owner's son-in-law and is an experienced miller, and no doubt will be able to build up a good trade at the well known mill stand.

Last week twenty veal calves were shipped to market by John G. Dauberman. The disposition on the part of farmers to sell veal calves at the high prices they command, is one of the reasons for the scarcity of cattle of all kinds. The farmer, in many instances, prefers to sell the calf at four weeks old from ten to twelve dollars, rather than feed it the high priced feed.

Because of having been elected to teach mathematics and science in the Mansquan High School, in Mansquan, New Jersey, Prof. J. Calvin Bright, now teaching the Walker Township High School, at Hubersburg, has resigned as principal-elect of the Spring Mills Academy, advertised to open May eleventh. This does not mean that the Spring Mills Academy will not be opened on the date named, but that some other capable instructor will be selected from among several applicants.

Spring Mills.

High tariff and high cost of living has no terrors for this thriving town. A company is being organized here by some of the business men to put on the market a panacea for the cure of all ills, and also have copyrighted a plan whereby anyone, in less than fifteen days actual labor, can earn a competency. It has already effected a boom in Spring Mills. Several new houses are going up, and the heretofore idle smoke stack at the planing mill is belching forth smoke.

Merchant C. P. Long, on the 15th and 16th of April, will have the opening of what will be the greatest apartment store in Central Pennsylvania. Carpenters, painters, plasterers and paper hangers are at work making large additions to his already roomy store. C. A. Long, of Williamsport, will have the exclusive supervision of the shoe, hat, clothing, gents' furnishing department and ladies' department. D. M. McCool will look after the grocery and tobacco department. Howard Houser will attend to the hardware department. C. P. Long will give his entire attention to buying and selling on a large scale, for which purpose he is having erected an immense storage building along a railroad siding.

The Penns Valley I. O. O. F., No. 270 Encampment officers are these: Chief Patriarch, M. P. Duck; Senior Warden, William M. Grove; Junior Warden, B. F. Kennelly; Scribe, A. C. Dunlap; Treasurer, W. C. Meyer; High Priest, W. H. Sinkabine.

Butcher "Bill" Meyer, not to be outdone by a prospective department store, nor a milliner, had his grand opening last Saturday. "Bill" leads, never follows, and thoroughly distinguished and renovated his sales room, and up she goes—the price of meat. "Bill's" increased shop trade necessitated him to drop the veal calf business.

W. F. McClelland, rural carrier on Route No. 3, made his rounds with an auto one day last week. He came in o. k., but not ahead of time. He puts the blame on the construction of the machine, which was a Missouri make. C. C. Bartges recently installed into his office one of the latest makes of the Oliver typewriters.

The many friends of Rev. J. Max Lantz rejoice in the fact that he was again returned to this charge.

The rural mail carriers report the wheat fields not looking as promising as ten days ago, and unless there is rain shortly, the possibilities are wheat will again starve in price.

The state forestry department recently purchased 317 acres of land from the Laurelton Lumber Company, in Miles township.
