Planets Five

Short Lesson in Astronomy Which Most of Us Have Forgotten

By Charles Nevers Holmes

E hear and read a good deal about our earth, Mars and Venus; occasionally we should recur to the five other planets, Mercury, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. Of these Mercury is the nearest to the sun, although at one time it was supposed that a non-verified body (Vulcan) revolved between the sun and Mercury. Mercury is the smallest of the planets (somewhat more than a twentieth of the volume of our earth) and his "year" is also the shortest (only 88 days). As Mercury is the midget planet, Jupiter is the giant. His diameter is over 86,000 miles and his volume 1,309 times that of our earth. Jupiter possesses accordingly a gravity or pull equal approximately to the total pull of earth, Venus and Mercury combined. Jupiter's density or solidity is, however, only about that of the sun, or about one-quarter that of our earth.

Saturn is also a great planet-some 760 times as large as our own world. This yellowish body possesses several unique features. One of these features is his three wonderful rings. Another feature is his ten or more satellites. His low density or solidity is another peculiarity, Saturn having only thirteen one-hundredths of the density of our earth.

Usanus and Neptune are properly telescopic planets, for both are more than a billion miles away. Both are many times larger than our earth, although possessing less density and less gravity. Both take a very long time to revolve once around the sun, Neptune occupying about 60 000 days. Uranus was discovered in 1781 by the famous astronomer Herschel, and possesses four known moons. Neptune was discovered in 1846 by Adams and Leverrier, and possesses only one known satellite.

But let a neryous breakdown occur and the fear gains a firm hold upon the sufferer, who may be doomed to a life fraught with much misery." # In Wall Street's Wild Rush? @ ~~~~~

By Jasper in Leslie's

Q REMEMBER very well, about thirty years ago, when New York was completely swept off its feet by an extraordinary speculation in mining stocks. I shall never forget one pathetic incident of that short-lived and excited speculation A young man of little means, who had become secretary of a mining company, got caught in the swirl, and through lucky purchases of large blocks of cheap stocks suddenly found himself worth $200,000-that is, if he could have disposed of his holdings at the market pirce. I besought him to do so and predicted the speedy collapse of the mining boom, and I shall ever recall the look of mingled pity and contempt with which he regarded me as he exclaimed, "No, sir! I shall make it $250,000, and then, with a quarter of a million, I shall be ready to quit." Within three days the boom subsided and the rush to unload resulted in a panic in the mining market. I was shocked and horrified when I picked up the morning paper and read of the suicide of my friend. He had shot himself to death in his bed-chamber in the face of financial ruin.

We Must Help Each Other

By Governor Charles E. Hughes, of New York

VERYTHING is as naught if, as we progress, we do not come closer together in a realization of opportunities for service to our fellows and in appreciation of the extent of misfortune which may be prevented or relieved. The success which is indicated in the facility of communication, in the activities of markets, and in the products of manufactures is important, indeed; but its importance must be found ultimately in those other qualities which are represented in a growing solicitude for an improved condition and for the real betterment of the great masses of ourpeople. The thing that we are proud of in America today is the enlarging area of opportunity and the concern of those who have been favored by their talents or fortune for those who are less favored. That is the real pride of our national life.-From Leslie's.

こういいいい しょういい しょういいいい しょうしゅういい They asked for the People's Highway.

They asked for the People's Highway, though never a word they spake; Dim in the wind of their flight, defeatured, unbuman, they spurred, Dim in the whirling dust that they left in their fatal wake—
They asked for the People's Highway! . . . (The People said wever a word).

They have run down a child; and yet, who will say that theirs was the blame? The child in the road—it fluttered—as silly as fledgling bird!
They turned to the right, they turned to the left, and the child the same—But they could not stop on the Highway! (The People said never a word).

They have crushed the old lame man, as home from his work he went— Or, was he deaf, that not at the signal repeated he stirred? He kept the road, in his stupid way—the warning was sent— But they could not stop on the Highway! (The People said never a word).

The People are slow of speech, but their thought is to-morrow's law;
And the bolt of their judgment the heavier falls the longer deferred.

When the Red Car mocked and the Black Car scowled, and the People saw
That they would not stop on the Highway—hark to the People's word:—

"Beggars!—a road of their own with their wealth let them build, if they will,
And leave what is ours to us—the right of the plodding herd!
Let the Red Car lord it, the Black Car rage with the Red, to kill—
But not on our Highway. This is the People's Will and Word."

Barbarous Butchery of Our Seals

By Robert D. Hein!

MORE revolting story has never been recorded than the savage plunder of our magnificent Priblioff Island fur seal herd by pelagic sealers, Japanese mostly, Canadians and avaricious sea hunters, who kill the mother seals while they are in the water seeking food for new-born cubs. An idea that a crisis has been reached in unscrapulous seal killing may se had from the fact that there were about 4,000,000 seals in the Pribiloff herd when the United States government purchased Alaska from Russia in 1867. Twelve yea,s ago there were 375,000. Today the herd presents the pitiable spectacle of less than 140,000. There are now fewer than 50,000 female breeding seals. President Taft, brought to realize the impending extinction of the herd, has just issued a special message to Congress, urging a closed season for the islands and a repeal of the provision authorizing the renewal of the lease of the North American Commercial Company, which has the privilege of killing a certain number of surplus young male seals on land.

The seals are highly polygamous and the adult males gather about them from one to seventy-five cows, a group designated by the seal hinters a harem. Bulls try to steal cows from neighbors' harems, and there are fights in which the cow in question is often torn to pieces. After being on land for three or four days the cow gives birth to a pup. Then she goes to sea to get food for the offspring, going as far as three hundred miles from the islands to the feeding grounds. The harem formation lasts until July 20th. After that the cows visit the bachelor seals, who are obliged by the old males to haul up at a point not frequented by breeding seals. The seals migrate from the islands about November 1st. By the first of the year the females. are seen as far south as California, three thousand miles away. The breeding males seldom go below the Gulf of Alaska.

During the journey to the feeding banks in search of sustenance for her young, the female gorges herself with food and sleeps on the water during the process of digestion. She becomes an easy prey to hunters , who with shotgun and spear pitilessly attack the defenseless seal, which is either killed at once or, as is often the case, horribly mutilated. Seals in motion are shot. Those asleep are speared. In many cases a seal shot in the water sinks and is not recovered. Each female seal murdered means an infinitely larger loss of seal life. A cow seal gives birth to a pup each year for probably ten years. When the female seal is slaughtered in the water, the unborn cub is dstroyed and the new-born cub on land starves to death. Each mother seat tilled means at least three lives, not taking into account cubs which might have been born in ensuing years.

"The extent of our loss may be seen when it is known that we have permitted nearly 300,000 fur seals, having a market value of over $5,700,000, to be appropriated by aliens, and have encouraged those nefarious pelagic operations by which additional fur seals, having a value of $5,000,000, have been killed at sea, but not recovered." George M. Bowers, commissioner of the Bureau of Fisheries, said; "while through the slaughter of breeding females, their pups-on the islands, unborn and prospective-with a potential value of $20,000,0000, have been sacrificed and wasted." The pending negotiations are said to be not only with Canada, but with Japan. It will depend upon the success of these conferences whether the seal, like the buffalo, may become extinct.-From Leslie's Magazine.
